ARMY REJECTS NAVY PROFFERS IN GRID BATTLE

West Point's Head Firm in Refusal to Alter Eligibility Rule.

STAND IS SUSTAINED BY SECRETARY GOOD

Admiral Robison and Gen. Smith Seek in Vain to Effect Truce.

MILITARY ACADEMY HAS NO COMPROMISE

Institution Chiefs Part With Football Deadlock Unbroken.

(Associated Press.)

Army and Navy sought to reconcile their differences over athletic relations yesterday, but in the end found themselves as far apart as ever.

The Naval Academy made three proposals looking to a compromise of the dispute. All were rejected by the Military Academy. Relations were severed in 1928 because of a demand of the Naval Academy that the other service institution abide by the three-year eligibility rule.

The Military Academy offered no compromise. It stood on its historic principle that all cadets should have equal opportunity and that any student who is proficient in his studies is entitled to represent his school in any branch of sport, regardless of previous experience in intercollegiate athletics.

Secretary Good issued a statement last night expressing regret that the effort to reach an agreement had failed, and at the same time upholding the stand taken by the Army.

Meet in Pershing's Office.

The effort to end the deadlock was made by the superintendents of the two academies, Maj. Gen. William R. Smith, of West Point, and Rear Admiral Samuel S. Robison, from Annapolis.

They met in the office of Gen. John J. Pershing and discussed the differences which had failed to yield to correspondence. They found they could not agree and parted without any suggestion that they might meet again in the near future.

Gen. Smith issued a statement reasserting the Military Academy's stand and declaring "I do not believe in compromising a principle."

At a conference with newspaper correspondents last night he emphasized that "West Point is anxious and willing to meet Annapolis on the gridiron or in any other sport under the same conditions we play all other colleges."

He would be willing to resume negotiations looking to resumption of athletic relations, he said, at any time and on any basis not involving a sacrifice of the principle of equal opportunity for cadets in all fields of endeavor which has always been in effect at the academy.

Admiral Robison returned to Annapolis without commenting, but Secretary Adams issued a statement during the afternoon summing up the effort from the Navy's standpoint.

Proposals by Annapolis.

"The superintendent of the Naval Academy," he said, "entered the conference assuming that the difference of opinion between the two academies was an honest one, and he therefore felt that to reach an agreement both the superintendent of the Military Academy and the superintendent of the Naval Academy would have to yield to some extent. The superintendent of the Military Academy refused to make any compromise offers."

One of the three proposals advanced by Admiral Robison, as outlined by Secretary Adams, called for a gradual adoption by West Point of the civilian intercollegiate rules to which the Naval Academy adheres, so they would be in full effect there at the end of four years.

The second was for adoption of a four-year eligibility rule for its players by the Military Academy.

The third called for resumption of relations under an alternating arrangement whereby the Military Academy's position would govern for two years and the intercollegiate three-year varsity rule for a like period.

Navy's Action Recalled.

Commenting last night, Gen. Smith recalled that he pointed out to Admiral Robison that "what he was asking for was not eligibility but parity, which charge he admitted."

"The American people want to see a football game played on the gridiron and not in the conference room," he remarked.

Both he and Secretary Good recalled that the Naval Academy broke off athletic relations with the Military Academy while a four-year contract was still in force, and Gen. Smith emphasized that the West Point authorities were reluctant to have the competition ended in that way. The Military Academy, he related, rejected

WHITE ESSAYS ROLE OF G. O. P. PACIFIER

Kansan Girds Editorial Loins to Bring Progressives and Hoover in Line.

NORRIS RECORD LAUDED

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

William Allen White, Kansas newspaper editor and public utterer, was in town yesterday acting and talking as if he were trying to get President Hoover and the progressives together.

He went first to see Senator Norris, of Nebraska, and came away proudly waving a copy of the senator's bristling defiance of the administration, announced Tuesday night.

"I am for Senator Norris first, last and all the time," the white-haired Kansan declared.

Then he went to the White House for luncheon with the President and coming away from there, he said:

"The progressive senators and President Hoover are of one mind on so many things I can't understand why they don't work together. Herbert Hoover is the most progressive-minded President since Theodore Roosevelt. He and the progressives need a liaison agent who understands both of them."

Wherefore, apparently well satisfied with his day in the Nation's Capital, the one of the few, as far as it can be recalled, since Hoover was inaugurated, went on his way, presumably back to Kansas. There was the plain intimation that he considered himself qualified for that liaison agent of which he spoke.

Asked, as he left the White House, if his good words about the Nebraska senator still stood, he declared, "Absolutely." In this earlier utterance, White had said:

"He (Norris) is the kind of a man the country needs in the Senate. His defeat for reelection would be an irreparable loss to the country and to Nebraska. If Senator Norris wants me and believes I can be of service I will campaign for him in Nebraska next year. I am going home and write an editorial telling just what Norris has done for the country and why I believe in him. Without such as Norris and Borah the reactionaries would control this Government of ours and that would be—well, that would be just too bad."

Bearing also on this dark cloud in the Republican party and of White's appearance as the silver lining, was the statement of former Gov. McKelvie of Nebraska, who, Norris had declared, had been placed on the Farm Board as a part of the administration's plan to crush him next year.

The Nebraska senator "is engaged in setting up straw men and shadow boxing," said McKelvie. He asserted he was out of politics and "indulging in no political activity whatsoever."

"The senator from Nebraska probably was looking for a challenge," McKelvie said. "I am out of politics and have been out since I retired from the

CLEMENTEL SEEKS NEW PARIS CABINET

BRIAND SCORES ENEMY

Paris, Oct. 30 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Etienne Clementel, president of the senate finance commission, was entrusted today by President Gaston Doumergue with the difficult task of forming the next French government.

The senator from Puy de Dome, who was finance minister in the Herriot government and is now president of the International Chamber of Commerce, was summoned to the Elysee Palace following the failure of Edouard Daladier, leader of the radical Socialist party, to assemble a cabinet capable of obtaining a majority in the Chamber of Deputies.

Clementel is a member of the Guche Democratique group in the senate, to which former Premier Joseph Caillaux also belongs. It corresponds politically to the radical Socialist party in the Chamber. Clementel, however, belongs to the conservative wing of his group, while Daladier is the leader of the more radical section of his party.

Doumergue picked Clementel to form a cabinet, it is said, because establishment of a broad stable government is possible only with the support of the radical Socialists, the strongest single group in the chamber.

This support has been lacking for a year, ever since Daladier at his party's congress at Angers induced the radical Socialists to pledge themselves to a straight radical program. He introduced a resolution forcing members of the party to resign their cabinet posts, thereby bringing down the last Poincare government.

The radical Socialists approved a similar program at their congress at Rheims last week, at which Daladier was unanimously reelected president of his party. A large minority in the party is, however, prepared to vote a resolution making it possible for the radical Socialists to support a moderate government.

Clementel's chances of forming a cabinet are compromised by a controversy which has arisen between Daladier and former Premier Aristide Briand, one of the most bitter to envenom French politics for years.

Daladier announced today that Briand betrayed him. Briand replied that the radical Socialist leader is trying to make him responsible for his failure to organize a cabinet.

According to Daladier, Briand promised to enter, as foreign minister, any government Daladier was able to get together. But after the Socialists refused to participate in a government headed by a radical Socialist premier, Daladier said, Briand last night refused to continue his promise to remain in a more restricted combination. This, said Daladier,

COURT'S ACTS IN IHME TRIAL ARE ATTACKED

FURTHER DETENTION IS CALLED ILLEGAL

Constitutional Rights of Prisoner Are Violated, Petition Asserts.

NEW CHARGES BASED ON OLD FACTS, CLAIM

Proceedings Concern Same Happenings on Which He Won Liberty, He Says.

A scathing arraignment of Chief Justice Walter I. McCoy for his refusal to release Carl Phillip Ihme from jail after a jury in Criminal Division, No. 3, District Supreme Court, had found him not guilty on a statutory charge is contained in a petition for a writ of habeas corpus filed yesterday by Attorneys John P. Mullen and Harry Barger on behalf of the incarcerated man.

The petition charges that after the not guilty verdict was returned "it then and there became and was the duty of the chief justice to order, direct and cause the release and discharge of the petitioner from further charges upon which his futher detention could be predicated."

Ihme was taken before United States Commissioner Needham C. Turnage less than 24 hours after he had been found not guilty by a jury on the statutory charge and was ordered held for action of the grand jury under $5,000 bond. The complainant in the charge is Nainette K. Adams, a policewoman attached to the Womans Bureau.

Detention Sought, Claim.

In this connection the petition charges that her action was instigated by the chief justice or the United States attorney "or both of them" and alleges that this action is for "the sole and only purpose of making a colorable showing or excuse for the further detention of petitioner until such time as the United States attorney can procure, or attempt to procure another and further indictment."

Ihme's acquittal on the statutory charge, which carried with it a maximum penalty of death in the electric chair, created a sensation in legal circles. The Chief Justice at first ordered that the verdict not be recorded, lectured the jury on its verdict, and ordered the defendant remanded to jail. Later the Chief Justice ordered the verdict recorded but indicated that he would have the man held under the Mann act.

During the trial of the statutory charge, Ihme admitted on the stand that he had taken the girl, said to be 14 years old, to Baltimore for immoral purposes. He declared, in extenuation, that she had placed their relations on a commercial basis.

Writ to Be Sought Today.

Mullen, who represented Ihme in the trial, and Barger, who has joined him as counsel since the acquittal, declared yesterday that bright and early this morning they would seek to have Justice Wendell P. Stafford sign a "forthwith writ" which will require Lieut. Col. William E. Peake, the District jailer, to bring Ihme immediately into court. The attorneys endeavored last night to locate the justice, but were unsuccessful. They explained that habeas corpus action involves equity and that therefore it could not be brought before any justice assigned to criminal or law cases, except in an emergency.

The attorneys state that they hope to have Ihme liberated before nightfall.

Partial Text of Plea.

The petition says in part:

"That on said Monday, October 28, 1929, after having theretofore pleaded

DOYLE INSISTS ON ALL-CIVILIAN BOARD AT TRIAL

Counsel Will Challenge Any Police Named to Hear Case.

NOTE BARS EMPLOYES OF U. S. AND DISTRICT

OPPOSITION RAISED TO PRESENT BOARD

Accused Captain's Move Comes as Surprise to Commissioners.

Capt. Robert E. Doyle, suspended commander of the Eighth Police Precinct, yesterday demanded appointment of an extraordinary trial board composed of "substantial and professional men of the City of Washington" to try the charges against him of conduct prejudicial to the good order and reputation of the Police Department.

Not only did Doyle demand the appointment of a special trial board, but he accompanied his demand with a warning that he intended to take advantage of a loophole in the police regulations providing for trial boards and force compliance with his demand by challenging every police officer or private who might be named on the trial board.

Doyle's demand was made in a letter written by his attorneys, Chapman W. Fowler and T. Morris Wampler, to Maj. Henry G. Pratt, superintendent of police. The challenge of the Police Trial Board, already once reorganized by Maj. Pratt in response to a request from Doyle, was contained in a second letter.

Captain's Action Unprecedented.

The action of the suspended police captain was unprecedented in police annals and no one would forecast last night what would be the outcome. Neither Maj. Pratt nor other District officials received the letters yesterday which were put in the mails, according to Wampler, at 4 o'clock in the afternoon and immediately made public by the Doyle attorneys.

The letter demanding appointment of a special trial board follows:

"As attorneys for Capt. Robert E. Doyle, against whom charges are now pending, we hereby request, on his behalf, that a special board be constituted to try the said charges now pending against Capt. Doyle, and we request that the personnel of the special board thus constituted shall not contain within its membership any members of the Police Department of the District of Columbia, any officer or employe of the District of Columbia Government, or any officer or employe of the United States Government, and respectfully request that the personnel of the said board may be selected from among the substantial business and professional men of the City of Washington."

Police Officials Challenged.

The letter challenging the personnel of the reorganized police board and forecasting Doyle's determination to challenge any other officers or privates who might be named as substitutes, follows:

"As attorneys for Capt. Robert E. Doyle, now on charges before the trial board, we hereby challenge the right of Lieut. Stoll, Capt. C. P. M. Lord and Capt. William E. Sanford, to sit as members of the board to hear the charges against Capt. Doyle.

"We further challenge the right of all of the alternatives to sit as members of the board to try the charges now pending against Robert E. Doyle."

"There is no limit to the number of officers we can challenge," Wampler said in amplification of the second letter challenging the new personnel of the trial board. "We can sit back and challenge every inspector, captain, lieutenant, sergeant and private as fast as they are named.

"We do not have to give any reason for challenging the men named. When we have run through the entire Police Department we can sit back and say, 'Well, what are you going to do now?'"

Appeal to Courts Seen.

What the outcome would be Wampler said he could not forecast. There is no provision in the police manual to care for such a situation, he said, adding that "whoever wrote the manual never thought of such a situation arising." He added that there was a possibility that the challenges might be overruled and in that event Doyle would have a legal technicality on which to appeal to the courts if the trial board finds Doyle guilty and the verdict is approved by the District Commissioners, who comprise a court of appeals from the trial board decisions.

Doyle's demand for appointment of an extraordinary trial board came as a surprise, although it followed a similar demand made by Private Robert J

Rush of "Small Fry" for Shares Marks Turn of Panic Tide.

EXCHANGE TO CLOSE TWO DAYS OF WEEK

Move Is Decided Upon to Let Clerks Make Up Lost Sleep.

ROCKEFELLERS BUY SUBSTANTIAL AMOUNT

Statement Spurs Trading Near Last; Banker Pool Will "Stand By."

New York, Oct. 30 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Fear was transformed into confidence and confidence into cupidity in Wall street today, bringing to an apparently definite conclusion the greatest securities panic in the history of the world.

Dollars turned the tide where well-meaning statements had proved futile. The thought of the financial district changed from loss to profit. As expected, the strong investment buying which appeared Tuesday was continued.

Largely unexpected, there developed a rush of "small fry" bargain hunters which amazed veteran brokers and bankers. The market had lost one public and gained another, a public which regarded the decline as an opportunity rather than a disaster.

Its odd-lot buying cluttered the quotation tape, putting it 1 hour and 44 minutes late at the close despite a substantial contraction in the total volume of trading. This demand, which lifted prices as violently as they had been swept down on Tuesday, was stimulated when various prominent financiers announced not only that they regarded business as sound but that they were buying stocks.

Raskob Among Buyers.

The list was headed by John D. Rockefeller, whose plain statement that he and his son were taking advantage of the slump to pick up bargains attracted widespread attention. It also included John J. Raskob.

In recognition of the passing of the crisis, the governing committee of the stock exchange voted to open the institution two hours late tomorrow and to keep it closed Friday and Saturday. The extended holiday was agreed upon after conference with the banking group which has been applying stabilizing support to the market.

The respite comes not an hour too soon for Wall street's army of clerical workers. They have been pushed virtually to the limit of human endurance. This evening found them a haggard lot. Most had worked 48 hours or more with little or no sleep. Many had not bothered to shave.

Curb Follows Suit.

Their predicament is the sole reason for closing the exchange. It would have been done sooner had not leading bankers argued that such action at the height of a selling movement would have accentuated public fear.

The New York Curb Exchange also voted to open at noon tomorrow and to remain closed Friday and Saturday, and similar action was taken by all of the securities exchanges in the chief cities, as well as by the Unlisted Security Dealers Association. All commodity markets will be open. The London market will be closed Friday in observance of All Saints Day.

Members of the Morgan pool again assembled in brief conference during the afternoon, but are believed to have found it unnecessary to take any active part in influencing the course of trading. Thomas W. Lamont informed newspaper men that the group would continue to stand by "until the dust from the storm blows away."

Another member of the group said that foreign buying of American

BURTON RITES HELD IN SENATE CHAMBER

From an arena of angry debate the chamber of the United States Senate yesterday was transformed into a chapel for the dead, as this and other nations honored a departed statesman—Senator Theodore E. Burton, of Ohio.

It was the first state funeral the Senate had seen in fifteen years, the last having been accorded Senator Augustus Bacon, of Georgia.

In the quiet gloom of the Senate chamber yesterday there gathered President Hoover and the members of his cabinet, the members of the Diplomatic Corps, the members of the Senate and House, the justices of the Supreme Court and the chieftains of the Army, Navy and Marine Corps.

President Hoover, a close friend of Senator Burton, sat with head bowed as the chaplains intoned their prayers and Senator Fess, of Ohio, and Representative Hawley, of Oregon, delivered their orations.

SENATE EYES HOUSE AS 'ALIBI' ON TARIFF

Adjournment, if Started by Lower Body, Would Save Face of Old Guard.

BORAH, NORRIS OPPOSED

Adjournment of Congress about November 15 as the result of initial action by the House, it was learned yesterday, is one of the strategems being toyed with by certain Old Guard Republican senators who see no hope of getting a tariff bill in the extra session.

A motion for adjournment coming from the House would save Senate Republicans from the embarrassment certain to follow if such a motion is proposed by one of their number in the Senate. This latter procedure, they admit, would amount to acknowledgement of the responsibility for delaying tariff legislation and, lacking assurance of some kind from the White House, they are loath to do it. Nevertheless, Senator Reed, of Pennsylvania, is so disgusted with the situation that he has intimated he might offer the motion himself. Senator Edge (Republican), New Jersey, also of the Senate finance committee, wants to quit, and Senator Robinson, the Democratic leader, has given encouragement to the adjournment movement by saying that he

U. S. Actress Slaps British Critic in Savoy Hotel Grill

Lillian Foster Retaliates for Caustic Review With Blows.

London, Oct. 30 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Lillian Foster, an American actress, now playing in "Conscience" at the Little Theater here with Malcolm Keen, twice smacked the face of a London dramatic critic in the grillroom of the Savoy Hotel today as a result of his criticism of her performance.

Though the name of the critic is not published by the Daily Sketch, which will print the story tomorrow morning, the New York World News Service understands it was Hannen Swaffer, outspoken critic of Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express.

According to the Sketch, Miss Foster, who lunched at the Savoy, saw him at another table with friends. She waited until the room was full, then walked over to his table and

British Air Chiefs To Quit Cup Races

Aviation Ministry States Its Withdrawal From Schneider Event.

(Associated Press.)

The contest committee of the National Aeronautic Association announced last night that it had been advised by the British Embassy that the air ministry had decided not to enter a regular air force team in future Schneider cup contests. The announcement said that future participation would be left to the Royal Aero Club or private enterprise.

The action by the British government is similar to that previously taken by the United States. This government did not have an entry in the races of this year, but Lieut. Al Williams, a Navy flier, had planned to fly a privately built plane.

The British team won the race at speeds which broke previous records.

Woman Who Founded Home for Helpless Children Dies.

Mrs. Elizabeth McKay Fleck, beloved foster mother of thousands of Washington children during her more than 40 years of charitable work here, died Tuesday at the Home for Incurables, after an illness of five years.

Coming to this city as a young widow from Union College, Ohio, Mrs. Fleck alone, with her own initiative and small financial resources, founded the Bruen Home for Children in Georgetown, and carried on, unaided, for several years until the home was incorporated with the assistance of charitable Washingtonians who were impressed by the young widow's nobility and devotion to helping the unfortunate.

With outside assistance, the home, dedicated to hapless children with-stocks had been enormous in the last two days. He cited a single order for 75,000 shares of one stock. Wire houses doing a large public business had also turned heavily to the buying side, he said.

Although the detailed course of the pool is not known, it became apparent that after the most drastic "shake-out" in Wall street history a determined effort is being made—with conspicuous success—to recreate a public psychology of prosperity.

It is understood that prosperous corporations are being urged to aid the program by voting extra dividends. The action of United States Steel and American Can in voting extra payments of $1 a share Wednesday was followed late this afternoon by the American Tobacco Co. with an extra of $2 a share. The company's dividend rate is $8 annually. Extra dividends also were declared by the Bon Ami, National Supply and Dictaphone companies.

Rockefeller in Statement.

Rockefeller broke a long silence on business affairs to issue the following statement from his Pocantico Hills home:

"Believing that fundamental conditions of the country are sound and that there is nothing in the business situation to warrant the destruction of values that has taken place on the exchanges during the past week, my son and I have for some days been purchasing sound common stocks. We are continuing and will continue our purchases in substantial amount at levels which we believe represent sound investment values."

The statement was carried on the financial news tickers shortly after 1:30 p. m., at which time the market rally appeared to show some slight slackening of pace. It is believed to have contributed to the buoyancy of the late dealings, in which most issues were bid up to the highest prices of the session just before the close.

Chicago reports that Julius Rosenwald, philanthropist and chairman of Sears, Roebuck & Co., had guaranteed the margin accounts of all Sears, Roebuck employes needing such aid also were favorably received.

Curb Firm Suspends.

Investment trust buying thus far has been estimated as between $350,000,000 and $500,000,000. Additional purchases of $150,000,000 in the next few weeks are looked for. These institutions report that buying is increasingly difficult. Yesterday they had to bid for what they wanted and to increase their bids as the day progressed.

The curb exchange announced the suspension of Lynch & Co., a small firm, for failure to meet engagements. It was also announced that the William Compton Securities Co. had been "taken over" by the Chatham-Phenix Corporation. These difficulties of financial firms are the only ones which came to light.

Due to errors made in the confused trading of the last week, the stock exchange ordered all specialists and floor brokers to be on the floor of the institution at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning and again Friday morning and remain there until all disputed or lost transactions have been adjusted.

Sales Drop 5,000,000.

The day's trading amounted to 10,727,300 shares as compared with more than 16,000,000 on Tuesday. It was the third heaviest volume ever handled. The movement was orderly throughout. Curb transactions also were heavy, the institution's tape being 135 minutes late at the close.

Such belated liquidation resulted in further modest losses in a few stocks at the opening. It was readily absorbed, however, and appeared insignificant in comparison to the improved behavior of the majority of stocks. Unlike Tuesday, when a score or more of normally active issues disappeared from trading due to lack of bids, there were bids for all important stocks.

Opening transactions involved huge blocks of shares, representing both large orders and the bunching of small orders. Initial prices represented overnight gains ranging from 1 to 10 points. These were increased during the first half hour. Following a period of midday stabilization, the upturn was vigorously resumed in the final hour.

Child's Death Called Unavoidable Accident

A verdict of "unavoidable accident" was rendered by a Mount Rainier coroner's jury last night into the fatal injury of Catherine Erhart, 6 years old, of Brentwood, Md., Saturday night at Thirty-fourth and Perry streets, Mount Rainier, when she was struck by an automobile driven by Edward Glenn Hunter, of 3750 Thirty-seventh street, also of Mount Rainier.

Hunter testified that the child darted in front of the machine as he was proceeding along the street, allowing two small boys to pass by. Police Chief Eugene Plumer, of Mount Rainier, stated that he had found the car's brakes in good condition. The jury, presided over by Justice of the Peace Robert Joyce, was out fifteen minutes.

LYNCHBURG TO GET D.A.R. 1930 MEETING

Invitation Is Accepted After Yorktown Is Awarded 1931 Convention.

CONFERENCE IS ENDED

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
312 S. Washington St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

The invitation from Lynchburg for the 1930 conference of the Virginia National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution was accepted yesterday at the second day's session of the thirty-third annual meeting of that body, held in the Old Presbyterian Meeting House, Alexandria, and Yorktown announced that an invitation will be extended at that meeting for the 1931 conference.

The morning session opened with the call to order by the regent, Mrs. Nathaniel Beaman, the singing of "Virginia" by the assemblage, invocation by Mrs. H. B. Porter, the State chaplain, and a solo by Mrs. Orlando H. Kirk, with Mrs. Francis Drischler as organist.

Mrs. David Caldwell, regent, and Mrs. Harry C. Grove, historian of the District of Columbia D. A. R., were guests of the conference and were presented by Mrs. Beaman, each extending greetings.

Chapter Reports Submitted.

Both morning and afternoon sessions were taken up with chapter reports and also those of State chairmen of national committees. Mrs. John W. Price, chairman on Constitution Hall, stated that Virginia has to date given $13,388.83 to the erection and equipment of that building. Mrs. Benjamin L. Purcell, chairman for Virginia on Real Daughters and also of the national society, stated that so far as she has been able to discover there are no real daughters living in Virginia, and she asked the cooperation of all in locating graves of daughters of Revolutionary soldiers, so that the society may be able to see that they are properly marked and attended.

Mrs. Beaman announced that Virginia has two members as vice chairmen of the eastern division, which embraces seven States from Pennsylvania to North Carolina. They are Mrs. Hampton Fleming, vice chairman of patriotic education, and Mrs. W. B. Livesey, vice chairman of national old trails.

Mrs. William Jackson Morton, of Mount Vernon Chapter, Alexandria, and also chairman of the Colonial Dames Society in this city, spoke to the conference on Wakefield, asking the indorsement of the society for the erection of a building on this historic estate, a replica of the house in which Gen. Washington was born. She asked that every effort be expended in contributing the accomplishment of this end by 1932, when the birthday of George Washington will be nationally observed.

Hotel Meetings Planned.

Following the adjournment for luncheon the meetings for afternoon and night were held at the George Mason Hotel, for the convenience of the delegates.

The report of the Judith Randolph Chapter was of particular interest in that on May 30 last its members visited the graves of 40 French Revolutionary soldiers who are buried near Hampden-Sidney College, and placed flowers in red, white and blue colors thereon as well as the American and French flags. These men were in the command of Dr. Francis Joseph Mettauer, a French physician whose descendants are now living near Farmville.

In the afternoon the visitors were taken to Gadsby's Tavern, which is being restored as a permanent memorial to the men of the World War from this section, and will be in charge of the local American Legion Post.

The two local chapters, Daughters of the American Revolution, the Mount Vernon and the Kate Waller Barrett, contributed to this cause and assisted in both purchase and restoration.

Masonic Temple Visited.

The Masonic Temple, replete with relics of Gen. Washington, was visited and inspected, and the delegation was then entertained at a tea at Arlington Hall, with Mrs. W. E. Martin as hostess.

The closing session last night, at the George Mason Hotel, was given over to consideration of amendments to the Constitution, unfinished business and the report of the resolutions committee, Mrs. John W. Price, chairman.

Mrs. E. E. McMoreland, accompanied by Mrs. D. C. Book, gave several vocal selections.

After the reading of the minutes of the day the conference adjourned.

The forbidding of parking on King street except for business purposes was under discussion at the meeting of the civic bureau of the Chamber of Commerce yesterday, and a resolution to prohibit such parking was voted down.

W. D. B. Brookings, chairman of the committee on architecture, reported that he is securing considerable data on the subject, which will be submitted at the November meeting. The report will be divided into sections, one relating to the architectural charms of the city, another outlining plans to preserve this charm, and another dealing with plans to foster the preservation work. Much interest in the architecture of many of the old buildings of Alexandria has been manifested by tourists and other nonresidents, it was stated.

A proposition looking to the remodeling of Armory Hall to make it better adapted for conventions was dicusssed, and it was decided to appoint a committee for the purpose of making plans, which probably will be submitted to the city council. The armory is the property of the city and is the only building in the city having a floor large enough to accommodate large conventions, many of which have been held in this city in the last few years.

Charles Gilkson, arraigned in police court on a charge of being a hit and run driver, was fined $15 and costs. James Wood, of South Peyton street, said to be the owner of the car, which struck and damaged one belonging to Edward Bell, Negro, also of South Peyton street, had been summoned into court by Policeman Kaus, but Wood explained to the court that Gilkson, and not he, was driving the car at the time of the collision. Wood was then acquitted and Gilkson fined.

Joseph H. Newell is in charge of the Halloween program of the Kiwanis Club, to be given at its weekly luncheon today. Elliott F. Hoffman, president of the club, will preside, and the dining room at the George Mason Hotel will be appropriately decorated for the occasion.

The capital stock of the Alexandria National Bank has been increased from $100,000 to $150,000. The stock, in the majority of cases, was sold to present stockholders, who purchased it at the price of $170 a share. The bank now has a total capital, surplus and undivided profits of $250,000 and its total resources are $1,500,000.

A large moving van from Indiana, southbound, overturned on the Fort Humphreys road, south of Hunting Creek, yesterday, causing considerable damage to the truck, and also putting the telephone lines in the community nearby out of commission temporarily. The driver, Lee Detrick, escaped injury. The accident was caused by the van skidding on the wet road while negotiating a curve. Fairfax County police investigated the accident.

Mrs. Carrie Butler, 42 years old, wife of James Butler, of Duke Street road, extended, died yesterday at the Alexandria Hospital. The body was taken to the funeral home, 809 Cameron street, and will later be taken to the Butler home where funeral services will be conducted.

GATES ARE URGED AT FATAL CROSSING

BONNETTE NAMES AIDS

Installation of safety gates and establishment of a 24-hour watchman's service by the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad at its Chestnut street grade crossing, pending elimination of this crossing, was urged in resolutions adopted unanimously by the Takoma Park Chamber of Commerce at the Takoma Park Theater hall, according to announcement last night.

The resolutions specifically cited the need for such action in view of the accident at the crossing Saturday night in which two women were killed, and another was injured seriously when the automobile in which they were riding was struck by a Baltimore & Ohio train. Reference also was made to an accident two years ago previously in which a watchman at the crossing lost his life in unsuccessfully trying to save a youth there.

The resolution declared legislation and an appropriation for carrying out the elimination of the crossing at the earliest possible date should be made. Copies were ordered sent to Senators P. L. Goldsborough, Millard Tydings, Arthur Capper, Representatives Frederick N. Zihlman, the District Commissioners and the major citizen bodies of Takoma Park and Daniel Willard, Baltimore & Ohio president.

Gordon W. Bonnette, newly elected president of the Takoma Park chamber, presided for the first time and announced the appointment of the following committee chairmen: Albany D. Grubb, membership; J. Dann Faber, coordination; H. L. Thornton, streets; H. H. Votaw, program; William A. Mellen, public utilities; J. M. Derrick, signs, and the following holdover committee chairmen: Reduction of fire rates on commercial properties, A. D. Grubb; beautification work in cooperation with the Takoma Park Horticultural Club, John W. Coffman.

Thornton, delegate, reported on the meeting at Annapolis, called by the Annapolis Chamber of Commerce, to consider the desirability of organizing a Maryland State Chamber of Commerce.

Bohannon to Talk Before Teachers

Head of Old Dominion Bar on C. E. A. Programs for Convention.

Richmond, Va., Oct. 30 (A.P.).—J. Gordon Bohannon, president of the Virginia Bar Association, the Virginia State Chamber of Commerce and former Mayor of Petersburg, will be a speaker at the annual convention of the Cooperative Education Association of Virginia here November 25-27.

Following registration in St. Paul's Episcopal Church Parish House Monday, November 25, the delegates will assemble Tuesday morning for discussion of district work. Mr. Bohannon speaks that night. Local league work will be considered Wednesday morning.

There will be no sessions Thursday, but on Friday, November 29, the Junior League program will be held with Miss Frieda Koontz, Junior League secretary, presiding.

Youth Jailed on Charge Of Causing Baby's Death

Special to The Washington Post.

Warrenton, Va., Oct. 30.—Sheriff W. S. Woolf last night arrested and lodged in jail here James Pearson, 17, charged with the beating to death of Lillian May Spinks, 3-year-old daughter of Mary Spinks. The mother, Mary Spinks, is being held also as an accessory to the crime.

Pearson does not deny the beating of the child, the sheriff said, and Mary Spinks explains her failure to protect the child while in her custody by saying she was afraid of Pearson. Both will be held without bail for the action of the Fauquier County grand jury in November.

Martin, Jr., to Marry Miss French Abroad

Denver, Colo., Oct. 30 (A.P.).—Miss Valeria French, granddaughter of the late Field Marshall Sir John Denton Pinkstone French, and her fiance, Henry Bradley Martin, jr., of New York, left here today for the East with the announcement that their postponed marriage would take place within a few months in London.

The wedding was delayed as the result of an automobile accident near here in which young Martin was injured. He passed more than a month in a Denver hospital. Miss French came here from her home in London to be with him. The couple was accompanied on the trip East by Martin's parents.

Political Police Head Dismissed by Soviets

Moscow, Oct. 30 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Michael Trilisser, acting chairman of the G. P. U., the political police organization of the Soviet Union, has been dismissed from his post by orders issued under the signature of M. I. Kalinin, chairman of the central executive committee of the Moscow government.

Trilisser is replaced by Henrich Yagoda, who will have as his assistant Stanislav Messing.

GRAIN PRICES RISE AFTER HECTIC WEEK

ALL NEWS IS FAVORABLE

Chicago, Oct. 30 (A.P.).—The grain trade was breathing easily today after a nerve-wracking week.

Wheat prices dallied around yesterday's closing levels most of the time today, but at the finish there was a spurt that carried quotations above the price prevailing just before the spectacular break a week ago. Today's finish was 3½ to 4¼ cents higher for the day, and the tone was strong.

The final sales stood at $1.28⅞ to $1.29 for December wheat; $1.35¾ to $1.36⅝ for March and $1.39½ to $1.39¾ for May.

Everything in the day's news seemed to be conducive to an advance. The stock market had turned the corner and lifted the weight that had burdened grain for a week. There was heavy accumulation of grain and flour by European interests and by Eastern buyers. Export sales of North American wheat were privately estimated in the neighborhood of 1,750,000 bushels, and news from the Argentine wheat belt appeared to confirm reports of a smaller yield this year. Furthermore, the continental demand was regarded as partly at least the result of the announced determination of the Federal Farm Board to supply almost unlimited credit at low rates to assured orderly marketing on this side.

Beyond all these factors were two more affecting the general wheat supply; the trade commonly was disposed to predict a fall in the United States visible wheat supply soon, and Canadian interior deliveries are dwindling rapidly.

At the final gong wheat futures were 3 cents higher than a week ago tonight, the eve of the first big break in wheat.

While the Chicago Stock Exchange and other major securities markets will be closed Friday and Saturday and operate Thursday on an abbreviated schedule no similar announcement was made by the board of trade.

TRADING SUSPENDED IN TWO-DAY CLOSING

New York Stock Exchange to Enable Broker Offices to Check Records.

CHEERS GREET HOLIDAY

New York, Oct. 30 (A.P.).—Harassed by the vast volume of trading which has piled up during the past week, New York's horde of financial district workers were granted a reprieve today with a decision of the governing board of the New York Stock Exchange to suspend trading for two and a half days.

The exchange will not open until noon tomorrow and will be closed all day Friday and Saturday. The Curb market and produce exchange securities market announced the same suspensions, but trading will be carried on as usual on the commodity exchanges.

These include the New York cotton, coffee and sugar, produce, rubber, silk hide and burlap and jute exchanges, the closing of which would be of little advantage to the stock exchange and its members. The stock exchanges will open again on Monday as usual.

Employes Are Exhausted.

Not since the war panic of 1914 has the stock exchange been closed for two business days in succession.

The governing committee announced that in view of the physical condition of the brokers and clerks as a result of the tremendous amount of trading the move was imperative. Many employes are on the verge of exhaustion and the suspension was regarded by the committee as an "absolute necessity to recognize these purely physical and mechanical conditions and to afford the overworked staffs sufficient time to recuperate and recover their strength."

With two additional days, Sunday and the election holiday Tuesday, brokers hope to untangle the mountain of business which piled up during the market collapse although they point out that it will be weeks and perhaps months before all trades are straightened out and errors discovered.

Cheers Greet Announcement.

Members of the Stock Exchange who are specialists will be required to work Thursday morning and Friday along with commission house employes to adjust the transactions which have piled up during the frantic trading. The Unlisted Securities Dealers Association will suspend activities Friday and Saturday and tomorrow morning.

When Richard Whitney, vice president of the New York Stock Exchange, announced the committee's suspension decision from the rostrum, a terrific outburst of cheers arose from the floor. Activities were halted momentarily in the din around the trading posts.

Since last Thursday the brokers and their employes have been working under the terrific strain of the record turnovers. Many have not been home in that time, catching what sleep they could in chairs and on table tops and surviving on coffee and sandwiches as work piled up. Several, without sleep for three or four days, collapsed through sheer exhaustion.

Austria Honors Swedish King.

Stockholm, Oct. 30 (A.P.).—The Austrian government has conferred upon King Gustave of Sweden its order of merit of the highest class as an expression of gratitude for Sweden's help during the years after the World War. Sweden cared for a great number of Austrian children in Sweden and sent Swedish Red Cross units and foodstuffs to Austria.

First U. S. Woman Is Tried In Mexican Murder Case

Louisville Resident Faces Youthful Judge, Jury and Prosecutor for Alleged Slaying of Her Sweetheart in Row Over Money.

Mexico City, Oct. 30 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—The first American woman ever to be tried for murder in Mexico faced judge and jury today in the oldest courtroom in the New World, the Palace of Belen, which dates from the sixteenth century.

She is Bernice Rush, of Louisville, Ky., who, the prosecution alleges, shot and killed a former sweetheart, Jenaro Benavente, on December 24 last when he refused to return 10,000 pesos she had loaned him.

Only one American, a news correspondent, was in the courtroom when the trial began. Unbefriended by either the American consulate or the American colony Mrs. Rush faced her ordeal with dignity and courage. She came into the court dressed as if for an afternoon tea, accompanied by two riflemen guards.

The prosecuting attorney asked twelve years imprisonment. The jury listened attentively while the youthful defense counsel, Jose Antonio Reyes, asked for suspension of the proceedings until two missing witnesses could be produced in court. The prosecution opposed the request, but the court granted it. None of the jurists concerned in the case, judge, prosecuting attorney or defense attorney, is more than 35 years old. The prosecuting attorney is only 26.

SENATE ADJOURNS FOR BURTON RITES

in front of the Vice President's dais. On it and around it were heaped varicolored flowers, while the walls of the chamber itself were hung with palm.

To the left of the casket, sat seven members of Senator Burton's family—Miss Grace Burton, his niece and official hostess here in Washington; William Burton, of Omaha, Neb., a nephew; Burton Liese, a grandnephew, and Mrs. Liese, of Providence, R. I.; Mrs. Laura Price, a niece, of Chicago, and Mrs. Elizabeth Price Hazell, a grandniece, of this city.

President Hoover sat directly in front of the bier, in a front-row seat on the Democratic side of the center aisle. Next to him sat Vice President Curtis and then the members of the Cabinet. In the seats behind them were the members of the Diplomatic Corps and the members of the House of Representatives.

On the Republican side of the aisle, across from President Hoover, sat Chief Justice Taft, himself once a President, and also, like Hoover, a close friend of Burton. Then came the other justices of the Supreme Court and the ranking officers of the Army, Navy and Marine Corps—Maj. Gen. Summerall, Admiral Hughes and Maj. Gen. Neville.

Behind these sat the members of the Senate. In the last seat in the last row was Senator Warren, of Wyoming, the 85-year-old veteran, who has seen so many senators come and go.

Mrs. Hoover followed the services from the Vice President's gallery, together with Mrs. Taft. Two other women celebrities were on the floor—Representative Ruth Bryan Owen, of Florida, and Representative Florence Kahn, of California.

The funeral service was opened by Senate Chaplain Z. B. Phillips with the familiar passage, "I am the resurrection and the life." Assisting Dr. Phillips was the House chaplain, James Shera Montgomery.

In his funeral oration, Senator Fess told of Senator Burton's courage and integrity and of the long years that he spent in the service of his country.

No Blot on His Career.

"For more than 40 years with but slight interruptions," he said, "Theodore E. Burton has stood in the blaze of public service, sharply scrutinized in his every act, without a blot upon his garb or a blight upon his armor, with an increasing public appreciation of a career never more appreciated nor so applauded as at its close.

"The last vote of confidence of his people was his greatest tribute. His notable career is a splendid comment upon popular appreciation of American public life."

After sketching his career in the House when he so vigorously fought against "pork barrel" legislation, his efforts on behalf of world peace, and his two periods of service in the Senate, Fess continued:

"He never married. He chose for his bride his country. To her he gave the last full measures of devotion. Her welfare was his ambition; her honor his passion. Love of country to him was a religion of the State. Of a deep religious nature, profoundly impressed with the workings of an all-wise Providence, next to his God his devotion was to his beloved land."

Foresight Is Lauded.

Representative Hawley declared that Senator Burton "had a genius for seeing things in their entirety—the finished construction from the suggested outline." He, too, praised the departed statesman's courage.

Eleven senators, three representatives, five newspaper men and three others accompanied the body of Senator Burton to Ohio after the state funeral. The senators were Robinson, of Arkansas; Moses, Capper, Patterson, Dill, Deneen, Connally, Trammell, Kean and Bratton. The representatives, all from Ohio, were Thompson, Bolton and Morgan.

The newspapermen who acted as pallbearers were Leo R. Sack, Cleveland Press; Carl D. Ruth, Cleveland News; Morris Ervin, Cincinnati Times-Star; Edwin Gableman, Cincinnati Enquirer, and Paul Hodges, Cleveland Plain Dealer. The others in the party were Ray Floyd and R. H. Norton, the senator's aids, and William Burton, his nephew.

The state funeral followed private services at the Burton home, conducted by the Rev. Jason Noble Pierce.

Doomed Convict Riot Leaders Fight Guards

Sacramento, Calif., Oct. 30 (A.P.).—Tony Brown and Walter Burke, two of five convicts sentenced to hang in January for participation in the bloody Thanksgiving Day riot at Folsom Prison in 1927, today were subdued by prison guards after a desperate break for freedom and revenge. Burke received a broken leg and Brown a badly smashed leg in a struggle with guards in the prison hospital.

Warden Court Smith said he believed the primary object of Brown and Burke was to revenge themselves on Albert M. Stewart, another convict, who tried to turn State's evidence against the ringleaders of the riot. Stewart's cell is near the prison hospital to which the two convicts dashed after breaking away from guards.

Two Masked Robbers Seize $9,000 in Bank

Alexandria, La., Oct. 30 (A.P.).—Two masked bandits held up the Citizens Bank & Trust Co. at Marksville, La., this afternoon, locked an employe in the vault and escaped with $9,000, all the money in sight, said a message received by Alexandria police. R. I. Didier, assistant cashier, alone in the bank, was forced into the vault by the two men who entered with black masks over their faces and guns drawn.

Lee Berlin, chief deputy of the Avoyelles Parish sheriff's office, said that a sedan believed to have been used by the robbers in their escape, speeded through Mansura shortly after the robbery.

Allegany Association Wants Bass Replanted in Potomac River.

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., Oct. 30.—At the annual meeting of the Allegany County Fish and Game Protective Association at the City Hall last night, Dr. G. Frank Malin was elected president for the coming year, succeeding J. G. Frederick A. Puderbaugh. Other officers chosen were A. W. Frazee, vice president; Robert Critchfield, secretary; James F. Harshier, recording secretary, and G. Emory Wilson, treasurer. Dr. Edward Harris was named chairman of the board of directors, and Joseph Minke, publicity director. The association has a membership of 100.

It is interested in the seining of the Chesapeake & Ohio Canal for bass, which will be replanted in the Potomac River. A conference was held here tonight with State Game Warden E. Lee Lecompte and Glenn C. Leach, for the Bureau of Fisheries, in this connection. Members of the newly formed Izaak Walton League also attended the conference.

Heavy Rains Damage Corn Crop at Luray

Special to The Washington Post.

Luray, Va., Oct. 30.—With many of the corn fields covered with water, due to unprecedented rains a week ago, farmers of this county will lose 15 per cent of their corn crop, they declare. Among the novel ways being used to salvage their crop, besides wading in and carrying out the corn shocks is for the farmers to drive their teams into the water-covered fields, the shocks being lifted up in sections and placed on the wagons.

The work requires a man to drive the team, while the farmer and his assistants gather the shocks of corn from the water that surrounds them. A great deal of the crop is rotting.

Special to The Washington Post.

Warrenton, Va., Oct. 30.—William H. Emory, master of drag hounds of the Warrenton Hunt, and known in the sporting world as "Bill" Emory, is in the local hospital here suffering from several broken ribs and contusions and bruises sustained in the hunting field this week.

Emory fell at the last jump of the drag held near the home of Capt. Richard Kirkpatrick. He was unconscious when the balance of the field reached him.

FARM BODY RAPS TARIFF BILL DELAY

Duties on Agricultural Products Are Needed at Once, Claim.

FRUIT FLY FUNDS ASKED

Advocating adequate tariffs on competitive farm products, the National Association of Saate Agriculture Commissioners yesterday deplored the "apparent impending failure" of Congress to enact tariff regulations on agricultural commodities at the special session.

"The products of the American farms are in such urgent need of additional tariff protection that delay is intolerable," a resolution adopted said.

Another resolution described as "utterly intolerable" further delay in the solution of the Muscle Shoals problem and urged that Congress establish a national policy toward the project at the December session.

More funds for eradication of the Mediterranean fruit fly were asked in a resolution which approved a policy of "reasonable indemnification or reimbursement of persons" whose crops were or may be destroyed in the eradication campaign carried on by the Agriculture Department.

After an informal discussion of the agricultural situation with members of the Federal Farm Board, the 34 members of the association present approved another resolution supporting the board program for orderly marketing and pledging their continued cooperation "in building a sound and durable policy for American agriculture."

The association went on record in urging closer affiliation between the Agriculture Department and the agriculture departments of the various States, and asked that Congress make available funds for research into the wireworm problem, which, it said, "is rapidly assuming the proportions of a serious menace to field and vegetable crops."

Several Raiders Shot In Search for Liquor

Erwin, Tenn., Oct. 30 (A.P.).—Several officers on a liquor raid were fired upon from ambush on Rock Creek, near here, today, one being seriously wounded and two others reported shot. W. M. Barnett, 58, a jailer, was shot in the abdomen and brought to the Erwin Hospital in a serious condition.

Reports here said that he and Sheriff S. A. Coin had just searched a house for liquor and were fired upon as they were leaving. Another party of officers, it was reported, was fired upon while they were seeking Barnett's assailants and two were wounded by rifle bullets.

$250,000 in Damages Is Asked of Pantages

Los Angeles, Oct. 30 (A.P.).—Frederick T. Wise, a State witness in the recent trial of Alexander Pantages, theatrical magnate, on a statutory charge, today filed a suit for $250,000 damages against the wealthy showman on grounds of slander.

The suit accused Pantages of twice asserting that Wise was a party to an alleged blackmail plot against him. The convicted theater man claimed repeatedly that his alleged attack on Eunice Pringle, coed dancer, was a "frame-up" by the girl.

The Listening Post

By CARLISLE BARGERON

IF the body of that "grand old man of American statecraft" lying up there in the Senate yesterday should happen to give pause to the bitterness, animosities and conflicting ambitions that have surged under the Capitol dome the past two years and of late have become to a seething caldron, then he may not have died in vain.

There is no particular reason to expect that it will except that death did seem to have been brought closer home to the senators. They are frequently burying one of their number, an escort accompanying the body home in pretty much the manner that the Army sends home its dead.

But the senators return to their work immediately, and also in pretty much the spirit with which the Army escort returns from the burying ground, at a lively step and with the band playing martial airs.

THERE was a difference, though, about the services for Burton. He lay there at rest before the dais which it is the wont of senators to face in addressing their remarks. He rested there for more than an hour and there was plenty of time for his colleagues to contemplate the futility of things, of strife—perhaps, of life.

Burton lived more than the allotted threescore and ten by several years, yet his span was pitifully brief when compared with the accomplishments he would like to have made—to have had the time to make.

Burton's was not a life, either, that was consumed with jealousies, hatreds or ill-feeling for his fellowman. His ambitions soared high and were gratified to an unusual degree. But his disposition was happy and his mind at peace through it all.

SO TENSE has the game of life in the Senate become, intensifying as the days roll by, that one would not be surprised to see most anything happen. It would seem, indeed, that sooner or later, the dome will be blown off of the Capitol itself.

The clubbiness of the members is rapidly disappearing and that ethical term senatorial courtesy does not have the meaning that it once had. Senators have been kicked out on their necks, others have had the door slammed in their faces, and the Senate is now on the verge of publicly censuring another.

There is a sourness of thwarted ambitions about the chamber, a viciousness of personal hatreds. So thick is this atmosphere, indeed, that it is difficult to pick out the mere serving of legitimate ambitions.

* * * * *

CERTAINLY the air seemed to be cleared yesterday for the first time in months. There was no popping off of small guns and the bombing roar of the big ones.

There was a refreshing quietness, a stillness about the place that is not in its daily description. It seemed to be Sunday and the changing lights that shone through the glass ceiling suggested the rays of the sun breaking through the clouds.

It was, indeed, as if all the senators had gotten together once and gone to church, to the quiet meditation that such a place affords.

There is a question, though, of whether the effects will be lasting. That would be too much to expect. In all likelihood they will be back at the fight today.

SENATORS SEE TARIFF ALIBI IN HOUSE MOVE TO ADJOURN

would vote for it if "the motion came from the other side."

But the situation in the House offers by far the best solution for those in the Senate who are willing to leave the tariff bill in the air and go home for a week or two before convening in regular session December 2. The House now is operating on a series of three-day recesses, awaiting Senate action on the tariff. The agreement for the three-day recesses expires November 11, and the House on that date will have to decide what it is going to do. There is no business before the House, and its committees, except for agriculture and ways and means, are not organized. House leaders have maintained consistently that there will be no general organization until the regular session.

What is more natural, argue the handful of old guard Republicans in the Senate who want to quit on the tariff bill, than for the House to favor adjournment, which would end the farce of the three-day recesses and also permit the membership to collect something like $176,000 mileage they would be entitled to going from the extra session and returning to the regular one?

The talk of adjournment, however, found little encouragement among the insurgent Republicans, some of whom, including Senators Borah and Norris, want to proceed with the writing of a tariff bill in the interest of agriculture.

Senator Simmons, of North Carolina, elated by the success of the Democratic insurgent coalition, is eager to go ahead with the measure, passing the responsibility for its death to a conference deadlock if the House declines to accept the Senate changes. Senators Smoot and Couzens, alone of the Republican membership of the finance committee, believe some kind of a bill can be passed before December 2.

With Senator Watson, Republican leader, going to Florida for three weeks, Senator Jones, (Republican), Washington, will be in charge, but many of those who think that the bill can be written to the satisfaction of the agricultural interests, look for assistance from the conciliatory efforts of Senator McNary, (Republican), Oregon, who will assist Senator Jones.

The Senate will resume consideration of the tariff bill tomorrow with oils and coal tar products of the chemical schedule, with the fifteen other rate schedules still to be debated.

WHITE SEEKS PEACE IN G. O. P. SQUABBLE

governorship of Nebraska in 1923. I am indulging in no political activity whatsoever.

"This job on the Federal Farm Board was offered me three times by President Hoover before I accepted. It is too big a job and too important to have it interfered with by political maneuvers.

"If the senator wants to make politics out of it, he is privileged to do so but I will not. He is engaged in setting up straw men and shadow boxing. As for myself I have a job here and I am going to do it."

Regarding McKelvie's statement that he has been out of politics since 1923 political observers wondered what he would call his activity in the primary of 1928 when he led the fight that prevented Norris from getting a solid delegation to the Kansas City convention.

It has been the general understanding, too, that it was definitely settled that either McKelvie or a candidate equally as formidable or more so, probably William Stebbins, at present the State treasurer, would oppose Norris.

Whether McKelvie's statement should be interpreted as meaning that the mantle will fall on Stebbins remains to be developed.

White's role as a peacemaker will be greeted even by his friends as the funniest the well-known humorist has ever essayed. He stepped into the national campaign last year with a bang but his utterances in behalf of Hoover got himself, the President, and the editor's close friend, Senator Henry Allen, into such hot water that he stepped out again.

Ten Men Are Injured In $2,000,000 Blaze

Alameda, Calif., Oct. 30 (A.P.).—Fire in the creosoted piling supporting the loading wharf of the Encinal Terminal Pier here did damage estimated at more than $200,000 today, causing collapse of the concrete pavement of the wharf.

Ten men, eight of them firemen, were slightly injured or overcome by smoke. Terminal company officials said the fire, which they believed incendiary, would put 1,000 men out of work.

GRUNDY IS GRILLED AGAIN BY SENATORS

Lobbyist Boasts of Obtaining Rate Raises in Present Tariff Discussion.

HARDING CHOICE IS TOLD

(Associated Press.)

Further details of his tariff making activities, his life and his views were related yesterday by Joseph R. Grundy, president of the Pennsylvania Manufacturers Association, as the Senate lobby committee concluded its three-day spirited examination of him.

The Pennsylvania Republican again readily accepted credit for helping to get rate increases in the pending tariff bill, told of his attendance at a conference of party leaders which determined upon Warren G. Harding as the Republican presidential nominee at the 1920 convention, and disclosed that he was host at a luncheon of Pennsylvania leaders last April when patronage matters were discussed.

Once more, the 70-year-old high tariff advocate sparred willingly with the Senate inquisitors, ready with figures and arguments to meet the questions. Again the committee members elicited his views on government and ethics as well as on tariff making.

Bingham Action Approved.

After a little hesitation, Grundy said he believed he would approve the course followed by Senator Bingham (Republican), Connecticut, in taking a salaried representative of the Connecticut Manufacturers Association into the secret sessions of the finance committee while the rates were being written by the Republican members.

"The tariff bill is so complex," he argued, "that men who understand it should be called into consultation."

"You believe members of the congressional committees should be governed by those interested in the tariff rates, then?" inquired Chairman Caraway.

"Oh, no. I think they should be consulted," explained Grundy.

Norris Delays Censure Resolution.

Meanwhile Senator Norris (Republican), Nebraska, who is prepared to propose a resolution of censure of Senator Bingham, said he was not sure whether he would act today in the absence of many senators attending the funeral of the late Senator Burton, of Ohio.

Also, he said, there was a wide divergence of view as to what course he should pursue and he was not certain what form his resolution would take.

Today the committee intends to examine John H. Kirby, president, and J. A. Arnold, manager, of the Southern Tariff League. Arthur L. Faubel, secretary of the American Tariff League, likewise has been summoned, and Senator Walsh (Democrat), Montana, asked that H. R. Wylie, of Huntington, W. Va., be recalled in connection with the inquiry into the pottery tariff.

Harding Choice Described.

Grundy said he was invited to the Friday night conference of Republican leaders in Chicago during the 1920 convention week as a representative of Pennsylvania.

It was decided there to press the candidacy of Senator Warren Harding to break the deadlock between Leonard Wood and Frank O. Lowden.

Describing the meeting, Grundy said the late Senator Lodge, of Massachusetts, chairman of the convention, presided; that Lodge said it had become impracticable to nominate either Wood or Lowden, and that Harding appeared to be the most available candidate.

Capper Lauds Women Of Country Sections

Rural women have played a more important part than any other group of people in making the United States what it is today, according to Senator Arthur Capper, of Kansas, speaking over the radio from Washington yesterday on the National Woman's Party coast-to-coast hook-up.

Senator Capper's speech yesterday was part of the program on the position of women and the advances they are making toward complete equality, which is being broadcast every week by the National Woman's Party over a Nation-wide hook-up.

65 Deaths Laid to Five Condemned by Russia

Moscow, Oct. 30 (A.P.).—Five men, alleged to be members of a band responsible for the killing of 65 persons, including six detectives, were condemned to death today. The leader of the group was said to have been responsible himself for killing 30 of the victims.

Four members of the bandit group are still at large, while 26 others, including four women, have been sentenced to prison terms varying from two to ten years.

DAY IN CONGRESS

SENATE.

Met at 2:15 p. m. and recessed at 3:20 p. m. to 10 a. m. today.

President Hoover, members of the Senate and House and other dignitaries gathered in the chamber for the state funeral of Senator Theodore E. Burton, of Ohio.

LIEUT. ZEUS SOUCEK TO QUIT NAVY POST

KIN SET HEIGHT MARK

Lieut. Zeus Soucek, junior grade United States Navy, stationed at the Naval Aircraft Factory at Philadelphia, who set an American altitude record for seaplanes carrying a "useful" load in May, has resigned from the Navy, effective December 26, according to announcement yesterday by the department.

Lieut. Soucek established the record in piloting the large Navy bimotored plane, PN-12, bearing a "useful" load of 1,000 kilograms, to an altitude of more than 17,000 feet over Philadelphia on May 28 to shatter the American mark of 7,979 feet made five years previously. He also was pilot on the X-PN-1, a new type Navy plane, which also in late May broke weight, endurance and distance marks in remaining aloft 17 hours 55 minutes and 13 second in carrying a full load while flying 1,242 miles over a 31-mile course near Philadelphia.

He is a brother of Lieut. Apollo Soucek, stationed here in the Bureau of Aeronautics of the Navy Department, widely known flier, who recently attained a height of 40,000 feet to set a new world's altitude mark while piloting a Wasp Apache plane above the Naval Air Station at Anacostia.

Paris Bourse Hit By U.S. Sales Wave

French Stocks Affected as Owners Try to Save Holdings Here.

Paris, Oct. 30 (N.Y.W.N.S.)—The Paris Bourse was seriously hit today by New York selling orders. The French stocks affected are those which are held in America or held by speculators who have been forced to sell to obtain liquid capital to save their American holdings.

The return to Paris of French capital, hastened by the Wall street crash, has served to some degree to check the slump in securities here. The break has been further checked by an inflow of German money, now actively buying on the Paris Bourse for the first time in a long period.

French industrial stocks, locally owned, went up today, as did government bonds, in the purchase of which capital is taking refuge.

The stocks of almost all French banks suffered a decline, however, this being the favorite variety of exportable values used in New York as collateral

Anderson Flayed In Moore Speech

Coalition Candidate Called Vituperative Political Agitator.

Characterizing Col. Henry W. Anderson, Virginia coalition candidate for lieutenant governor, as a "chronic political agitator of the most vituperative and destructive type," Representative R. Walton Moore, of Virginia, last night made a vigorous address at Manassas in support of the Democratic party in the forthcoming State election.

"Without abating any of my high regard for Mr. Hoover officially and personally, I may take the liberty of mentioning him now in order to say that I think he made a mistake in selecting Col. Anderson to represent the South and Virginia on his Law Enforcement Commission," declared Representative Moore.

It does not serve to inspire confidence in the commission to have among its members an excited and unstable politician whose idea appears to be that law enforcement can be brought about by extreme denunciation of nearly all the laws of his own State and those who are charged with their administration. Col. Anderson's unparalleled egotism leads him to assert superiority over better leaders belonging to his own party, and a contempt for those of any party who may disagree with the views which he for the moment is pleased to entertain."

AN OPEN BOOK ON BANKING

One of the first instincts of ancient man was to save . . . to hide things in the ground . . . in a cave . . . in the side of a cliff.

In early biblical times we read the adage: "He that burieth his talents in the ground," etc., conveying the idea that those who hid and hoarded money were less wise than those who made it earn interest for them.

Today we have a great institution—the bank—with special facilities and departments designed to assist everyone in their instinctive desire to save and to increase their savings.

Foremost in helpfulness to the thrifty depositor, is the Federal-American National Bank.

Here you will learn the How of Saving—of Investing. The true meaning of a Trust Fund.

The importance of becoming connected with a good substantial, progressive bank is that it stimulates the idea of saving and helps you develop this idea in a material manner.

PASTORS IN SOUTH HELD LABOR FOES

MINISTER MAKES CHARGE

New York, Oct. 30 (A.P.).—A clergyman and a labor leader today attacked certain churches in the South as being "controlled by mill owners" and inimical to textile trades unions.

The Rev. B. Spofford, Episcopal minister and member of the Church League for Industrial Democracy, told a conference on the Southern textile industry that the churches in the textile regions of North Carolina are "undoubtedly owned and controlled by the mill owners," and that the clergy are the "moral police for the industrial overlords."

Leader Assails Pastors.

Thomas F. McMahon, president of the United Textile Workers of America, speaking at the same conference, attributed his organization's slow progress in the South in the last 24 years to "prejudice and bigotry fostered by the churches."

"The pastors would lose their jobs if the workers got a 10 per cent increase," he said.

The conference was held at the Russell Sage Foundation under the auspices of the social relations department of the Congregational Education Society.

Dr. Spofford, who personally investigated the situation, said the workers live under insanitary conditions in mill-owned houses. He charged the mill owners with bad faith, saying they abrogated an agreement by refusing to reemploy 110 strikers.

Mill Owner Speaks.

Roger Baldwin, of the American Civil Liberties union, said that in Marion and Gastonia the forces of law had banded with the employers to keep the workers from organizing. He denounced the Gastonia murder trials as being mere "heresy trials."

Henry P. Kendall, owner of a number of mills, some of them in the South, addressed the conference, but newspapermen were excluded during his address when they refused to agree not to quote him.

DIES SUDDENLY

MISS HARRYETTE M. ZIMMELE.

Society Favorite Claimed by Death

Harryette M. Zimmele, Debutante, Succumbs to Heart Illness.

Miss Harryette M. Zimmele, a Washington debutante of three years ago, and the only daughter of Mrs. Harry B. Zimmele, died late Tuesday night at the family residence, 2728 Thirty-sixth place northwest, it was learned yesterday.

Miss Zimmele was a graduate of Vassar. Her earlier education was received at Central High School, where she was graduated with honors, and at the Maret French School, where she was the first pupil when this school was organized.

Following her debut at the Washington Club in December, 1926, Miss Zimmele became a popular member of the younger set in this city. She was also well known in Pittsburgh and in Great Barrington where she made her summer home.

Miss Zimmele's death was caused by acute dilation of the heart, it was reported. She was 23 years old. Her mother, formerly Miss Margaret Scully of Pittsburgh, survives. Miss Zimmele's grandfather was John S. Scully, of Pittsburgh. Funeral services will be held at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon from the residence with burial in Rock Creek Cemetery.

They included two priests, one Mullah and four rich peasants.

JUDGE E. B. PARKER DIES AT HOME HERE

Mixed Claims Commission Umpire Was in Poor Health for Year.

BURIAL THIS AFTERNOON

Funeral services for Judge Edwin B. Parker, umpire of the Mixed Claims Commission of the United States and Germany, will be held at his late residence at 2001 Twenty-fourth street northwest, at 4 o'clock this afternoon. The Rev. Z. B. Phillips, pastor of the Church of the Epiphany, of which Judge Parker was a member, will officiate.

Following the rites here the body will be sent to Judge Parker's former home, the Oaks, at Houston, Tex., where additional services will be read and burial will be made. Mrs. Parker and Miss Elsa M. Peterson, a close friend of the family, will accompany the body to the Texas city.

Honorary pallbearers at the services here today will be Justice James C. McReynolds, Justice Harland F. Stone, Attorney General William D. Mitchell, Dr. O. C. Kiep, counsel for the German Embassy; Robert W. Bownynge, American agent of the Mixed Claims Commission; Admiral Robert D. Coontz, U. S. N.; Robert V. Fleming, president of the Riggs National Bank; William Butterworth, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States; Dr. Cloyd H. Marvin, president of George Washington University; Judge Robert S. Lovett, chairman of the board of directors of the Indian Pacific System, and Clarence A. Aspinwall, president of the Securities Storage Co.

Although he had been in failing health for more than a year and was forced to discontinue active work in September, it was not until two weeks ago that his condition was considered really serious.

Judge Parker was serving under commissions from the President of the United States as commissioner of the Tripartite Claims Commission of the United States, Austria and Hungary, and also as war claims arbiter under the settlement of war claims act of 1928, both these posts being in addition to his work with the Mixed Claims Commission. He was also a director of the Riggs National Bank and active in numerous other enterprises.

Chairman of U. S. Chamber.

In 1927 and 1928 Judge Parker was chairman of the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, later being made an honorary vice president. He was a member of the board of trustees of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, a member of the board of trustees of George Washington University, a member of the American Society of International Law, Council on Foreign Relations, International Chamber of Commerce, American Bar Association, Texas Bar Association, Association of the Bar of the City of New York and of the Houston Bar Association.

He was a member also of the Metropolitan Club of Washington, Chevy Chase Country Club, Burning Tree Country Club, Biltmore Forest Country Club, of North Carolina, and the Metropolitan Club, of New York. He was a member of the Church of the Epiphany here.

Born in Shelby County, Mo., on September 7, 1868, Judge Parker was educated in country schools there, later being sent by his parents, George John and Enrette Parker, to Central College of Missouri. Later he attended the University of Texas, where he received the degree of bachelor of laws.

Active During War.

Five years after his graduation in 1894 he married Miss Katherine Putnam Blunt, daughter of Gen. James G. Blunt. He is survived by his widow and by two brothers, O. S. Parker, of Beaumont, Tex., and G. A. F. Parker, of Hereford, Tex.

During the World War Judge Parker helped organize the War Industries Board, of which he was priorities commissioner. He served also as chairman of the United States Liquidation Commission in 1918 and 1919, settling the claims of the allies against the United States for war materials. For his service Judge Parker was awarded several decorations, including the United States Distinguished Service Medal, Officer of the French Legion of Honor, Commander of Belgian and Italian Orders of the Crown, and the Polish Order of Polonia Restituta.

Judge Parker had been a resident of Washington since January, 1923, during which time he has been engaged in the settlement of war claims resulting from the World War.

Among the claims settled by Judge Parker were those resulting from the sinking of the Lusitania, and he has declared that he was prouder of that achievement than of any other in his long career.

After brief funeral services at his late residence here at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon, the body will be shipped to Judge Parker's former home at Houston, Tex., for interment. It had not been determined last night who would officiate at the service here.

RARE STRADIVARIUS PLAYED IN CONCERT

Famous Lener Quartet Gives Program Here in First U. S. Appearance.

SONNECK MEMORY KEPT

The famous Lener String Quartet of Budapest made its first appearance in America yesterday at the Founder's Day concert in the chamber music auditorium of the Library of Congress under the auspices of the Elizabeth Sprague Coolidge Foundation.

A feature of the concert was in the fact that Jeno Lener, the leader of the quartet, played on a famous Stradavarius violin, heard here for the first time and which is valued at many thousands of dollars. The tone of this instrument was exquisitely beautiful and was heard to special advantage in the trills and double stopping in the Mozart "Quartet in B Flat," in four movements, which opened the program.

The members of the quartet are Jeno Lener and Joseph Smilovitz, violinists; Sandor Roth, viola, and Imre Hartman, violoncello.

The "Largo from the String Quartet in D," by Joseph Haydn, was alone worth going through the rain to hear, the ensemble tone being of rare beauty and the tones melodious and mellow as played by yesterday's organization. This number was given in memory of Oscar G. Sonneck, first chief of the music division of the Library of Congress, who died a year ago today.

In the Schubert "Quartet in D Minor," with which the program was concluded, the andante movement had particular loveliness and tone quality, while Scherzo was dainty and memorable.

THADDEUS B. SERGEANT RITES

Man Prominent in Masonic Circles to Be Buried Tomorrow.

Funeral services for Thaddeus Bell Sargeant, 54 years old, retired real estate operator, of 3624 Park place northwest, who died Tuesday night in his country home at Clarendon, Va., will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon from the residence. Burial will be in Rock Creek Cemetery, with Masonic honors.

Mr. Sergeant was a life-long resident of Washington. His father, Judge Leonard Sargeant, was a Missouri Supreme Court judge for a number of years, and his mother, Julia A. Sargeant, was the daughter of Assistant Secretary of the Interior Bell, who served during the Garfield administration. Mr. Sergeant was actively engaged in Masonry for 33 years.

He is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Sprigg Reedes; two sons, John Page and Richard Page Sargeant, and one brother, Leonard Sargeant, jr., all of Washington. Mr. Sargeant was the husband of the late Frances Page Sargeant.

Pastor Calls Scientists And Economists U. S. Hope

"Realists" Will Do More for Development and Ideals of Nation Than Clergy, Soldiers and Politicians of Past, the Rev. M. R. Lovell Says.

The opinion that the scientists and economists of the future will do more for teh development and ideals of the United States than the preachers, warriors and politicians of the past was expressed by the Rev. Moses R. Lovell, pastor of the Mount Pleasant Congregational Church, in a talk before the Liberal Club of George Washington University last night.

Classing the scientists as the realists who will bring the country face to face with actual facts and the economists as the group who will work out the solution of the problems brought about by these facts, Dr. Lovell showed how these new leaders will transcend the work of the old leaders. He classed the preachers, warriors and politicians as "the emotionalists" who played to the gallery.

After the way has been paved by the realists, Dr. Lovell said he believes that ideals will come to the front. In the past development of the country, he explained how ideals have worked hand in hand with a crude sense of economic gain.

"The principal idealistic developments, such as the abolition of slavery, the introduction of the eight-hour day and prohibition have been motivated by a sound sense of the economic good these developments would cause," Dr. Lovell said.

Advance in Dentistry Told to Probus Club

Perfection of dental methods gradually will reduce the need for the replacement of teeth to a minimum, the Probus Club was told at its weekly luncheon meeting yesterday at the Ambassador Hotel by Dr. A. Harry Ostrow, Washington dentist.

Dr. Ostrow discussed the improvements in the profession for the preservation of teeth in contrasting dental methods of today with those of ancient Egypt, which, he declared, featured the use of ivory and wood in plugging teeth.

Governor and Others To Talk in Warrenton

Warrenton, Va., Oct. 30.—Gov. Harry F. Byrd, Attorney General John R. Saunders and Charles C. Carlin will speak in the Opera House here Saturday night, Harrison Nesbit, president of the Fauquier County Democratic Club, will preside and introduce the speakers.

A last-minute canvass of the county and its 21 precincts is reputed to show a gain for Dr. Pollard. From these sources it is predicted that Fauquier will return a Democratic majority of 600.

Arizona Attacks Boulder Dam Act

Breaking Off Negotiations, State Orders Suit to Test Legality.

Phoenix, Ariz., Oct. 30 (A.P.).—The Arizona Colorado River Commission announced today it had broken off all negotiations looking to a tristate compact between this State, California and Nevada for division of water and power of the Colorado River under the terms of the Boulder Canyon dam act.

Attorney General K. Berry Peterson, of Arizona, was instructed to proceed with legal steps necessary to protect the State's interests. The commission indicated suit would be filed attacking the constitutionality of the Boulder Dam bill and challenging the right of Congress to allocates the waters of the Colorado River.

The commission's action followed receipt of notice from Secretary of the Interior Wilbur that Arizona had been given 18 per cent of the hydro-electric power to be generated at the dam.

Secretary Wilbur said last night the action of the Arizona Colorado River Commission in breaking off negotiations with California and Nevada for division of water and power under the Boulder Dam bill had come sooner than Interior Department officials expected.

JAIL TERMS GIVEN THREE REPORTERS

CONTEMPT RULE APPLIED

Three reporters of the Washington Times—Gorman Hendricks, Linton Burkett and John E. Nevin, jr.—yesterday were committed to the District Jail to serve 45-day sentences for contempt of the District Supreme Court.

Lieut. Col. William E. Peake stated last night that while the three reporters had not been assigned to any particular task in the jail that they had been given numbers. In the jail Hendricks is officially No. 4277; Nevin, 4278, and Burkett, 4279.

They were sent to jail by Justice Peyton Gordon early yesterday after a lengthy hearing in open court at which time the trio of newspapermen reiterated their refusal to tell the grand jury where they had purchased whisky to support a series of articles dealing with the subject which has been running in the paper.

In passing sentence Justice Gordon decreed that the men must serve the sentences unless they purge themselves of the contempt.

Appeal Bond Denied.

The justice refused to set a supersedeas bond pending an appeal from his decision. It is understood that Attorneys Wilton J. Lambert and George Horning, jr., who represented the trio, will seek to gain their release by an immediate appeal to the District Court of Appeals. If this action is taken one of the justices of the appellate court will be requested to fix bond pending the outcome of the appeal.

Each of the three reporters was placed on the witness stand during the course of the hearing. Each testified he had made purchases of whisky on assignment from their city editor, Daniel O'Connell. Each explained that he had refused to disclose to the grand jury information concerning these purchases because he did not want to be placed in the position of being a "stool pigeon" or a "snooper." They declared that if they had answered the grand jury's questions they would have been degraded in the eyes of the public and would have been branded as outcasts by other members of the Fourth Estate.

Each testified that after he had made purchases of liquor he had made out a written report, which had been turned over to O'Connell. The city editor, who appeared before the grand jury earlier in the week, and who disclosed the names of his reporter-informers only after contempt action against him had been threatened, turned these reports over to the grand jury, they said.

Refuse to Identify Reports.

These reports are said to have contained names and addresses from whom and from which the liquor was purchased. The reporters, however, when questioned by the grand jury, refused under oath to identify the reports or divulge by their own lips the information which these reports contained.

"These reports did give the grand jury the benefit of your snooping?" Assistant United States Attorney Neil Burkinshaw asked Burkett.

"Yes," Burkett replied.

"Yet you refuse to go before the grand jury and swear that you made the liquor purchases as these reports disclose."

"I do."

"It's a fact, isn't it, that you would not identify your reports when questioned by the grand jury."

"I did not recognize any of the reports shown me."

At this point, Justice Gordon interposed and in a voice registering astonishment asked: "You mean you couldn't identify your own report."

During the course of argument by counsel for the defense to sustain an objection to a question asked by Burkinshaw, Justice Gordon ruled that if the reporters had information on which a case involving violation of the prohibition law could be made it was the right of the grand jury to have this information.

Judge Interrupts Defense.

Shortly afterward, Attorney Horning, while arguing the points of law and the testimony given by the three defendants criticized the manner in which the grand jury had conducted its investigation. The justice cut him off abruptly with: "I don't care to listen to any further dissertation as to how a grand jury should be conducted."

Burkinshaw, in his argument, declared that the three reporters were willing to be stool pigeons, "to use their own words, for the Washington Times, but when the United States wanted them to give this testimony to the grand jury they refused."

When Burkinshaw concluded, Justice Gordon called each of the defendants by name to stand before the bar.

Addressing them he declared that the questions propounded by the grand jury had been proper questions. He pointed out that the law "does not give you immunity, and that the reasons you assign for refusing to testify do not give you immunity."

"You still refuse to answer the questions?" Each of the defendants responded with a nod of his head. Then the justice passed sentence.

Each of the reporters was escorted from the courtroom by a deputy United States marshal. Still accompanied by a deputy, each of the trio reclaimed his coat from the press room and was escorted downstairs and into a private automobile used by the marshal's office.

Pan-American Plane Reported in Trouble

Guyaquil, Ecuador, Oct. 30 (A.P.)—The Pan-American-Grace Airways announced this afternoon that one of its planes, a southbound, had landed near Playas, because of shortage of gasoline but would continue its flight after refueling.

An earlier report to the National Telegraph had said that the plane had "fallen."

Disgusted Radio Dealer Wants Sign 'Signed Off'

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 30 (A.P.).—Dial this one on your radio: Leroy Cleveland, secretary of a local radio company, wants an electric sign arraigned for trespassing and disorderly conduct. He filed a petition in circuit court today asking a permanent injunction to restrain an automobile company from operating its hugh flasher sign. The sign, Cleveland said, sends out "waves." And the waves are on no definite wave band.

About the time he has a customer convinced as to the selectivity of a radio, the sign crashes that ruins reception of his selling through with a static broadcast program. Cleveland wants the sign signed off.

POLICE BOARD GIVES DELAY TO LANGDON

Officer, Accused of Liquor Violation, Will Face Courts First.

ELLERY ACTION HELD UP

Trial of Robert Langdon, suspended Fifth Precinct policeman, was indefinitely postponed by the Police Trial Board yesterday when Langdon's counsel told the board that his defense before it would interfere with his defense in the courts on the criminal charge against him.

Langdon was arrested on a charge of illegal transportation of liquor. It was intimated that Langdon might advance the defense that he was unaware that the ten gallons of liquor found in his automobile was there. The indefinite postponement granted by the police trial board was restriced to a "resonable time" to permit him to face the criminal charge in the courts.

Commendation by Capt. F. S. W. Burke and Lieut. J. F. Beckett, of the First Precinct, may save Policeman William F. Ellery, charged with intoxication on duty, Ellery admitted that he had taken a few highballs. His wife had given birth to a child and her subsequent grave illness had seriously unnerved him and left him distraught, Ellery told the trial board.

Both Capt. Burke and Lieut. Beckett, Ellery's superior officers, told the trial board that the policeman had had a splendid record and was considered an officer of good character. Burke adding that he never was more surprised in his life than when he discovered that Ellery had been drinking on duty. The board took the case under advisement.

CIVILIAN TRIAL BOARD DEMANDED BY DOYLE

Allen, suspended member of Doyle's former command. It was for approval of Allen's actions and statements that Doyle was charged with improper conduct as a police captain.

Allen Granted Postponement.

The District Commissioners, who were busy yesterday with a meeting of the zoning commission, said they expected to announce a decision today on Allen's request, but the new demands by Doyle, accompanied by his threat to use challenges to force the Commissioners to acquiesce, presents a more complicated situation which may delay decision, especially in view of the fact that the Commissioners are to be before the budget bureau discussing the annual District estimates most of the day.

Allen yesterday was granted a postponement of his trial until November 6. Request for such a postponement had been expected and had been agreed to by Robert E Lynch, assistant corporation counsel, assigned to prosecute the charges against the suspended captain and private. The postponement was formally granted when the trial board met yesterday.

Allen failed to make good his announcement Tuesday that he would appear in Traffic Court yesterday and fight a charge that he parked his automobile in front of his apartment at night without lights. Tuesday he was convicted and fined $2 for double parking at Fifteenth and H streets northwest shortly after 3 o'clock Monday afternoon.

Will Visit Court Today.

He explained his failure to appear in Traffic Court yesterday when his case was called by saying that he had not deposited collateral on the light charge and, consequently, his case should not have been called in court yesterday. He said he intended to appear in court today.

Doyle's lawyers yesterday took occasion to deny rumors that they had offered to have Doyle write a letter of apology if the charges against the captain would be dropped as a result. It was said that the offer was made by Fowler and Wampler Tuesday, but both attorneys declared the rumors were without foundation. William W. Bride, corporation counsel, and Assistant Corporation Counsel Lynch refused to discuss the rumors in any way.

Wampler said the stories arose from the fact that "two or three people who like to stick their noses in other people's business had gone to see Capt. Doyle at his home." But, Wampler added, Capt. Doyle's lawyers "knew nothing about the matter."

GIBSON WILL RENEW INQUIRY OF POLICE

Vermont Representative to Launch Fresh Quiz of Department Heads.

OLD REPORT WITHHELD

Representative Ernest W. Gibson (Republican), of Vermont, came back to Washington yesterday eager to learn the details of the latest furore in the Police Department.

Gibson, who headed a House subcommittee that devoted two years to investigating the local government, said he would be glad to go before the Sackett subcommittee whenever it desires to hear him.

Senator Sackett (Republican), of Kentucky, has announced that Gibson will be asked to give the subcommittee the benefit of his knowledge of conditions in the Police Department and in the city government generally.

Gibson's Report Withheld.

A fact not generally known is that Gibson's subcommittee never has submitted a report on its investigation of the Police Department. One reason for this is that the subcommittee still is awaiting a set of recommendations from Maj. Henry G. Pratt, chief of the department.

If Gibson's own personal views go into the report, that document will call for a general reorganization of the Police Department from the top down. He has frequently expressed the view that such a reorganization is necessary.

Gibson said yesterday that he is going to spend the next couple of days informing himself as to present conditions in the department. He wants to get the facts in the death of Virginia McPherson, the case that started all the trouble.

Gibson Seeks Police Data.

He wants to know if Policeman Robert J. Allen, the policeman who got the grand jury to call Mrs. McPherson's death murder, is being persecuted or is just an unmanageable private; he wants to inquire into the suspension of Allen and his commanding officer, Capt. Robert E. Doyle, after Doyle upheld Allen, and he wants to know about various other chapters in the long-drawn-out internal row.

When he has posted himself on these things, Gibson said, he may have a statement to issue. Meantime he plans to keep silent.

Representative John Schafer (Republican), of Wisconsin, is the latest member of Congress to interest himself in the police situation.

Schafer Enters Inquiry.

Schafer revealed yesterday that he was making an inquiry to determine whether it is true, as has been stated in a newspaper, that Policeman Allen is wearing war decorations to which he is not entitled. One newspaper story charged that the stormy young private was wearing a ribbon awarded for a campaign that was waged in the Punjab before he was born.

Schafer has communicated with the War Department and asked for information bearing on the law covering the wearing of decorations which were not honestly earned.

If Allen has violated this law, Schafer said, he should be punished; if he is entitled to his decorations, Schafer said, that fact should be made known. He issued an open invitation to Allen to visit the Capitol and discuss the matter with him.

CLEMENTEL, FRENCH RADICAL, TO ATTEMPT NEW CABINET

torpedoed his chances of winning moderate support, so he threw up his task.

Briand, in replying to the former history teacher whom Herriot brought into politics, went to unusual lengths for him, giving a long statement to newspaper men who have followed developments in the present cabinet crisis. White with rage at the charge of bad faith, he said:

"First I promised Daladier to join in a government in which the Socialists participated. When the Socialists refused, I renewed to Daladier yesterday afternoon my promise to join any government he could form, provided, of course, I was consulted as to its composition and program.

"To my surprise I learned in the evening that Daladier had decided to give up, giving as an excuse that I had abandoned him. I immediately sent him word I was ready to collaborate and renewed my promise.

"He gave up anyhow, and I am beginning to ask myself whether what was hoped for from me was not collaboration, but refusal, so he could place on me responsibility for his failure."

The truth appears to be that Daladier, in his enthusiasm, thought he could treat Briand like any other candidate for a ministry and found that the eleven-times premier was merely willing to keep his post in any cabinet, considering himself, since Locarno and The Hague, above the melee.

The incident has, however, led to bitter recriminations and the radical Socialists, especially the younger group devoted to Daladier, are now out to get Briand's scalp. This situation adds considerably to the delicacy of the task of creating a moderate majority on which Clementel is embarked.

GIFT RECEIVED BY MME. CURIE AT CEREMONIES IN CAPITAL

American people for their gratitude for the "benificent service Mme. Curie has given to all mankind."

Accepting the silver-encased draft, Mme. Curie thanked Hoover in a voice scarcely audible in the vaulted auditorium. She promised to carry it back with her as "a symbol of enduring friendship binding your country to France and to Poland."

The ceremonies, in the National Academy of Scientists, under the direction of Dr. William Welsh, of Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, were attended by several hundred persons, including many prominent scientists, doctors and members of the Senate and Diplomatic Corps. The radium fund was raised under the supervision of Mrs. William Brown Meloney from contributions made by American women in all parts of the country.

The President told the unassuming, famous woman that the whole American people was gratified that she had honored this country by coming here.

"It is not necessary for me to recount the great fundamental discovery associated with the names of her late husband and herself," he said. "The discovery of radium was an outstanding triumph of research in the realm of pure science. It was indeed a great and successful exploration into the unknown from which a new truth has brought to the world a practical revolution in our conceptions of substance."

"It has advanced all thought on the constitution of matter. And, like all great discoveries of fundamental substance and fact, it has found application to human use," Hoover continued.

"In the treatment of disease, especially of cancer, it has brought relief of human suffering to hundreds of thousands of men and women.

"As an indication of the appreciation and the respect which our people feel for Mme. Curie, generous minded men and women under the leadership of Mrs. William B. Meloney have provided the funds with which a gram of radium is to be purchased and presented to the hospital and research institute which bears her name in Warsaw.

"The construction of this hospital was a magnificent tribute by the city of her birth and the Polish people in which the American people are glad to have even this opportunity of modest participation.

"The whole of this occasion where we pay tribute to a great scientist is again a recognition of the fundamental importance of scientific research and a mark of public appreciation of those who have given their lives to human service through its profession."

Mme. Curie replied that this second gift of a gram of radium was given with great kindness and understanding and that it gratified one of her dear wishes.

"My work is very much my life," she said. "I have been made happy by your generous support of it."

Mme. Curie said that it had been an additional as well as an unexpected happiness for her to know that her work could be used to relieve human suffering. She told the President: "In my land your name is revered for having saved, by your humanitarian work, a large part of the young generation," and added that the gratitude of the Polish people would be enhanced toward him and the United States by this new evidence of appreciation.

M'PHERSON MURDER THEORY IS STRONGER

Suicide Claim in Strangling of Nurse Fades; Federal Report Due Soon.

MANY RUMORS BLASTED

As the Federal investigation of the mysterious death of Mrs. Virginia Hurley McPherson nears its conclusion, the murder theory appears to be gaining credibility, while the supports which previously bolstered the suicide theory are gradually being removed.

One staunch advocate of the suicide theory, who declared he had three witnesses who saw the pretty young nurse knot the cord of her pajamas about her throat and strangle herself to death in the bedroom of her Park Lane apartment on the night of September 12, failed completely to produce or name these witnesses when called upon by the Department of Justice, it is learned.

Several rumors which would tend to strengthen the suicide theory have emanated from the Police Department within the last week, but investigation has revealed them as lacking foundation in fact.

One of these reports stated that one of the more important witnesses substantiated the murder story had completely retracted all testimony indicating that Mrs. McPherson had been slain, and substituted in its stead a new story which would appear to lend credence to the suicide angle. This report was disproven when the witness was called before the Federal agents and not only repeated the original testimony, but added additional facts indicating murder.

The Department of Justice will complete its investigation and submit a detailed report of its findings within the next few days to Special Prosecutor John E. Laskey, it was indicated yesterday.

Grape Juice Firm Head Arrested in Dry Raid

St. Louis, Oct. 30 (A.P.).—William Davis, president of the Colony Vintages Co., of St. Louis, furnished $1,000 bond today for his appearance in Federal court to face a charge of sale and possession of intoxicating liquor. He was arrested after Federal prohibition agents raided the company's establishment and seized a quantity of grape juice which they said had developed a "kick."

Davis' company was defendant in a $100,000 grape juice damage suit last July which attracted Nation-wide attention. Federal Judge Charles B. Davis dismissed the suit because it involved "an unlawful plan of manufacturing intoxicating liquors from grape juice."

Free-for-All Tariff Fight May Wreck Parties

The bitter fight over the tariff now on in Washington, we are told by correspondents on the spot, is something deeper and more serious than it seems to the casual observer. It may appear to the eye as nothing more than a squabble over this or that rate in the new tariff bill, but, stript of all disguise, says the correspondent of the Hearst newspapers, it is "a political free-for-all, in which control of Congress and perhaps of the Presidency are at stake."

Some ominous possibilities of this new war loom large. Washington hasn't seen such a contest "since the historic set-to between President Wilson and the Senate over the Versailles Treaty," writes W. W. Jermane, of the Seattle Times. Today "both the West and the South are against the East; if such a union can be made permanent, party reorganization will come." Therefore "there may be something more at stake in what is now getting under way than the fate of Mr. Hoover and his legislative program."

Editorial sentiment in the leading newspapers throughout the country upon this subject is shown in the leading article in "The Literary Digest" this week, and from it the public will get a clear and searching description and analysis of all its phases and what the fight may lead to. A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

THE MARKET STEADIES.

By every measurement, business is good and the country is prosperous. Employment is greater than it was a year ago. Factory wage payments in September were larger than in the corresponding month of 1928. Car loadings are running ahead of last year. Exports have been increasing. Only the stock market has run counter to the general trend, and its performance since a week ago today has had little factual justification. Hysteria induced the decline. Once started it gained momentum in the forced selling that invariably characterizes a bear market, and thousands who were financially unable to stand the gaff were forced to sacrifice their holdings. But there is reason to believe that rock bottom was reached in the record-breaking session of Tuesday, and that yesterday's trading marked a turn toward stabilization and normalcy.

The market slump, if it had continued, would have had a serious effect upon business. The year has been marked by a tendency toward diversification and expansion upon the part of American business. Diversification and expansion require large capital investment and for many months the security markets have been filled with new issues. If this trend is to continue, and it is highly desirable that it should, there must be a satisfactory market through which new securities can be passed on to individual investors. If the market were to have continued depressed, business would have been severely hampered in its plans for expansion and diversification.

Yesterday, for the first time in some days, the sentiment seemed to be bullish rather than bearish. For weeks there has been an undercurrent of pessimism, induced, no doubt, by the several statements of the Federal Reserve Board upon the situation with respect to brokers' loans and the general uneasiness of the market. But overnight sentiment changed. Dr. Julius Klein, Assistant Secretary of Commerce, delivered a speech over the radio that was full of optimism regarding "the general economic future of the country," in which he said: "Never before has American industry and commerce been so ably managed as at present. Our commercial and industrial corporations are headed by men of broad vision, high qualifications and large experience with the intricate problems of our complex economic scheme." Such a statement was calculated to inspire confidence, and it did.

Developments of the next few days will bear watching. The market may have its ups and downs for some time to come, particularly if it reacts violently enough to make profit taking possible. But the trend yesterday seemed to be toward stabilization, from which there will probably develop a steady readjustment of values to earnings.

SENATOR NORRIS.

Senator Norris, of Nebraska, announces his candidacy for reelection. Will he pose as a Republican? He doesn't dare to say that he will. His somewhat incoherent announcement, when analyzed, seems to state that he will run as a "nonpartisan." His chief reason for seeking office again, according to his statement, is because the Republicans would prefer to have a regular Republican in his place. Naturally, he denounces them as mercenary and unscrupulous. The idea that a man can be loyal to a political party and remain an honest man is beyond Mr. Norris' understanding.

If to be a habitual turncoat is proof of honesty, Senator Norris is by all odds the most honest man in the Senate. He has rarely failed to desert a cause. When the Republican party decided to nominate Herbert Hoover instead of himself, Senator Norris bolted and advocated the election of Gov. Al Smith. In doing so he deserted the prohibition cause and invited the rebuke that Nebraska drys are preparing to administer to him. He has been largely instrumental in killing the tariff bill, upon which Nebraska farmers have been depending in part as an aid toward better times. If he had had his way he would have brought about the death of the farm relief bill with its debenture appendix. He obstructed the bill to the very last.

Nebraska gave Hoover 147,000 plurality. The 345,000 Republicans who supported Hoover may be enamored of Norris, who has done all he could to destroy the Hoover administration, but there is no evidence that these Republicans wish to elect a "nonpartisan" as a means of assisting the Republican party to carry on the Government. The Nebraska drys who saw Senator Norris flout and betray their cause in 1928 may be ready now to vote for Norris as a newly converted wet, but they have not indicated as much.

The greatest service that Nebraska can do for the general welfare of that State and the country is to insist that Senator Norris shall stick to his recent determination to favor the public by retiring. He owes the country this small kindness.

THE STATES IN THE SENATE.

Joseph R. Grundy's testimony before the Senate committee investigating lobbyists was so spicy and rich in humor that it will not be taken seriously. The committee, it seems, wandered far afield from its avowed intention of expelling lobbyists from Congress, and drew the witness out on political science. Mr. Grundy reveled in this opportunity to tell the committee just what he thinks of the Senate as an instrument of government. He considers it unfortunate that the sparsely populated, "backward" States of the South and West were accorded equal representation in the Senate with the wealthy, progressive States of the East. The voice of each State in the Senate, he said, should be proportionate to its productivity, population and contribution to the national upkeep.

It is not surprising that such radical doctrine was laughed at in the committee room. But the recent conduct of the Senate is sufficient to give point to Mr. Grundy's remark. The agricultural West has manifested active antagonism toward the industrial East. In the House of Representatives that opposition is less pronounced because the strength of the agricultural States is proportional to their population. But in the Senate the agricultural bloc is wielding the balance of power, and thus obstructing legislation in which the whole country is interested.

Widening of this breach between the industrial and agricultural sections is probable because the exclusively agricultural States have equal representation with States which are both industrial and agricultural. In spite of the humor entwined in the Grundy testimony, he has hit upon an extremely serious problem confronting the Senate. If the membership continues to divide upon industrial lines, the Senate is certain to become more unmanageable. And each new excursion into the realm of sectional politics will reduce its prestige in the eyes of the public. In the end the Senate itself may conclude that the method of apportioning its members among the States is "unfortunate." But no State, except Pennsylvania, can be deprived of its two senators, even by an attempt to amend the Constitution.

A MOTORWAYS INQUIRY.

Senator Phipps has indicated that he will press for action on the joint resolution sponsored by himself and Representative Robsion for the creation of a motorways commission. The resolution calls for a comprehensive study of traffic problems, with a special view toward determining the needs of highway development. A special function of this commission would be to advise Congress as to what part, if any, the Federal Government should take in construction of an express motorways system.

The need of a great trunk line system of highways is more apparent every day. Millions of new cars increase the flow of traffic each year. Bus lines and trucking services now reach to all parts of the country and every indication points to the conclusion that these vehicles will carry still greater loads of passengers and freight in the future. Motor vehicles are increasing much more rapidly than highway mileage. Some of the new buses and trucks are too heavy for ordinary highways, and at least one State is attempting to limit such traffic on its roads. Inadequacy of highways is one of the big factors in the high death rate from traffic accidents.

These facts give rise to innumerable problems. Are the States capable of developing a highway system suitable for heavy interstate traffic? What portion of the cost should be borne by commercial transportation agencies that use the roads? What part shall the Government play in the development of continental highways? Can not a program be worked out so that it will relieve unemployment? It is not intended that the proposed motorways commission solve these questions, but that it submit to Congress the facts brought out in its research, along with recommendations. Vast savings might be possible if road construction were coordinated under a comprehensive plan.

The resolution would not create another expensive commission. Membership would be confined to two senators, two representatives and appointees from the Departments of Agriculture, Commerce, Postoffice, War, Labor and Treasury and one traffic expert not in Government service. All would serve without compensation and, in so far as possible, existing facilities and employes of the Government would be used to carry on the survey.

In view of the fact that Congress is already furnishing $75,000,000 per year to the States for highway purposes and is considering enlargement of this sum the resolution is worthy of consideration. The information assembled would be valuable to both Federal and State governments in formulating future programs.

DRAINING THE NATION'S OIL.

Mexico was the only country in the world reporting reduced production of oil last year. The Mexican output was reduced from 64,121,000 to 50,150,000 barrels of crude petroleum in 1928, and preliminary figures for this year presage another sharp reduction. A report from the Bureau of Mines shows that every other major oil producing country increased its output.

Oil wells in the United States yielded more than in any previous year, although the increase was only .09 per cent. The increase in other countries was much more pronounced. Venezuela, the second largest producer, put 106,000,000 barrels on the market, which is an increase of 68 per cent. Figures for the first seven months of this year indicate further phenomenal gains. Russian production last year increased 14 per cent; Roumanian, 16 per cent; Colombian, nearly 33 per cent, and that of Trinidad, more than 35 per cent.

For the last five years the United States has contributed 70 per cent or more of the total world production. Last year this figure declined to 68.2 per cent, showing some improvement, but the drainage from the United States wells is so disproportionate to the known supply of oil in this country that sharp increases in foreign fields for many years will not fully reestablish a balance.

British and Dutch interests, the chief competitors with America in the field of oil production, have reached an agreement which makes economical production and distribution of petroleum products possible. American producers have been prevented from making an agreement to limit production by the anti-trust laws, and are dependent upon the Federal and State governments for conservation measures. The British and Dutch concerns are not subject to antitrust laws. They have pooled their interests and are marketing their products jointly throughout the world. This avoids duplication of facilities, reduces transportation costs and nullifies competition.

A movement is on foot to include American concerns in the world-wide agreement. If a more steady flow to foreign countries could be provided it would ease the overproduction and storage problems within this country. Apparently the foreign producers, who have control of production, are willing to welcome the American producers, who do not have national control of output, into the international fold. Under present conditions such a step would no doubt stimulate further wildcat drilling and uneconomical production in the United States and permit conservation in all other countries. The unorganized domestic industry would exhaust its oil supply while prices are low, and the foreign concerns would be left supreme in the petroleum industry in the future.

Economical distribution is very desirable, but if it means that American oil reservoirs will continue to be drained at the present rate, or even faster, it offers no solution for the industry's biggest problem. British and Dutch companies are themselves contributing to the chaotic conditions in this country, drawing approximately 15 per cent of their total production from American wells. The United States can not afford to solve its overproduction problem by extending its markets. What is needed is to bring about a more proportionate output among the oil-producing nations. This can be done only by reducing operations in the United States.

MOVIE TRICKS

From the Pathfinder.

There are tricks in all trades, according to the old saying, and its application to the taking of moving pictures is most appropriate. It is the tricks that have helped make moving pictures what they are today. How often you have heard others say, and have probably said yourself, while witnessing an exciting movie, "How dangerous!" or, "I wonder how they took that picture," when in most cases the scenes were "shot" in a cool and painstaking manner without the slightest danger of injury to any one.

Take, for instance, some of those train wrecks. The engines smash head-on into each other, overturning, and derailing coaches, while fire threatens to burn the passengers inside. No danger at all! Engines were first placed together, then the trains were backed away from each other. When the film is reversed for picturization it shows the two trains approaching one another.

The wrecked trains can be either photographs of real accidents on file in the movie library, or fake engines and coaches may be built into a "set" and actors placed wherever the story calls for them to "do their stuff." It is a simple matter to set fire to fake coaches when there is no one in them.

Many a sinking ship, railroad wreck, naval battle, &c., has been taken in miniature right in the studio. Small figures are constructed. The wild sea may be a pan of water with an electric fan making the waves, the storm's fury may be nothing more than a fan spraying water and blowing trees and other things built into the "set." In large scenes showing fake storms, airplane propellers or huge wind machines are used.

By the miniature method, small pebbles may be reproduced to look like huge rocks, a small stream like a wide river, &c. Lightning is made by scratching a zigzag mark on the film with a stiletto.

Did you ever see a pitcher of water pouring itself into a glass, without the aid of human hands? Well, the human hands were there, all right, but they held the pitcher by means of black threads, which are not seen in the film when it reaches the public. Tedious, indeed, is the taking of pictures where, say, a lump of clay is seen to gradually change its form until it finally becomes a model of some kind. In this case an artist shapes the clay but the camera takes pictures only at intervals in the process, when the artist stands aside. When the picture is shown it looks as if the clay were molded by some supernatural agency.

Then there is "doubling" on movies, where one actor takes two parts simultaneously. Of course the picture is "shot" twice, a half of the film at a time. It is what photographers call "double exposure." "Spirit" pictures are taken by superimposing the "spirit" on a previously exposed film.

Various effects are gained by employing "slow motion" and "fast motion" in the taking of pictures. If it is desired to give the startling effect of lightning speed to a naturally slow moving object, the picture is taken at say one-eighth the regular speed; then when it is projected in the theater at regular speed the object appears to move eight times faster than normally. Likewise, when slow effects are desired the picture is taken on a high speed camera at, say, five times regular speed. When the picture is shown at regular speed the object in question appears to move five times as slow as ordinarily.

LINES ABOUT GRAND CANYON MULES.

Oh, feed him well before we start—
Give him of oats and hay enough;
I have no wish, when we depart,
To watch him dine off yonder bluff.

You say the mule is sure of foot—
And I believe the statement true;
But mules which reach for herb and root
From narrow ledges chill me through.

I've every confidence in him—
I'd trust my life unto my guide;
But on a dreadful chasm's rim
I'm somewhat nervous when I ride.

Great precipices as a rule
Are fearful things in sun or shade,
Which proves, of course, I'm not a mule
Or I should walk them unafraid.

But when 2 feet below the edge
A patch of green my mule can see,
And reaches for it from the ledge,
He makes a nervous wreck of me.

It somewhat dims my joy in scenes
Of splendor mighty canyons show
To have my mule reach down for greens
Which in the walls of chasms grow.

I know there's many a morsel sweet
Along that narrow, winding track;
But can't you tell him not to eat—
At least while I am on his back?

Is a Wrong Made Right by the Fact That You Can't Afford to Undo It?

By ROBERT QUILLEN

THE most prolific cause of divorce, as everybody knows, is mock marriage. Young people marry without love, find their partnership unbearable, and ask the courts to undo the wrong they have done.

The experience is enlightening, but costly. It is like pouring wine and milk together to discover whether the mixture is palatable. A chemist can separate them again, but neither will ever be as it was.

The second most prolific cause of divorce is the economic independence of women.

Reno statistics gathered by an experienced investigator indicate that wealthy society women lead all other classes in their eagerness to regain the freedom of maidenhood. And stenographers, trained nurses and skilled professional assistants follow in the order named, while girls who go direct from home and school to the altar, without any experience of earning money, ask fewer divorces than any other group.

The explanation is obvious. The wealthy society women are sure of generous alimony; the experienced workers know they can take care of themselves; and those who never had earned money are willing to endure an unpleasant union rather than face the world alone without other resource than their own untried ability.

If we suppose that the women of one group come as near as the women of any other to finding the mates they deserve, and as a class have no more grievances than any other, we must conclude that the "success" of marriage rests upon the wife's dependence, and they separate who dare.

Thus we can understand that divorces were fewer 50 years ago because women were unable to earn their own bread. They endured ill treatment and loveless slavery as the less of two evils.

And modern women, in degree as they are independent of man's earnings, are disposed to disregard their marriage vows because they are not compelled by economic necessity to endure a union that is imperfect.

That brings us to a conclusion that does little credit to our conception of virtue.

To continue a marriage because divorce would shut off the supply of bread and butter is no more virtuous than to refrain from drunkenness because you can't afford it.

It is the spirit that makes virtue, not the letter of the law.

And the evil of a loveless marriage is in its continuance, not in its termination.

The time to safeguard marriage is before its sacredness is mocked and violated. You can't protect a temple by locking within it the vandals who enter.

BROKERS' VIEWS ON THE MARKET'S FUTURE.

Tweekle, Tittlebaum & Fonk: We believe the recent debacle was a good thing for the market and for the country. Thousands of people who had been treating their jobs as of secondary importance can now go back and do a little work. It will be a great benefit to amateur art in America, too, as countless persons who have been using their pencils to figure up paper profits on the backs of envelopes can now return to the good old practice of drawing funny faces.

• • • •

Gook, Haywire & Schmalz: We see nothing to worry about. Stocks are down where they ought to be and so are the players. We regard the break as having come just in time to dispose of the conviction that the cookoo was America's national bird. Two more months of making crazy calculations on tablecloths and there wouldn't have been a dozen sane men left in the country. Nor a clean tablecloth.

• • • •

Biffle, Waffle & Wimp: No matter what you may think of the market collapse, it must be pretty generally admittd that it will be a great thing for conversation. With chatter almost completely limited to stock dividends, split-ups, brokers' loans, the rediscount rate and the question whether the sausage industry merger would go through or not, it had become very difficult for a man with something really interesting to say to get a hearing at any gathering. Bridge games were becoming an intolerable bore with one's partner yawpin on about his profits in public utilities, you couldn't play golf without hearing eighteen holes of merger prospects, and even at weddings the parson frequently forgot his lines and asked the bride, "What do you think about the steels?" It was high time the country got back to talking about something else and the market break will make America a better place to live in.

• • • •

Speevis, Zilch & Applebaum: We look for a period of uncertainty in the market and a return of the American family to the small-car class, with less emphasis on the electric cigar-lighter, vanity-case and trunk-carrier. Certain stocks will advance and certain stocks will not, but we feel safe in predicting that hunters for bargains in slightly used yachts are going to run into amazing opportunities. It is all just as well. Our harbors were becoming too crowded with boats exceeding 35 feet over-all, anyhow, and the empty gin bottles on the beach in the morning were a constant menace to bathers.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Rear Admiral Chester Praises President of Turkish Republic for His Friendly Attitude—Urges Ratification of Treaty.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Your editorial tribute to Kemal Pasha, the George Washington of Turkey, on the sixth anniversary of her declaration of independence is timely and just. The people of the United States might take a lesson from those past six years of Turkish history as contrasted with the same length of period of liberty without justice, after the treaty of peace negotiated between the Washington Government and that of King George III, in 1783, took place, which, after the most startling events of history ushered in the "Whiskey Rebellion" in this country, followed by wars with France and Great Britain for the freedom of the seas and ostracising the "Father of his Country."

In spite of the fact that the United States Senate has refused for six years to ratify the Turco-American treaty of amity and commerce, while every other nation in the world has reaped decided benefits by so doing, Kemal Pasha, the president of the Turkish Republic, has granted America the same privileges in trade with Turkey as to "the most favored nation," and displayed more acts of friendship than all the rest of European states put together.

One thing in particular the American people should not forget. That is that the law of religious toleration, in Turkey, copied from the American Constitution, was confessedly violated by an American woman a short while ago, and she was subjected to this atrocious sentence: To be confined to her own home for three days, without a guard and instructed to telephone to the police station if she wanted anything.

"Do unto others as they would do unto you" is the golden rule.

Public Would Like to See Hand Recaptured.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Since the escape of Wilbur W. Hand from his Fifth Precinct cell, the public has heard nothing but assumptions of how he gained egress. Now that he is gone, why don't the Police Department get busy and recapture him?

Can it be that the police and detectives are working on the case and keeping their movements a secret? If so, they are to be commended, as usually every move made by the police is known by the public and consequently by the guilty party in question. If the force works secretly on a case, they have a much better chance of capturing their quarry than if they announce their intended moves, unless such announcements are faked for the purpose of bewildering the pursued. The public would like to see Hand recaptured by some member of the District police force. R. P. B.

"Broadmindedness" in Admitting Communists May Mean Something Else.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: There is ample evidence that the communistic advocates of direct action have made considerable progress in the Southern textile regions. Evidently the Karolyis are being imported to convert to communistic beliefs the workers of the Southern textile belt.

It is to be supposed that Secretary Stimson offers his reversal of the Hughes-Coolidge-Kellogg policy with respect to the Karolyis and their ilk as an evidence of broadmindedness. He should remember that a mind too broad may be spread too thin and, consequently, become weak in spots. It would not be ungenerous to assume that the recent decision to subject our country to the Karolyi curse is the result of mental attenuation rather than of mental breadth in the generally accepted sense. Advocates Birth Control of Insects Rather Than of Animals.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I read in one of the Washington papers of October 29 an article containing the report of the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Anmials, which stated that the society is in favor of birth control for animals. If the society really wants to make itself useful, why doesn't it advocate and practice birth control of insects? Insects are more harmful and more of a nuisance than animals.

By control of insect breeding the farmer would not be pestered by the corn borer, the housewife would not be troubled by water bugs, and the vacationists could sit out under the trees on warm moonlight nights without getting their legs and arms covered with mosquito bites. It would be just as easy and more beneficial to practice birth control on insects than it would be to practice it on animals. JERSEYITE.

White House Affair Honors Mme. Curie

Famous Scientist Guest at Dinner, Which 22 Attend.

By JEAN ELIOT.

THE President and Mrs. Hoover entertained at dinner last night in honor of Mme. Curie, co-discoverer of radium and the most distinguished woman scientist of her day. Because it followed so closely upon the ceremonies at the National Academy of Science, which must have been rather fatiguing to a woman in fraid health, the dinner company was kept small, there being but 22 guests.

The guests asked to meet Mme. Curie were Dr. and Mrs. Vernon Kellogg, Dr. and Mrs. Charles G. Abbot, Dr. and Mrs. Lyman J. Briggs, Dr. and Mrs. John C. Merriam, Dr. Ludwig Hektoef, Dr. and Mrs. John C. Bloodgood, of Baltimore; Dr. and Mrs. David White, Commander and Mrs. Joel T. Boone, Contesse de Buyer-Mimverie, Dr. Ambrose Swasey and Dr. William H. Welch.

Mrs. Hoover accompanied the President to the Academy of Science in the late afternoon, when he presented to Mme. Curie a draft for $50,000 for the purchase of a gram of radium, the gift of her admirers in the United States, which is to be used in the Curie Institute in Warsaw.

Witm Mme. Curie, who has been a guest of the President and Mrs. Hoover since her arrival in Washington on Tuesday, is Mrs. William Brown Meloney. Another White House guest is Contesse de Buyer-Mimverie, who came to Washington yesterday afternoon. She was formerly Miss Daisy Polk, of San Francisco and Kentucky.

There were no formal festivities for Mme. Curie, tired with her journey from New York, before the dinner last night, but on the evening before the White House family group was augmented for dinner by Justice and Mrs. Harlan Fiske Stone and Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Caspar Miller.

Since arriving in this country on October 15, Mme. Curie has dedicated the new Hepburn Laboratory of Chemistry at St. Lawrence University, Canton, N. Y., and has honored a fellow scientist, Thomas A. Edison, attending the celebration marking the fiftieth anniversary of his invention of the incandescent light.

Tonight, following her return to New York, she will be guest of honor at a dinner to be given by the New York committee of the American Association for the Control of Cancer. The Minister of Poland and Mme. Filipowicz, with Mr. Podoski, of the legation staff, will go to New York for this dinner, returning to Washington tomorrow. Mme. Curie, it will be remembered, is Polish by birth, although French by adoption and international by her service to humanity.

Envoy to Entertain Secretary of State.

The Minister of Nicaragua and Senora de Sacasa have issued invitations for a dinner in honor of the Secretary of State and Mrs. Stimson on November 8.

The Minister and Senora de Sacasa entertained at dinner last evening in honor of Dr. Simon Planas Suarez, Nicaraguan legate to the Institute of International Law, and Senora de Planas Suarez. The other guests were the Charge d'Affaires of Argentina and Senora de Enciso, Charge d'Affaires of Salvador and Senora de Leiva, Senor Foley Guell, financial representative of the Nicaraguan government; Senorita Maria Sacasa, Senora Emalin Martinez, and the Counselor of the Legation, Senor Dr. Don Evaristo Carazo.

The new Minister of South Africa to the United States and Mrs. Louw returned to Washington last evening from New York and are at the Willard.

Mrs. Pierce Butler, wife of Justice Butler, is in New York for a few days and is at the St. Regis.

The United States Minister to Nicaragua, Mr. Charles C. Eberhardt, is at the Mayflower.

Miss Rebecca Dial Will Give At Home.

Miss Rebecca Dial will be at home Sunday afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock at her studio in the Portland. The hostess will be assisted by Mrs. Arthur MacArthur, Mrs. Ella May Powell, Mrs. Robert M. Gates, Miss Grace Roper, Miss Anna Green, Miss Sarah Hobbs and Miss Fannie May Trimble.

Mrs. Walter E. Edge has joined Senator Edge at the Carlton, where they have taken an apartment for the present session of Congress. Mrs. Edge has been in Atlantic City.

Mrs. Robert Ash will leave Saturday for Hollywood, Calif., where she will pass several weeks with her mother, Mrs. Edward White Luna, who is spending the winter there.

Mr. Ash will leave at the end of the week for Birmingham, Ala., and later will go to Texas.

Mrs. Alfred J. Brosseau, who left Washington last Thursday for a short stay in Hot Springs, is back in town and again at the Willard.

Mrs. Stimson Is Hostess To Diplomats

Wife of State Secretary Holds Reception, Her First of Season.

Mrs. Henry L. Stimson, wife of the Secretary of State, gave a formal reception yesterday at 5 o'clock at Woodley for the chiefs of the diplomatic missions and members of their families. The Secretary received with Mrs. Stimson.

It is traditionally the custom for the wife of the Secretary of State, whose relations with the Diplomatic Corps are especially close and cordial, to extend such hospitality to the chiefs of the foreign missions in the early days of each administration. And Woodley, with its many historic associations and with its drawing rooms in which much of the charm of a bygone day has been happily preserved, made a perfect setting for such a fete. Autumn flowers were used in profusion through the house.

Today Secretary Stimson will give a luncheon at the Pan-American Union, always at the disposal of the Secretary of State for formal entertaining, for the members of the International Commission of Mexico and the United States.

Mr. Winston Churchill, British statesman, sailed yesterday for Europe on the S. S. Berengaria, after a prolonged visit in the United States. With him was his brother, Maj. John Churchill.

Mrs. Gillett-Hill has opened her studio house at 2133 R street for the season and has with her her goddaughter, Miss Jean Hay, whom she will present to society this season. Mrs. Hill's daughter, Mrs. James McClure, has come from her home in Kentucky to be with her mother for a short visit.

Maj. and Mrs. W. W. Hicks, who recently returned from Vienna, Austria, are visiting the latter's parents, Col. and Mrs. William Baird, at the Westmoreland. Maj. Hicks was until recently Military Attache at the American Legation in Vienna.

Mrs. Edmund Kirby Webster and Miss Frances Webster have returned to Washington after an absence of several months in Connecticut and New York. They are at the Highlands for the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin P. Selby, who spent the last two winters in Washington, will not be here this season. They have returned to their home in San Francisco and are at the Huntington Apartments.

Mrs. Delos A. Blodgett and Mrs. Charles G. Matthews will return to Washington at the end of this week from New York, where they spent some time.

Woman's Club To Fete Heads Of Democrats

First Reception of This Season to Be Given Tonight.

All "deserving Democrats" in Washington have been invited to attend a reception to be held at the Woman's National Democratic Club tonight from 9:30 until 11 o'clock in compliment to Mr. Jouett Shouse, chairman of the executive committee of the Democratic National Committee, and Mrs. Shouse. Moreover, distinguished party leaders from far and wide are expected to attend this fete, which is the first formal entertainment on the club's calendar for this season.

Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, president of the club, will greet the guests and present them to members of the governing board who will be in the receiving line. Prominent in this group will be Mrs. Nellie Taylor Ross, one-time Governor of Wyoming, who is now busy with the Democratic National Committee perfecting a perma-

Distinguished Debutantes

What a charming, cosmopolitan group they are—our Washington debutantes. The group of young persons making their bow this season is unusually representative of Washington Society, for the Cabinet, the Diplomatic Corps, Officialdom, Residential Washington and the Service are making noteworthy contributions.

Just as charming—just as representative of capricious Fashion are the Woodward & Lothrop debutante gowns about to enter the Washington social scene. Never have they been so breathlessly lovely—so dramatic—so individual.

Our debutante is wearing a copy of Chanel's tiered robe de style in jade moire with velvet ribbons, $85

Other Debutante Frocks, $49.50 to $125

With NELSON B. BELL.

THE Rialto Theater announces that beginning tomorrow its new bills will be inaugurated on Friday of each week instead of Saturday, as heretofore.

This revives a matter that has puzzled theater managers ever since opening day in the movie houses was moved up from Sunday to Saturday. Originally, the big Sunday business was supposed to represent the maximum one-day "take" that any box office might reasonably expect to negotiate. It was therefore with the utmost surprise that a few adventurous souls discovered that by opening their new shows on Saturday they were able to increase gross receipts over the week-end in sums ranging from $500 up, depending on the capacity of the given house and the number of performances presented.

There is no definitely known reason why this should be so. Any picture is a first-run until you have seen it, and it would seem that it should make no appreciable difference whether Saturday is the last day of the week or the first in the view of those who plan to see a certain picture on that day. But it does.

And now the Rialto, following the lead of certain New York houses and a few in the Middle West and on the West Coast, has concluded that if Saturday is better than Sunday, Friday must be better than Saturday.

There are, to be sure, arguments on both sides—especially when the booking of stage acts, unit shows or presentations traveling regularly assigned routes is eliminated. At the moment, however, I see nothing to prevent a gradual moving up of the opening day until we finally get back to Sunday again.

Then, I presume, we will begin it all over and rediscover Saturday.

Considerable curiosity has been manifested since last Saturday as to the identity of the gentleman with the gorgeous barytone voice who sings briefly in one of the Aregon Cafe scenes in "Street Girl," starring Betty Compson at RKO-Keith's.

Until about fifteen minutes ago, I had not the faintest idea who he was. Now I am apprised by a helpful informant that his name for purposes of the cinema is Raymond Maurel, but that his real name is something entirely else again, although familiar enough to patrons of the Metropolitan Grand Opera House in New York, from which he was enticed by a heavy pay envelope.

The man who told me is now cudgeling the old bean in an effort to recall the real name and assures me that we'll all be surprised if he succeeds.

On a day when contributions to the column are welcomed with avidity, I have just been handed this:

All boys and girls of Washington are invited to the Halloween costume parties to be held at the Saturday matinees in eight Stanley-Crandall motion picture theaters of the city, November 2.

If you've never been to a Stanley-Crandall Halloween costume party before, by all means don't miss this one, for it's going to be bigger and better than ever.

Cash prizes will be awarded by the managements of the theaters to the children wearing the most original, funniest and prettiest costumes.

The parties will be held simultaneously at the Avalon, Avenue Grand, Ambassador, Apollo, Tivoli, Home, York and Colony Theaters. Remember, you can wear the same costume to the party that you wear on Halloween night, so take good care of it. Or if you have a better idea for a costume, make good use of it before Saturday.

And for the week that impends attractions in the local film houses will be something like this: Earle, begining Friday midnight, Richard Barthelmess in "Young Nowheres," second of the features for "Big Picture Month;" Fox, Lee Tracy, Josephine Dunn and Stepin Fetchit in "Big Time;" Palace, Cliff Edwards, Sally Starr and Elliott Nugent in "So This Is College;" Metropolitan, William Powell in "The Greene Murder Case;" Rialto, Robert Armstrong and Carol Lombard in "Big News," previewed last night by a newspaper audience that filled the theater and to be given its regular premiere tomorrow; Columbia, Moran and Mack in "Why Bring That Up?" RKO-Keith's, Betty Compson, Jack Oakie and Johnny Harron in "Street Girl," forced into a second week by capacity business.

George Marion, jr., one of the breeziest of the title writers, has stepped out and written himself a full length musical comedy to be picturized by Paramount under the title of "Let's Go Native," with Jeanette MacDonald in the prima donna role. The scenes are laid in New York City and the South Sea Islands, and, as I understand it, the principals make the title good in both places.

The cast is not completed as yet, but Jack Oakie, who is the American king of the island natives, has the leading comedy part.

This will be Miss MacDonald's first opportunity to display her ability as a comedienne, her first two pictures having been romantic operettas, in both of which she portrayed a queen.

Well, boys, that 45-day stretch is tough—but look at all the swell telephone numbers you got!

AMERICAN ACTRESS HITS BRITISH CRITIC

asked if he knew who she was. When he replied that he did not, she said:

"You ought to know my voice. I'm Lilian Foster, and you insulted me."

"I didn't insult you," the critic replied. "I said you were bad because I thought you were bad."

"You did," Miss Foster replied. "You deliberately insulted me and I'm going to insult you in the only way I can."

She then slapped him on the face twice and walked out of the grillroom.

Swaffer, in his criticism of the play in which Miss Foster is appearing, wrote of her in last Friday's Express:

"The reason given in the play is that he murdered his wife because he wished to save her from a life of shame. I prefer to believe that it was her affected baby voice, which reminded me of that of a ventriloquist's doll.

"Now and then it irritated me so much last night that I might have rushed out of the theater had there been any show outside.

"Lilian Foster, the American actress who played the part, looked now and then like Fanny Ward. She went through all the tricks, but, oh, how tiresome they became."

District W. C. T. U. Reelects Heads

All Officers Are Returned to Posts; Enforcement Is Discussed.

Reelection of all officers featured the final session of the two-day convention of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union of the District of Columbia yesterday at Calvary Baptist Church. Those officers are Mrs. N. M. Pollock, president; Dr. Lauretta Kress, first vice president; Mrs. James M. Doran, second vice president; Mrs. H. E. Rogers, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Oleo U. Coster, assistant corresponding secretary; Mrs. Charles H. Montgomery, recording secretary; Mrs. William J. Peters, assistant recording secretary, and Mrs. George A. Ross, treasurer.

Possible methods of prohibition enforcement were discussed by Mrs. Mary R. Halsut, State president of the Maryland W. C. T. U., while Mrs. A. B. McManus, a recent tourist in Java, reported on the progress of temperance in that country.

Reports from the national convention held in Indianapolis, Ind., in September were read by Mrs. Pollock, who urged members to prepare for the 1930 convention in Houston, Tex.

nent organization of the women of the party.

The other members of the board are Mrs. Emily Newell Blair, Mrs. J. Harry Covington, Mrs. Alvin Dodd, Mrs. George M. Eckels, Mrs. Rose Yates Forrester, Mrs. Charles S. Hamlin, Mrs. Wilbur W. Hubbard, Mrs. Cordell Hull, Representative Ruth Bryan Owen, Mrs. Andreius A. Jones, Mrs. John B. Kendrick, Mrs. Robert Lansing, Mrs. John Allan Dougherty, Mrs. Edward B. Meigs, Mrs. Harry N. Rickey, Mrs. Huston Thompson, Mrs. Charles Warren and Miss Mary Archer.

Miss Mildred Tytus and Miss Victoria Tytus are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Talbot Ewart in New York for several days before returning to Washington from their summer home at Tyringham, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. Maxim Karolik will close their villa at Newport the end of this week and will go to New York for a few days before coming to Washington for the winter.

The Bal Masque at the Willard this evening will be a gala celebration of Halloween. The ballroom has been elaborately decorated with pumpkins, goblins and witches, corn stalks and autumn leaves in keeping with the spirit of the occasion.

The dance will have carnival aspects, guests being seated at tables around the room and in the boxes. A supper will be served at midnight, when gay colored favors will be distributed. An orchestra, its members gaily costumed, will play continuously through the evening.

Among those who will entertain box parties are Dr. and Mrs. Henry Elliott, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Hamilton Davis, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. March, Mr. and Mrs. Frederic A. Parkhurst, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Perley, Mr. and Mrs. Clark C. Wren, Mr. and Mrs. R. Wilmer Bolling, Mr. Timothy Corcoran, Mr. E. H. Grimes, Mr. C. Bascom Slemp and Mr. and Mrs. Hampson Gary.

A group of the season's debutantes will occupy a large table with their escorts, Miss Clara Bolling, chairman of the debutante committee of the ball, presiding. Miss Eunice Lee Evans will preside over another table of buds and their beaux.

Some of those who have taken tables and will have guests are Mrs. Eric Greenleaf, Mrs. T. Wilson Smith, Mrs. John Dana, Miss Eleanor McParlin Davis, Mrs. Francis Walker, Commander and Mrs. John Morse, Mrs. Roger Stuart, Mrs. John H. Hanna, Mrs. Alfred W. Johnson, Mrs. Joseph Wall, Mrs. F. R. Woodson and Mrs. C. C. Calhoun.

Mr. Randall T. Elliott is chairman of the young men's committee of the ball and Mr. Dan C. Long vice chairman. Althought most of the guests plan to wear costume, it is not obligatory.

Mrs. Kautz, widow of Capt. Austin Kautz, U. S. N., will have with her for the winter at her home on Nineteenth street her cousin, Miss Jane Craven McHarg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry K. McHarg, of New York. Mrs. Kautz will present her cousin to society at a tea early in December. Miss McHarg is a graduate of Holton Arms School.

Miss Vera Caylor Wed To Alexandria Man.

The wedding of Miss Vera Alverta Caylor, daughter of Mrs. Edith Caylor, to Mr. Harold Wilmer Reid, of Alexandria, Va., son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Reid, took place last evening at 8 o'clock in the Ninth Street Christian Church, the Rev. B. F. Melton officiating.

The bride's sister, Mrs. Clifford Spence, matron of honor, and Mr Spence was the best man. The ushers were Mr. Windsor Delmaine and Mrs. T. W. Budworth.

The bride wore a gown of honeydew satin, fashioned on long lines with a tiered skirt, and carried yellow roses. The matron of honor wore a gown of orchid satin and carried pink roses.

A reception at the Willard followed the ceremony, after which Mr. and Mrs. Reid started on a wedding trip to Cuba. On their return they will stop at Newport News, Va., to visit the latter's sister, Mrs. C. M. Mark, and will be at home November 15 in Alexandria.

The assistant to the Attorney General and Mrs. John Lord O'Brian have as their guest at the Wardman Park Hotel Mrs. George W. Mixter, of New York.

Mr. George Gregg Fuller, United States Consul to Kingston, Ontario, and Mrs. Fuller are passing several days at the Mayflower. They will spend two weeks in New York before returning to Canada.

Mrs. Alexandra K. Anderson and her daughter, Miss Mary C. Anderson, returned from Maine a few weeks ago and have gone to spend the winter in Florida.

First Assistant Secretary of Interior and Mrs. Joseph M. Dixon have as their guest at the Wardman Park Hotel their daughter, Mrs. Ralph Gorman Hills, of Baltimore, who is convalescing from a recent illness.

Col. Peter Glogowski, Col. Zahorski and Lieut. Zarychta, of the Polish army delegation, are at the Wardman Park Hotel while in Washington for the Pulaski celebration.

Mr. J. J. W. Palmer Weds Miss Phoebus.

The wedding of Miss Gladys Edith Phoebus and Mr. Jesse Joseph Webb Palmer took place yesterday at noon in the Washington Cathedral. A wedding luncheon was served at the Carlton. Those present at the wedding and luncheon included Mrs. Jessie Palmer, mother of the groom; Mr. and Mrs. George Phoebus, parents of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Burr, best man and matron of honor; Mr and Mrs. Paul B. Cromelin and Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Newman.

Dr. and Mrs. H. P. Thompson, of Harrogate, England, are at the Willard while in Washington. Dr. Thompson is in this country in connection with the visit of Mme. Curie, and was among those received by President Hoover at the White House yesterday.

Mrs. Arthur B. Owens entertained a party of five at luncheon yesterday at the Carlton, having motored over from her home at Greenock, Md.

Mme. Josephine de Lagnel entertained at her home on Kalorama road last evening in honor of Mrs. Helen Fowler, Mrs. Bixler, Miss Margaret Louise O'Brien, Miss Elizabeth Waters and Miss Mary Deffenbaugh. Several gifted artists took part in the musicale, which was a feature of the entertainment.

The guests included Mrs. Clara O'Brien McCrone, Mrs. J. Fairfield Carpenter, Mrs. Imogene Blood, Mrs. Harry Phelps Miss May Phelps, Miss Tucker Furniss, Mrs. Harry Kidder White, Mrs. Robert Cooper Kidd, Miss Mae Vance, Miss Margaret Deffenbaugh, Miss Eleanor Colburn, Miss Gertrude Carter, Mme. Suzanne Oldberg, Miss Deal Bogue, Mr. Charles Mason Remey, Mr. William Elderkin Huntington, Mr. Alexander Warrington, Mr. Newell Atkinson, Mr. William Vance, Mr. Kurt Nothnagel and Mr. Arthur Mayo.

The Tennessee State Society will give a reception and dance Saturday evening at 9 o'clock at 2400 Sixteenth street, with Senator William E. Brock, of Tennessee, and Mrs. Brock, as the honor guests. This will be the organization's first fete of the season. Many prominent Tennesseeans resident in the Capital have been invited to meet the new senator, among them Justice Edward Terry Sanford, Justice James Clark McReynolds, members of the Tennessee congressional delegation, Maj. Gen. William C. Rivers, inspector general, and Brig. Gen. Lytle Brown, chief of engineers.

Mr. Henry Alexander has moved from Clifton Terrace to the Argonne Apartments.

The U. S. Jacob Jones Post, No. 2, American Legion, will hold a Halloween dance at the Marine Barracks tonight from 9 to 12 o'clock. There will be music by the Navy Band Orchestra. Legionnaires of the District have been invited.

Mrs. Gertrude L. Ritchie and Miss Dorothy Laid, of Greenwich, Conn., are at the Wardman Park Hotel for a few weeks on their way South.

Lieut. Comdr. and Mrs. H. L. Vickery were at the Martinique this week.

WHAT'S THIS A Slipper After Chanel?

Chanel, as you know, has exercised a great influence in propagating the new feminine flavor in dresses this season.

Curiously, I. Miller is either a mind reader or knows Chanel quite well, for on his operas this season you will find Chanel-like bow motifs, nothing other than which could properly be worn with a dress after the Chanel inspiration.

In his new "Silhouette Slippers," I. Miller is certainly finding a new interest among women of fashion.

WISCONSIN SINKING VEILED IN MYSTERY

16 DEAD, 19 INJURED, TOLL

Kenosha, Wis., Oct. 30 (A.P.).—A Federal inquiry failed to ascertain today the reason why the steamer Wisconsin sank, but it fixed definitely at sixteen the number of persons who died in the wreck.

Because the chief officer went down with the passenger-freight boat yesterday morning off this port, Government Inspector Fred Meno, of Detroit, said he did not think it likely the cause of the disaster could be ascertained. He did learn from Harvey Lyon, the purser, that there were 75 aboard. Of these, 16 died, 19 were injured and 40 were unhurt.

Disposing of testimony affirming the seaworthiness of the boat the inquiry turned to the work of rescuing. From Capt. Alfred Christopherson, of the Kenosha Coast Guard, came a simply told story of how he and his men, working with fishermen and guardsmen at Racine, saved 59 persons.

While a packed hearing room listened intently he explained that twice the launch in which he went to the rescue had been imperiled by huge waves as first a rope, tossed from the Wisconsin, and then the underwear of a survivor became entangled in the propeller. Guided by flares on the sinking ship after receiving its S O S the launch drew up alongside the Wisconsin, he said, but had to move away as it nearly was crushed beneath the larger ship. He told of the frantic rescue work which ensued when those on the Wisconsin misunderstood his request not to let down the lifeboats and of the hunt among wreckage for the survivors.

Great Depth Reached By Italian Submarine

Spezia, Italy, Oct. 30 (A.P.).—The Italian submarine Tito Speri, 830 tons, today submerged to the extraordinary depth of 342 feet in tests and remained there 20 minutes.

Experimental "hydrophonic" communication was carried on from the depth with the submarine Sciesa on the surface.

Jewish Shopkeepers Protest Arab Boycott

Jerusalem, Oct. 30 (Jewish Telegraphic Agency).—Two hundred Jewish shopkeepers of the old city today submitted a memorandum to the high commissioner, Sir John Chancellor, declaring that an organized Arab boycott of Jews was still going on.

Arab pickets were said to be watching the entrance of Jewish shops, destroying all goods purchased there by Arabs. The shop keepers insist that strong measures be taken.

JAILING AFTER ACQUITTAL HIT IN HABEAS CORPUS WRIT PLEA

'not guilty' to the charge contained in said indictment, a petit or trial jury was duly and regularly impanelled to try petitioner of said indictment; that during the trial thereof, testimony was duly and regularly offered by the Government and by the defendant, and at the close thereof, the case against petitioner was duly and regularly submitted to the said petit or trial jury for its determination of the question of petitioner's guilt or innocence, under and upon instructions by the Chief Justice Walter I. McCoy, of this court; and that, after due deliberation and consideration of their verdict, said jury returned its verdict of 'not guilty' of the charge set fourth and contained in said indictment. * * *

Duty Ignored, Claim.

"That upon the return of said verdict of 'not guilty,' it then and there became and was the duty of the said chief justice to order, direct, and cause the release and discharge of petitioner from further custody, he being then and there under no other or further charge upon which his further detention could be predicated; that notwithstanding the duty on the part of said chief justice, and wrongfully and illegally ignoring and refusing to perform the same, the said chief justice did then and there, at first, refuse to receive said verdict and to discharge petitioner, and specifically ordered and directed that he be further committed, and ordered and directed the District attorney in and for the District of Columbia forthwith to proceed with the procurement of another indictment, or the formulation of other charges against him, arising from, and growing out of, the same state of facts, acts, and transactions mentioned, referred to, and involved in the said indictment upon which he had been acquitted, as aforesaid. * * *

"That thereafter on, to-wit, the same date (Monday, October 28, 1929), the said chief justice receded from his said refusal to receive and record said verdict of 'not guilty,' and directed that the same be received and recorded, but again failed, neglected, and refused to order and direct petitioner's release and discharge from custody, and suffered, permitted, and caused him to be kept and remain in the Washington Asylum and Jail, under the circumstances hereinafter more specifically set forth. * * *"

Double Jeopardy Charged.

"That on, to-wit, Tuesday afternoon, October 29, 1929, at the instigation and request of the said Chief Justice and of the United States attorney for the District of Columbia, or both of them, one Nainette K. Adams, a policewoman attached to the Woman's Bureau of the Metropolitan Police Department, appeared before United States Commissioner Needham C. Turnage and made oath to a complaint purporting to charge petitioner with a violation of the white slave traffic act (otherwise known as the Mann act), for the sole and only purpose of making a colorable showing or excuse for the further detention of petitioner until such time as the United States attorney can procure, or attempt to procure, another and further indictment against petitioner for said supposed violation of said act, or for some other offense; that as the result of the said proceeding before said United States Commissioner, before whom petitioner appeared, petitioner was ordered and directed to be held for the action of the grand jury, and his bond was fixed at $5,000; that he was unable to furnish such bond, and in default thereof he was recommitted to the Washington Asylum and Jail, where he is now confined, in the custody of Lieut. Col. William L. Peake, superintendent of said institution; that the said complaint, made and sworn to by said Nainette K. Adams as aforesaid, pertains and relates to the identical acts and course of conduct which, in truth and in fact, constitute but a single offense, and which were, and each and every of them, involved and tried in said indictment charging a violation of section 808 of the code, which trial resulted in his acquittal, as aforesaid; and that, as petitioner is informed and believes, and therefore alleges, his detention as the result of the action of said Chief Justice, and as the result of the further action of the United States Commissioner, as aforesaid, was and is wholly illegal and in violation of his constitutional rights, privileges and immunities; that he is not subject to further prosecution for and because of the same acts, facts and happenings as were involved and tried in said indictment and resulted in his acquittal as aforesaid; and that he is entitled to be discharged from custody on writ of habeas corpus, in accordance with the law in such cases made and provided."

Wife of Tigers' Chief Undergoes Operation

Reported on the way to recovery, Mrs. Stanley Harris, wife of the manager of the Detroit Tigers, was in Garfield Hospital yesterday, following an operation for appendicitis. The former Elizabeth Sutherland, daughter of the alien property custodian, had suffered chronic appendicitis for some time and Dr. Thomas E. Neill performed the operation before her condition became serious.

$960,000 Estate Left To Use of Son-in-Law

Mrs. Tiny Speed Rodgers, who died September 26, left a life interest in her $960,000 estate to her son-in-law, Horace H. Wescott, according to a petition for the probate of her will filed yesterday in District Supreme Court. At his death the estate is to be distributed among her nieces and nephews.

The National Savings & Trust Co. is named executor and trustee, and is directed to take charge of the estate and hold it for the son-in-law after special bequests are carried out. The estate consists only of personal property.

LIBRARY ON FLYING ASSURED IN CAPITAL

Guggenheim Gift Establishes Division in Congressional Institution.

AERIAL CLUBS ASSISTED

Organization of a complete aeronautical library with a chair at the Library of Congress, is assured through action of the Daniel Guggenheim Fund for the promotion of aeronautics, which has appropriated $140,000 for establishment of the library. Announcement of this appropriation was made in New York by Harry F. Guggenheim, president of the fund.

In the announcement it was stated that resources for the study of aeronautics, not only as an art but as a science should be available in Washington.

"The collection of aeronautics consists of about 1,200 titles and is clearly inadequate as a reference library for so important a subject."

In the formation of the new library it is planned to add to the volumes already on file, the Langley Memorial Library at the Smithsonian Institution, containing about 1,600 volumes and 700 pamphlets; the collection of the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce, the library of the national advisory committee and about 4,500 books belonging to the Air Corps.

Another capital organization to benefit through the Guggenheim Fund is the National Aeronautical Association, with offices in the Barr Building. It has been voted $10,000 to promote its flying club program throughout the United States.

ILLNESS FATAL TO MRS. FLECK, FOSTER MOTHER TO THOUSANDS

out home of their own, grew until larger quarters were necessary, and the old Waggaman mansion, at 3300 O street northwest, was taken over. Later even larger quarters were secured at 3535 Eleventh street northwest, and at its peak the home was caring for approximately 100 children at a time. Throughout the home's entire career Mrs. Fleck served as matron, and was "Mother" to the children.

The children who found succor at Mrs. Fleck's guiding hand included foundlings, unfortunate girls who were disowned by their families, orphans and those whose families were separated because of domestic difficulties, and others whose parents just did not want to be troubled with them. All found a sympathetic friend and counselor in Mrs. Fleck, and many have gone into the world and made successes of their lives through her kindly guidance. The institution was the first of its kind in this city to send its inmates to the public school, and in all things Mrs. Fleck endeavored to arrange their lives in accordance with those of children in the normal American home.

About five years ago, shortly before Mrs. Fleck became too ill to carry on further, the Bruen Home was partially destroyed by fire. Mrs. Fleck supervised the orderly exit of the children from the building and left herself only when she was certain that all the children were safe and that no one else remained in the home. Thereafter no new inmates were taken, but the home is still caring for those who have not reached their majority.

The present officers of the home are Mrs. William F. Ham, president; Mrs. Robert McNeill, vice president; Miss Emma Millard, secretary; Mrs. Le Verne Beales, treasurer, and Mrs. Howard Chandlee, Mrs. A. S. Perhan, Mrs. I. Cornman and Mrs. H. G. Durfee, members of the board of directors. When the last of Mrs. Fleck's wards are safely launched on their own responsibility, it is expected that the corporation, which represents its founder's life work, will be dissolved.

Mrs. Fleck was born in Nova Scotia and came to the United States when a young girl. While attending Union College, at that time one of the few coeducational institutions of higher learning in the country, she met and married Prof. John Fleck, who died a year later. She then came to Washington and founded her home.

Mrs. Fleck is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Roy Palmer, of this city, and by thousands to whom she has always been "mother." It is expected that many of her former wards, along with officials of the home, will attend her funeral services, which are to be held tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock at the funeral parlors of John H. Wright Co., 1337 Tenth street northwest.

When Food Sours

Sweeten the stomach—instantly

About two hours after eating many people suffer from sour stomachs. They call it indigestion. It means that the stomach nerves have been over-stimulated. There is excess acid. The way to correct it is with an alkali, which neutralizes many times its volume in acid.

The right way is Philips' Milk of Magnesia—just a tasteless dose in water. It is pleasant, efficient and harmless. It has remained the standard with physicians in the 50 years since its invention.

It is the quick method. Results come almost instantly. It is the approved method. You will never use another when you know.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. 25c and 50c a bottle—any drugstore.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Company and its predecessor, Charles H Phillips, since 1875.

THE GIANT POWER FUEL

THAT is a fair question. Here is a fair answer:

Already in the territory where this remarkable motor fuel is sold most motorists prefer it at a premium to any competing brand selling at regular prices. Hundreds of thousands of car owners will use no other motor fuel.

These facts speak for themselves.

In making Esso we use a special gasoline. To this we add a combination of anti-knock compounds, including tetraethyl lead. The result is the lowest of all knock ratings and a power fuel such as you have never before used in your motor.

Try Esso today. One tank full will convince you!

NEGRO CHANCE SEEN BY TUSKEGEE HEAD

CONVENTION WINDS UP

Closing sessions of the convention of the Association for Study of Negro Life and History, held last night at the Garnet-Patterson Junior High School, were featured by an address by Robert Russa Moton, president of Tuskegee Institute, who spoke on phases of the economic condition of the Negro in America.

"I believe," he said, "that the Negro has a big chance to make a large contribution to the life of America and the modern world. I have interviewed a large number of manufacturers with reference to economic developments which have contributed to force the small business man to the wall and to drive the Negro individual out of employment, and I am sure a plan can be worked out which will not only permit the Negro to achieve his material salvation, but which also will permit him to make his spiritual contribution to American life."

He also expressed the hope that the Negro farmer in the South would be enabled, by development of present plans, to receive Government aid which he can not now secure through large organizations where his membership is prohibited. Other speakers were Allison Davis, of Hampton Institute; Edgar C. Bye, of Shippensburg, Pa., and Alain Leroy Locke, of Howard University. The association will meet next year in Cleveland.

Two Properties Face Padlock Proceedings

The United States, through United States Attorney Leo A. Rover and Assistant United States Attorney Harold W. Orcutt, yesterday instituted proceedings in District Supreme Court looking to the padlocking of the premises at 225 Virginia avenue southwest and 927 Fourth street northwest.

Jannie Gore, alias Jennie Gore and Janie Gore, is alleged to be the operator of the Fourth street premises, while M. Elizabeth Nau, Katherine A. Nau and Louise L. Nau are alleged to be owners.

The petition against the Virginia avenue premises alleges that Roach Abell is the owner and that Edward Childs, alias Mansfield Edward Childs, alias George Mansfield, alias Edward Mansfield, alias Mansfield Childs, and Rosette Lancaster, alias Rossie Lancaster, alias Rosie Jully Lewis, alias Jolly Lewis, alias Rosetta Lewis, alias Rosetta Childs are the operators.

Individual Architects Employed on Center

The four architects who formed the Allied Architects, Inc., will be employed by the District individually to aid in the preparation of plans for the Municipal Center, it was said yesterday by Municipal Architect Albert L. Harris.

Harris had proposed that the corporation be employed, Daniel J. Donovan, District auditor, said that to do so would make competitive bidding necessary and Comptroller General McCarl supported this view, in a ruling announced Tuesday.

Congress has appropriated $10,000 for drawing tentative plans for the center. The architects who formed the Allied Architects Corporation are Edward C. Downs, Nathan C. Wyeth, Fred V. Murphy and George Burnep.

STOCK CRISIS PAST, IS CAPITAL BELIEF

Bargain-Hunting Starts as Prices Start Swing Upward Again.

TURNOVER HERE LARGE

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

The crisis in the stock market is passed, in the opinion of local business circles. Better buying was apparent at yesterday's opening and investors' hopes were raised, but margin selling was also evident and irregular quotations were scanned by hundreds still filling brokerage offices.

Many experienced investors and brokers advised against selling good stock and dividend-paying ones were considered bargains. Reports from New York that leading banks, in an attempt to relieve market tenseness, had lessened margin requirements on street loans, caused widespread interest.

There was considerable criticism because the New York Stock Exchange refrained from closing in face of a general demoralization of business during the market collapse, opinion being advanced that with ticker service four hours behind, the institution was as good as closed from a standpoint of service to customers.

Advantage Is Cited.

Admitting such an action impedes a free market and has an injurious sentimental effect, nevertheless, bankers emphasized the point that the latter possibility would have been less grave than checking the market in the midst of a panic, calming hysteria and enabling many persons to hold part of their funds. Some insisted that closing of the market for several days would have had a pronounced sedative as well a tonic effect.

Universal relief was expressed yesterday in the financial district over what is believed to be the exhaustion of a selling wave, but general regret was voiced that its effects were so damaging here and elsewhere.

Easing of marginal requirements in New York was explained by the Morgan house and another group engaged in the stabilizing struggle, stating there was no money problem involved in the present situation, that there was plenty of money and that it would be loaned freely.

Margin Requirements Revised.

The statements announced that indicative of feeling that bankers felt present price levels safe, it might be said authoritatively that certain large banks had revised margin requirements as of Tuesday night, making a requirement of 25 per cent margin on closing quotations instead of one of 40 per cent, or setting arbitrary prices from which a rather lower margin was required.

Heavy selling and bagain hunting was in evidence at yesterday's session of the Washington Stock Exchange after Tuesday's general recession. Bond sales volume of $35,300 was a gain of $13,000 over the previous active day in this division and a record since April. Stock turnover, aggregated 832 shares or 247 above Tuesday's. Nine bond issues and 20 stocks were in trading, most of them selling at declines ranging from a fraction to 18 points. Commercial National and Security Savings & Commercial Bank stock and C. & P. Telephone of Virginia bonds held to previous levels in all sales; Capital Traction and Mergenthaler stock registered advances in certain exchanges and Washington Gas A bonds in all transfers.

Capital Traction Gains.

Some of the heavy sales were: Capital Traction, 91 share, 70 of which were at 75, 1 at 77 and 20 at 76; 335 of Mergenthaler, 130 of which were at fractional gains, 130 at last sale price, 101, and 75 at point losses; $8,700 Washington Gas B bonds at from 2 and fractional point declines.

Loading of revenue freight for the week ended October 19 totaled 1,185,510 cars, the Car Service Division of the American Railway Asociation announced yesterday, this being an increase of 6,502 cars above the preceding week. Compared with the corresponding week last year, the total for the week of October 19 was an increase of 22,375 cars and an increase of 56,445 cars over the corresponding week in 1927.

Loading of revenue freight in 1929 compared with the previous years follows:

Four weeks in Jan...	3,570,978	3,448,895
Four weeks in Feb...	3,767,758	3,590,742

Life Insurance Payments Made.

Payments to living policyholders and beneficiaries by the New York Life Insurance Co., which has approximately 21,000 policy holders in the District and adjoining Maryland and Virginia territory, amounted in the first nine months this year to more than $130,000,000. Of the total, over $86,000,000 was paid to living policy holders, while more than $44,000,000,

Advice on Investments

By CHARLES W. STORM

About Standard Oils.

E. R. G.—I have 40 shares of Standard Oil of New Jersey, bought at 42. Should I continue to hold this stock indefinitely or should I figure on selling if it goes to 100? Would you recommend a switch to either S. O. of Indiana or S. O. of New York where best income and market appreciation is wanted?

Answer—It is difficult to determine as to whether you are more concerned with the prospects of future income or those of market profits. If it is market appreciation rather than income that you are chiefly seeking, this column can not advise you. Cash dividends on Standard Oil of Indiana are larger than those being distributed by either of the other two companies mentioned. In consequence, present income return on Standard Oil of Indiana is larger than the other two companies. However, there is no guarantee that this condition will be maintained for any considerable length of time as there is always the possibility if not probability of both Standard Oil of N. J. and Standard Oil of N. Y. raising their regular cash dividend payments. Standard Oil of N. J. is a premier common stock issue and would not advise an exchange for any other issue.

Curtiss-Wright Stocks.

I. M. T.—Will you kindly tell me the difference between Curtiss-Wright, quoted around 18 and Curtiss-Wright "A," quoted around 30? I ask this question as I would like to know which to buy. Do you consider the stock a good investment?

Answer—The difference between the ordinary common, selling around 18 and the Class "A" common, selling around 30, is explained in the statement made, August 26 last, by the chairman of the board of directors of the new Curtiss-Wright Corporation that the old stockholders of Wright Aeroplane & Motor Co. should not have any interruption in their dividends. It was for this purpose, he said, that Class A stock of the new corporation was issued, and it was the intention of the new board to place this stock on a regular quarterly basis of 50 cents per share at the rate of $2 annually, approximately three months after dividends which had just been paid by Curtiss and Wright. No such provision was made for the ordinary common stock. In their present stage these shares can hardly be regarded in the light of an investment.

Concerning Several Stocks.

C. F. T.—Please advise which of the following stocks, in your estimation, could be bought with the prospects of an increase over their present market price in the near future, and the financial condition of said companies: Universal Pipe & Radiator at 6½, General Baking, new, at 6½; Vadsco Sales at 7½; Ward Baking B at 9½.

Answer—A sharp decline in earnings of the Universal Pipe & Radiator Co. makes the stock unattractive for near-term holding, but the company is growing and shows fair attraction for long-term holding. Full year earnings of the General Baking Co. have been variable and more or less unsatisfactory since organization in 1925. Net earnings for 1929 will be about 45 cents per share on common, which would not yet be considered satisfactory. The preferred is somewhat more attractive. Dividends have been paid regularly on Vadsco preferred stock but no cash distribution has been made to common in the last two years. The financial condition of the corporation is good and the income to the company has shown a steady upward trend on this basis, while the common issue is decidedly unsuitable for investment it has fair attraction for long-term speculative holding for one willing to assume the risk attending all speculations. No dividends are being paid on Ward Baking stock and although a present upward trend in earnings is in evidence there is little possibility that an initial payment will be made in the near future. This stock must be considered a radical speculation. This column does not attempt to forecast market prices.

Continental Baking B.

W. J. W.—I have been informed that Continental Baking B will probably pay a $2 dividend this year because of greatly increased earnings over last year. I have also been advised that the company will merge with the Purity Baking. Any information you can give on these points will be appreciated?

Answer—While it is true that the Continental Baking Corporation this year is showing heavy gains in earnings over those of last year, and while resumption of dividends on the "A" at a more or less early date is being discussed and may occur, dividends on the "B" do not appear a near-term likelihood. The present low price of the "B" shares in the market certainly does not indicate that such a development is about to transpire. As to the rumors about a merger with Purities Baking, this column has nothing in the way of authentic information, although being cognizant of such rumors. In any event, rumors are a bad thing on which to base purchase of stocks if that is what you are contemplating doing.

Trustee Standard Oil.

A. M. H.—I am thinking of investing some money in Trustee Standard Oil shares which yield a very good return at the present figure. What is your opinion of this stock?

Answer—While it is appreciated that the make-up of the Trustee Standard Oil Shares Corporation is of a very high type, being composed of the stocks of the several Standard Oil Companies, nevertheless, it is an investment trust, and this column makes it an invariable practice not to comment on corporations of that description for the reason that their future success is so largely dependent upon the officiency of their management. In this instance, there is no room for doubt on that score, still, even in this case the writer must adhere to the established policy.

International Combustion Engineering

H. R. M.—I would appreciate your opinion on International Combustion Engineering purchased at 47. What in your opinion are its chances of coming back, and when?

Answer—Chief interest in the common stock of International Combustion Engineering lies in long term prospects of various new fields of endeavor, and shareholders must be willing and able to assume a high degree of risk. Earnings possibilities for the longer term, however, are extremely promising and it is believed that the long pull holder will receive substantial profits. As to the immediate movements in the stock, much will depend upon the action of the market in its entirety, and that is all a matter of conjecture.

Kolster Brandes Ltd.

Mrs. J. T. D.—Will you please advise if Kolster Brandes, Ltd., pays cash or stock dividends? What does the company manufacture and what is its financial status?

Answer—Kolster Brandes, Ltd. (controlled by Kolster Radio Corp.) was incorporated in 1929 in England to acquire exclusive and joint rights in the British empire except Canada, and in the whole of Europe of the Kolster inventions. Company has acquired Brandes, Ltd., which was formed in 1924 to act as a "pioneer" of the Kolster products in markets other than those of North and South America. The company has not thus far published any statement of income account. Balance sheet as of December 31, 1928, gave total assets of $5,719,520, including cash of $1,522,323. On that date the company had a net working capital of $1,589,059. No dividends of any kind have thus far been reported.

National Food Products.

R. A. G.—Do you know anything about the class "A" stock of the National Food Products Co. and what it is worth per share at the present time

Answer—The stock is listed on the New York Curb Exchange and at this writing is selling at around $24 a share. Earnings per share on the issue, before profit sale of securities, amounted in the fiscal year ended March 31, 1929, to $2.34. National Food Products Corporation is a holding company with stock holdings in a number of chain grocery stores, producing and distributing, ice cream and other food products concerns. The "A" stock is entitled to preferential dividends of $2.50 a share per annum and is callable at $50 per share. Quarterly dividends of 62½ cents a share are being paid on the class "A."

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a billous look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound as a substitute for calomel to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are gentle in their action yet always effective. They help bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

'Ave Maria,' Caruso Sang, On Program

Oliver Smith Will Be Soloist on WRC at 9:30. "Dream Boat" Over WMAL—Honolulu Anniversary on WJSV.

An array of favorite musical selections, both in original and special arrangements for a male quartet, give contrast to the Seiberling program which will be broadcast under the direction of Frank Black at 9 o'clock from WRC. The program follows:

"Kamennoi Ostrow," Rubinstein male quartet; "Spirit Flower," tenor solo, James Melton; piano solo; "De Gospel Train," male quartet; "Old Refrain," Kreisler, tenor solo, James Melton; "Angels' Serenade," singing violins, and "Love, Your Spell is Everywhere," male quartet.

Rudy Valle and his orchestra will be featured in the Fleischmann Sunshine Hour at 8 o'clock, along with Marcella Shields, radio actress, and Graham McNamee, master of ceremonies.

Of all the showers of compliments paid to Enrico Caruso during his lifetime, one he prized highly was the dedication to him of Percy B. Kahn's "Ave Marie." In acknowledgment of the compliment, the great Caruso sang it frequently. It will be heard on the program of the Jack Frost Melody Moments at 9:30 o'clock. Oliver Smith will be the soloist. Eugene Ormandy, leading the orchestra, will present Liszt's "First Hungarian Rhapsody," as well as Glazounow's "Bacchanale" from "The Seasons." A brand-new number, "Funny What a Little Kiss Will Do," will be featured also.

The "Old Counselor," Halsey-Stuart's financial expert, will talk from Atlanta, Ga., during the program at 10 o'clock. The musical background will be made up of "El Relicardo," "Just a Little Love, a Little Kiss," "Aye, Aye, Aye," a waltz from the "Merry Widow," "Deep in My Heart," "Roses of Picardy," and "Black Eyes."

A half-hour Victor program will begin at 10:30 o'clock, followed by "Amos 'n' Andy."

Senator Morris Sheppard, of Texas, author of the eighteenth amendment, will discuss his recent proposal that purchasers of liquor shall be equally guilty of law violations with bootleggers from WMAL at 10:30 o'clock tonight.

Frederic William Wile will be presented at 8:15, followed by the Columbians and a detective mystery. A vocal duet, "Sorta Miss You," and a tenor solo, "One Alone," will be heard during the Gold Seal hour at 9:30 o'clock.

The Dream Boat and a half hour of dance music will close WMAL's program.

The Honoluluans will celebrate their second anniversary from Station WJSV at 7:30 o'clock with a specially prepared program. The quartet is under the management of Ernest Deale, the other members being Leonard Blush, Jack Burton and William DeWaters. The Citizens Band of Washington, under the direction of L. Z. Phillips, will be featured at 9 o'clock.

A concert by the Nordica Club will be heard from 10:15 to 11 o'clock.

A short program of dinner music will be heard from WOL at 6:05 o'clock, with Louis Rothschild in a Better Business Bureau talk; Elsie Varle Lang, mezzo-contralto, and Jimmie and Ray, in popular songs, among the early evening features scheduled. A two-hour program of dance music will begin at 10 o'clock.

DIAL FLASHES

By ROBERT D. HEINL

WHAT a farce the order is issued by the Radio Commission, forbidding their engineers to talk with newspapermen, even on technical matters which might need explanation in layman's language, may be realized when it is known that now when a newspaper man wants information on an engineering or technical matter, he simply goes to a commissioner, who goes into the engineering division and gets it for him.

About the only persons who are taking the order seriously seem to be Gen Charles McK. Saltzman and Capt Guy Hill, commissioner and chief engineer, respectively, who are credited with having originally thought up the idea of keeping the newspaper men out, and Commissioner W. D. L. Starbuck, chairman of the commission's publicity committee, who tried to go a step further and have any employe discharged if seen talking with a newspaper man.

The funny part of it is that because of its technical character, the entire press gallery, including the high-powered radio writers, could be turned loose in the commission's engineering division and it is probable not one would know what it was all about.

In reasoning out the whys and wherefores of the Radio Commission, it is sometimes often far more important for a newspaper correspondent to know what senator called at the commission last than it is to know what is going on in the engineering division.

Just how highly senators are regarded at the Radio Commission may be seen in the attitude said to be assumed by one of the commissioners that because of the backing of one or two senators and the friendship of the son of a high Government executive, who is interested in radio through his position with a Western aviation line, he can make himself inaccessible and ignore the wants of newspaper men and the public at large.

WITHOUT any apology or explanation, although the event had been widely advertised, Mitzi Hajos failed to appear in the R-K-O Hour Tuesday night. Containing more advertising than any of the better features on the air—almost continuous plugging for the pictures and actors—it was about the poorest program the R-K-O people have yet offered.

Apropos the comment on Chic Sale recently, it is learned that he is scheduled for the Eveready Hour next Tuesday night. Chic is a rare bird as he usually does not appear on the air more than once or twice during a season.

Addressing the children of the United States over the Columbia chain, with a special message delivered through his own Station WIBW at Topeka, to school children gathered in the city's auditorium, Senator Arthur Capper, of Kansas, talking from Station WMAL, Washington, declared radio was affording children an education "which gives them a head start on my generation."

"Listening to the radio makes you happier," Senator Capper said to the youngsters, "and it also makes you wiser than your fathers and mothers were when they were your age." He told of the Junior Radio Club of Station WIBW at Topeka, which has 26,000 members.

Incidentally the senator confided to his young listeners that he never tired of fairy stories.

"I believe there are fairies," he went on, "the fairies are our happy thoughts."

Speaking of the engineering division of the Radio Commission, we wonder if they have noticed the whistle which has been marring WRC programs in the Northwest portion of the city of late.

THE American naval officer who when every one else was standing about stiff as pokers squared off and told King George a story which so convulsed his royal highness with laughter that he had to grasp a ship rail to steady himself, pulled a pretty good one on the air the other night. It was Rear Admiral Hugh Rodman, U. S. N., retired, of Frankfort, Ky., when he said: "You might as well expect a lame mule to win the Kentucky Derby as to expect a second class navy to win a war."

Jess Hawley, former star and later head coach at Dartmouth, has been appointed vice president and general manager of the United Reproducers Corporation, a pretty big job for so young a man. The demands of the radio business made it necessary for him to hang up his old sweater in the Dartmouth "gym" and resign.

WHEN the fans of the country get wise to the fact that their letters and complaints to the Radio Commission are being sold for waste paper they may quit writing altogether.

Foolishness heard from Station WLW at Cincinnati:

First Bozo: "I slipped on a banana peel and fell from Ohio into Kentucky."

Second Bozo: "Why don't you slip on a half dozen banana peels and see the United States?"

What Today Means to You

"SCORPIC"

IF October 31 is your birthday the best hours for you on this date are from 8:45 a. m. to 10:15 a. m., from 1 p. m. to 2:30 p. m. and from 10:45 p. m. to midnight. The danger periods are from 6 . m. to 8 a. m. and from 4 p. m. to 6 p. m.

Rather unsettling influences will affect your life on this date. Progress is certain, but will be made under difficulties. Patience will be required. Good luck in changes. Much correspondence indicated.

The child born on this October 31 will outdistance its rivals where a subtle mentality is required. It will be changeable in purpose and will seldom itself know what it really wants. In its temperament it will be "hot and cold" almost at the same moment.

You have a first-class memory, one of the greatest assets a person can have. It is one of nature's gifts to you. As could be expected, you know how to concentrate. You can shut out all outside interests for the sake of any one. You can sidetrack everything except precisely what you wish to remember. You can stop down the shutter of your mental lens to take sharp images. Your impressions are indelible.

You, too, are very observing. You are never blind to your surroundings or as to what is going on around you. You are a difficult person to fool, as one eye is always open. It is true that you keep your thoughts and impressions pretty well to yourself, but one never knows when you will dig them up for use. You do not forget.

If you have the will power to stick to one thing, you should make a brilliant success of whatever you undertake. Your mind is almost too active—new schemes and new ambitions are always being born. You do not always see things through to completion before you take up something new. You try to divide your interests too much. You can tactfully manage or cooperate with other people. You do not always want your own way—it is not essential to your happiness.

Successful people born October 31: Philo Remington, manufacturer. Alexander W. Randall, Postmaster General under Johnson. Richard M. Hunt, architect. Julius Caldien Gunter, former Governor of Colorado. William Gibbs McAdoo, former Secretary of the Treasury. Kuhne Beveridge, sculptress.

Jane Corbin INTERPRETS the MODE

Gracious evening gown of mauve chiffon, poppy-printed in violet, red, yellow and metallic gold. (Courtesy of Bernard et Cie, Paris.)

WE are always confronted with a dire problem when it comes to writing about the collections of the Maison Lenief, so rich in ideas and originality do we invariably find it. So we shall tell you a bit about it today, to be continued later.

First of all, the long skirt is definitely in, so far as this house is concerned, even the daytime dresses coming well down on the calf. Sports wear models show the tucked-in blouse, but smart afternoon ensembles have the outside blouse closely molding the hips.

The belt is not exactly at the normal waistline, but rests snugly on the upper hips, so to speak.

Heavy weight tweeds are used for most of the sports wear. Coats are straight in line, sometimes pulled in with a belt, and the skirts are frequently mounted on a shallow yoke to give the snug hipline. Long circular capes are shown on several models.

Brown and black are very popular. In evening wear the beautiful new georgettes and lames (lah-mays) have been cleverly employed. Gowns are on simple lines, closely fitted and tubular in silhouette, often with panels forming a short train. Satin and lame evening coats are of two varieties—the very short and close-fitting or the long, with tight bodice and circular skirt. Black and white lace is popular for evening, and costly fur is lavishly used, both on coats and on dresses to weigh down panels.

Evening gowns have a low back decolletage. Their silhouette is slender and they are closely draped to the figure. Panels and circular flares placed on them cling to the legs, instead of flaring out as they do in many other collections. The only exception to this is in a few taffeta models, where the skirts stand out stiffly.

Very gracious, very lovely, very flattering, the lines of "gold poppies"—a Bernard et Cie. gown that we sketched for you today. Violet, red, yellow and metallic gold poppies on a metallic background—well, we will just about live without this one long enough to get to Paris, and no longer!

• • • •

Make them for a few cherished friends and for yourself—it's quite as simple to make dozens as to make one.

Rich-looking art covers for favorite books, stunning boxes, tiny jars in which to put beauty aids—and other things.

But first of all, of course, send your stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for the leaflet that tells you exactly what to buy in the way of supplies, and the process of using them. We really think you will enjoy doing this, as we always have, so hope that you will send for the leaflet.

Au revoir!

Our Christmas Box.

Why not be awfully smart this year and really get your Christmas cards planned ahead of the mob and with care and originality? It seems too early to bother now, but it isn't. What a delightful custom it is, and how cordially it expresses the sender's remembrance and good taste and kindly intentions. Artists, engravers, jewelry shops, all are at your disposal to make happy suggestions for you. S'pose you get very, very busy about this Christmas-card business!

• • • •

Want to learn about losing things from me? Well, if you don't want to see the sorrowful figures of Mamzelle, La Chic Secretaire nd the Luve-e-lee Model inclined in pryerful attitude, make a habit of never getting the habit of leaving your precious rings on the edge of the bowl when you must wash your hands. I left one of my own there once too often, and wait and see, you'll do the same if you're not careful.

WORK ON BRIDGE

AID FROM ADVERSARIES.

THIS hand was played in a game of Auction Bridge. South bid one No Trump, which was followed by three passes.

If the game had been Contract, South would have bid one No Trump and North would have jumped it to three No Trumps.

My partner (West) started by leading the Trey of Hearts. The Declarer properly played the Jack from dummy, hoping the lead had been from King-Queen; but when my Queen covered he appreciated that he could make only one Heart trick and he held his Ace up until the third round to block the suit. He then put dummy in with a Club (trick 4), and trick 5 led the Queen of Diamonds from dummy which he finessed. My partner won and cashed his two established Hearts. After that the Declarer had all the tricks, but we had saved a game.

Were we entitled to this good fortune?

THE CORRECT PLAY.

Declarer should have appreciated that risking the Diamond finesse (an even chance) was risking his game. It is often necessary to take a 50-50 chance in order to make game possible; but in this hand Declarer should have tried something else first.

Declarer was correct in holding up his Heart Ace until trick 3, and in leading a small Club to trick 4; but he should have played dummy's Nine on this trick instead of an honor. East would have won trick 4 and returned a Spade to trick 5; South should have won tricks 5 and 6 with the Ace and King (to unblock dummy's Spade Queen), and then put dummy in with a Club to win tricks 7 to 10 with his remaining Clubs, and trick 11 with the Queen of Spades. In that way Declarer would take game by winning three Spades, one Heart, four Clubs and one Diamond.

If dummy's Clubs did not run, the Diamond finesse would still be there for Declarer to venture.

Deep Sea Divers

THE deep sea diver is an object of romance to almost every one. Few persons see the sights he sees, and we wonder how he feels while he is down in the deep blue ocean.

Some divers do not use suits. By holding large stones in their hands, they can go down to a depth of 50 feet or more. But the modern method is to use a suit. By so doing, the diver can go down much deeper, and can stay much longer.

A deep-sea diver in a huge "suit."

A diver about to descend goes about it in some such way as this: Taking off his coat and shoes, he puts on three pairs of thick woolen stockings and two heavy sweaters. This is to protect himself from the coldness of the deep water.

Then the diver begins getting into his suit. It is chiefly composed of India rubber or of metal. There are rubber cuffs which close around the wrists so snugly that water can not get in. The diver wears a pair of large boots, weighted with lead, usually weighing between 15 and 20 pounds apiece.

The last thing the diver puts on is his helmet, which contains small "windows" of thick plate glass. Fastened to the helmet are air tubes, and these tubes serve to supply fresh air and to take away air which has been breathed.

As the diver goes down, the pressure of the water increases four and a half pounds to the square inch for every 10 feet of descent. Because of this pressure, the diver must be let down slowly, else he may bleed at the nose or ears or even lose consciousness.

In 1915 a diver went to a depth of 288 feet. It is dangerous, however, to go so deep. Few divers work at a depth of more than 150 feet.

In former times a diver had to depend upon signals made by pulls upon the life line, in case he needed more air or had other trouble; but modern divers usually have telephones by which they can keep in touch with those at the water surface.

TODAY'S WOMEN

By EARL MINDERMAN

OCTOBER 31.

CATHARINE HELEN SPENCE, one of the leaders in the reform of Australian voting system which made that country the model for the world, was born this day, 1825, in Scotland.

In behalf of the movement for electoral reform, Mrs. Spence lectured all over Australia, United States and Canada. She also wrote extensively on the subject.

At the time of her death, in 1910, Mrs. Spence was president of the Effective Voting League of South Australia and vice president of the National Council of Women.

In addition to her activities in behalf of the voting reform, Mrs. Spence published several novels and contributed to magazines.

Baby Mine

Wives of Tomorrow

By FRANCES M'DONALD

The Faithful Sex.

ONE of our readers of the strong sex has a few words to say about faithfulness. So also some dozen others of the sex that is not so strong. And despite the slogan of the sea, the women and children must wait, for his letter arrived first, and besides it is some letter.

"Are men essentially faithful, you ask, and it shows the force of propaganda that you practically apologize for asking it. Will you tell me how woman could ever have arrived at her present position, on top of the world, if man hadn't planted her there? Man has been free from the beginning of time, lord of creation. Women might easily have remained his slave. But man raised her up, took her from among the other pets and made something worth while of her.

"That she has got rather out of hand at the present writing is quite obvious, but even now, man allows her to go her silly way, because he has really only one wish and that is to make her happy. In this his motive may be a bit selfish, since her happiness means his happiness, for with a whining, discontented woman in the house there is no peace for man. So she is humored, petted, pampered until she is what she is, whatever that may be.

"Now, with regard to the matter of monogamy, which is what you refer to when you speak of faithfulness. There would never have been any monogamy, had man been opposed to it. But he wanted it; he wanted a particular mate. He could easily have kept his several wives for himself, so it was no fear of polyandry that forced his decision. He was just the same faithful brute that he is today, and he wanted his one woman for life, and a brood of children for good measure.

"Woman is the fickle one, woman is the one who tires, who shirks. From the time monogamy began, woman began her scheming and flirting. Before that she was meek enough. But the minute she found herself elected she began to show her hand and you need only look about you today to see what she had up her sleeve.

"Dogs for pets instead of children, short-cuts to happiness, synthetic family life, artificial excitement, till now today the entire world is an effeminate world, a mammoth gynecocracy with man running the errands on foot. And in the midst of all this, woman pipes up and asks whether man is at heart faithful! It is to laugh! Faithful? The poor fool has forgotten how to be anything else. He just lives to 'yes' some woman and dies to leave her enough to select a suitable successor without having to consider as she did before such mercenary matters as support. She can have a nice sheik at last and forget the struggles of her youth with 'poor, stupid John.'

"If women ever become as faithful as their husbands, divorce lawyers can take a long rest. Women tire of husbands as they tire of hats, and they invent ways of getting rid of them, and one of their inventions is the idea that man is an invirtuous being, deceitful, treacherous, degraded. The very way that women train their daughters prove that they realize the propaganda must go on. Regardless of the integrity of a girl's father, she believes all men devils. Why? Who taught her that? Why not instead teach her the truth—that man is a conservative, faithful, decent contraption that has a horror of bad women and despises a lax one? Why not? Isn't this the truth? Who dreads scandal more, the man or the woman? Look at a man in court. He is like a mummy of himself. Look at his wife—respendent.

"It's about time somebody told the simple truth about man, that poor truck horse who gives up freedom to be faithful and then is labeled as a libertine. If women would learn faithfulness, let them study the poor dubs who married them.

"A DUB."

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

DON'T SLEEP IN A BARREL.

THIS morning a gentleman from out of town came into the office. He has been having some interference with motion and sensation in his feet for a year or two. His physician suspected pernicious anemia because that disease sometimes causes a disease of the spinal cord with symptoms in the feet and legs. Examination of his blood ruled out that trouble. Another physician suggested locomotor ataxia. Examination of his blood and spinal fluid ruled that out. Had he come in later in the day I would have asked him if he were accustomed to sitting with his legs crossed. After he had gone I read in the American Medical Journal a report of paralysis of the feet and lower legs due to the habit of crossing the legs. This report was by Dr. H. W. Woltman, who had observed some 27 cases.

Most of the important nerves and blood vessels are placed deep in the body, away from bones and embedded in fat. This architecture protects these important structures from injury. But around the knee joint and just below it the bones get plenty close to the skin, and here and there important nerves must run over bony knobs. The foot is another region in which nerves are more easily pinched than is the rule.

When a man crosses his legs he may press an important nerve against a bony knob located near the knee. This explains the tendency of the crossed foot to "go to sleep," a tendency which every one has noticed. This pressure, persisted in, may cause a more or less permanent paralysis of motion and sensation."

Women are not prone to develop this disorder because, in the first place, they do not have the crossed-legged habit. Second, their legs are fat. Third, their knees are built slightly different from those of men; they are a little less bony and gnarled and a little more inbent.

If a person has recently lost a lot of adipose tissue he is especially prone to this form of foot palsy. Dr. Woltman tells of a very fat man who was persuaded to reduce by eating nothing but carrots. He quickly lost a lot of weight and felt like the "last of pea time" in consequence. His carrot diet turned him yellow. Between his yellow hue and his weakness he became melancholy and he went to a ball game in the hope of forgetting impending death. He sat cross legged on the bleachers. Paralysis of the legs developed. Nothing remained but the undertaker. Rest, a better diet and no carrots made a new man of him.

A man got drunk and sat on the end of an open barrel. He fell asleep and slipped into the barrel, more or less doubled up. He got this form of paralysis. A man playing poker and drinking whisky all night fell asleep as he sat cross-legged, with his head on the table. When he settled he paid with leg paralysis, in addition to coin of the realm.

MORE MILK IS ADVISED.

Mrs. A. A. writes: What is the best food to eat during pregnancy? I drink about a gallon of water daily. Is this too much?

REPLY.

Drink about 50 per cent more milk than you have been accustomed to. Otherwise make no special changes in your diet either as to quantities or as to foods eaten.

This advice assumes that you are free from kidney trouble, from vomiting, headaches and are not gaining much in weight. You are drinking too much water.

STOCK LOSSES CUT BY BIG BULL MARKET

Rally Carries Leading Issues Up From 5 to 50 Points in 10,000,000-Share Day.

SHORT SESSION TODAY

New York, Oct. 30 (A.P.).—Wall street experienced its biggest "bull" market by all comparisons with any single day's upturn today, but it still had far to go to produce a "bull" session that could compensate for the terrific losses of either of the past two sessions or of last Thursday.

The most dramatic decline in market history, nevertheless, appeared to have reached a definite bottom yesterday afternoon. At any rate the rally which set in then developed into a powerful upswing today which carried leading issues up 5 to 50 points in a turnover of 10,727,300 shares, never before exceeded in a rising market.

This turnover, however, seemed moderate in comparison with yesterday's 16,410,030 shares. The rebound of prices, while nearly canceling yesterday's net losses, left the level of prices still comparatively close to the bottom of the decline of the past six weeks.

Bankers' Efforts Take Effect.

But the frantic efforts of the Nation's leading financial interests to prevent a complete debacle on the security markets appeared to be taking effect in a decisive manner. Even John D. Rockefeller, sr., who for several years has very rarely consented to speak for publication, added a statement to the growing list of reassurances as to fundamental conditions and the intrinsic values of leading securities, which have come from President Hoover and most of the heads of the Nation's largest banks.

Only during today's upswing did the full gravity of the situation which Wall street hopes is past, become manifest. The stock and curb markets, with the public hysteria apparently on the ebb, announced that they would not open until noon tomorrow and that they would be closed all day Friday and Saturday to give brokerage houses a chance to put their books in order and to save their employes from physical exhaustion.

The closing, also, will give brokers and traders alike a chance to learn where they stand.

Rediscount Rates May Drop.

It was reported in banking circles that there is a very definite prospect of a decrease in the New York Federal Reserve Bank's rediscount rate tomorrow. The strain upon credit in the checking of the stock market stampede has been greater than appears upon the surface and a lower rate might aid the situation considerably. Bankers stated that yesterday's call loan rate of 6 per cent was largely artificial and that a 10 per cent rate would have given a truer picture of the situation.

Heavy buying of Government securities by the Federal Reserve was believed to be in an effort to relax the strain. Call money was kept at 6 per cent all day today, although withdrawals were said to have been large. Time money was quoted at 6 per cent for all maturities, but little was said to have been loaned.

Although the weekly steel trade reviews reported little change in the slackened operations, business news generally was favorable. Car loadings for the latest week turned upward markedly. Several good earnings statements appeared, led by that of Westinghouse Electric, and more extra dividends were declared, conspicuous among them a $2 extra by American Tobacco.

Telephone Up 36 Points.

Among gains in some of the leading shares were 36 points in American Telephone, 19 in American & Foreign Power, 25 in General Electric, 21½ in Johns Manville, 18½ in Westinghouse Electric, 17 in Union Carbide, 15 in Columbia Gas, 12 in Montgomery Ward, 11 in U. S. Steel, Erie, National Cash Register and American Can, and about 8 to 10 in Anaconda, Bethlehem Steel, General Motors, Consolidated Gas, Kennecott, New York Central, Pan-American B, Standard of New Jersey and Sears Roebuck. Radio rallied 7⅜. A few more soft spots cropped out. Warner Bros. lost about 8 and Union Pacific 9 points.

The commodity markets generally turned upward with stocks. Wheat sold up about 3 cents a bushel, helped by good export buying, and corn rallied moderately. Cotton gained about $1 a bale.

Foreign exchanges eased, and there was a tendency to attribute this to the movement of funds to this center in connection with renewed buying of stocks. The Canadian dollar dropped to a new low for the year at 98 cents, and sterling cables sagged to $4.87 13-16.

BOND SELLING SENDS PRICES INTO DECLINE

Investors Caught in Stock Crash Turn Loose Fixed-Income Issues.

LIBERTYS ARE WEAKER

New York, Oct. 30 (A.P.).—The bond market suffered from extensive liquidation today as holdings of fixed-income securities were sold by investors who had been hard-hit by the recent stock market crash. There was also some selling on the part of individuals alarmed by the virtual collapse of equity values on Monday and Tuesday.

The decline carried first grade bonds down with secondary and speculative obligations. Liberties, which had been a rallying point in the weakening market of yesterday, were freely sold, and the 3½s dropped more than a point and a half, a large dealine. The first and fourth 4¼s lost 27 and 20 thirty-seconds of a point, respectively, while the listed treasuries recorded losses of about the same proportions, although on smaller turnovers.

Trading ran through the forenoon with considerable steadiness, but in the later hours the tone weakened and declines of 1 to 3 points in loans of good grade became numerous. With stocks again advancing after a considerable period of weakness, it was apparent that some of the buying of shares was being done on funds that had been placed in the bond market.

Average Is 94.04.

The close, which was at the lowest level of the day, found the Associated Press combined average at 94.04 which compared with 93.49 on October 5, the last day of the prolonged decline, and 95.20 on October 23, when the recent rise reached its highest figure.

The decline was in the face of a constructive factor, the easing of time money to 6 per cent for all maturities, the lowest rates of the year.

On the strength of rising stock prices, convertibles made a vigorous rally. Leaders in the advance were American Telephone 4½s, up 24½ at the close; International Telephone 4½s, up 23¼; Atchison 4½s, up 12; American I. G. Chemical 5½s, up 7; Public Service of New Jersey 4½s, up 5, and Reading Coal & Iron 6s, up 7.

Rails Are Hard Hit.

The depression struck the rails with considerable force. There were losses of 1 to more than 3 points in Baltimore & Ohio Gold 5s, Canadian National 4½s, of 1957; Central of Georgia 5s; Chicago Great Western 4s, Rock Island 5½s, Erie 4s, Great Northern 5½s, Illinois Central 4¾s, New York Central General 3½s, Convertible 6s and Refunding 5s, New Haven 4s, Northern Pacific General 3s, Pennsylvania General 4½s and General 5s, Southern Railway General 4s, St. Louis Southwestern 5s, St. Louis & San Francisco prior lien 4s, and Union Pacific 4s.

Even larger declines appeared in isolated instances. Denver & Rio Grande Western General 5s lost 7½, touchlng the new low of 83½. Seaboard Air Line and Seaboard All Florida issues were also weak. A few rallys managed to hold their ground.

High grade utilities and industrials were liquidated liberally. In the former group losses of a point or more were met by American Telephone debenture 6½s and 5s, Consolidated Gas of New York 5½s, Kansas Gas & Electric 6s, Montana Power 5s, Laclede Gas 5½s, New York Edison 5s, Pacific Power & Light 5s, Tennessee Electric Power 8s and Utah Power & Light 5s.

Industrials Also Lose.

In the industrial division the selling movement carried Armour 5½s and Real Estate 4½s down 4½ and 2 points, respectively. Other losers were Bethlehem Steel 6s and 5½s, off ½ each; Chile Copper 5s, off 2¾; Illinois Steel 4½s, off 4½; Inland Steel 4½s, off ⅞; International Match 5s, off 2¼; Otis Steel 6s, off 1¼, and U. S. Rubber 7½s, off 2½. New lows appeared in several weaker issues.

Numerous foreign bonds were sold heavily. Chile 6s tumbled 6 points to a new low. British United Kingdom 5½s lost 2 points, descending to within a fraction of their year's low. Most of the South Americans were soft. French Republic 7½s held a strong position, climbing 2¾, while the 7s advanced fractionally.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, Oct. 30 (A.P.).—Huge concentrated speculative buying for Eastern and European account moved the wheat market up today to the highest and strongest close witnessed in some time. Export purchasing of wheat for transatlantic shipment from North America was also on a large scale, totaling 1,750,000 bushels today. Meanwhile, indications pointed to near-at-hand decrease of the United States wheat visible total, and rural deliveries of wheat at interior Canadian points showed a remarkable falling off.

Wheat closed firm at virtually the day's topmost level, 3½c to 4¼c higher than yesterday's finish. Corn closed ¼c to 1¼c advanced, oats ¼c to ⅝c up, and provisions ranging from 10c decline to a rise of 7c.

By far the greater portion of today's advance in the wheat market came during the final hour of business, but it was a noticeable fact that prices had begun to climb briskly after a little wavering at the start. The initial upward impulse was chiefly due to stock exchange rallies. Then, however, evidence soon became known showing that traders here were giving more and more attention to deleopments which ordinarily affect grain values. This was especially the case after word went around that 1,750,000 bushels of wheat had been bought from the United States and Canada to be shipped abroad, whereas signs were at the same time foreshadowing a reduction of wheat exports from Argentina.

Adding force to the upward impetus of the wheat market in the late dealings was announcement that some domestic mills have disposed of equal to 600 per cent of their flour-making capacity in the last week. Moreover, it was shown that primary domestic receipts of wheat this week were less than half as large as a year ago, and that Canadian country markettings for a single day had dropped to 878,000 bushels against 3,897,000 bushels at this time last year. According to one estimate current, farmers in Canada have but 50,000,000 bushels of wheat left now after allowing for feed and seed requirements.

Corn prices, although at first inclined to sag, turned upgrade sharply toward the last in response to wheat strength. Earlier, the corn market was more or less affected by news that a cargo of 2,000 tons of American corn was being unloaded at Georgian Bay, Canada. Oats today were governed rather by wheat action than by corn.

Provisions averaged lower as a result of commission house selling which took place notwithstanding that hog values were higher.

GABBY STREET APPOINTED MANAGER OF CARDINALS

ROPER STIRS SYNTHETIC RAGE

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—Mr. Will Roper, the Princeton football coach, in the course of two rather petulant public rebukes to his team preceding the game with the Navy last week, made the interesting observation that football play consists of 90 per cent fight and 10 per cent skill. It was this theory that provoked the unpleasantness between Harvard and Princeton a few years ago, the Harvard people holding that the Princeton boys fought more than the law allowed, but without going into that regrettable matter, I wonder if the boys of the University of Chicago who are to play Princeton next Saturday have been sufficiently inflamed to undertake the game.

Mr. Stagg, who coaches the Chicago teams, has long been recognized as a bit of a psychologist himself, and I recall his telling about a boy who did something spectacular in the closing minutes of a game a long time ago, scoring a touchdown or something of the sort, when his physical strength had left him and nothing remained to sustain him but some undefined emotional force.

But I do not believe it has been Mr. Stagg's procedure of recent years, if it ever was, to drive his players to frenzies either by private goading or public shaming, so if what Mr. Roper says is true, as, of course, it need not be, even though he said so, the Chicago team would seem to be at a disadvantage.

Roper One of Few Coaches Thus Privileged.

Mr. Roper is one of the very few football coaches in the country who could get away with the sort of remarks about the football players under his charge and the generous vindication of himself and his teachings which he loosed last week in his psychological experiment on the athletes.

First, he wrote a piece for the Daily Princetonian admitting that the players and not the coach were responsible for the defeats inflicted by Brown and Cornell. This was followed by an oration delivered before an audience of New York sports writers at a luncheon, in which Mr. Roper said the team alone must assume the responsibility for winning or losing the rest of the games on the schedule.

Just lately, two coaches have been relieved of their contracts because their football teams had not been winning, but Mr. Roper's remarks about the Princeton's varsity, although they might be interpreted as a reflection on the disposition of the young men, have not been challenged by any one.

Rage Might Have Started By Attacking Coach.

I should think that if Mr. Roper's players were the hair-trigger fighters which he desired them to be, the first reaction that he could have expected from his remarks would have been a series of jolly good pokes on the nose from the first young man of the squad to reach him. But I feel quite sure that any member of the football team who did kick down the door of Mr. Roper's room at the field house and start smacking him hither and yon in a sincere fighting rage of the kind prescribed for football men by Mr. Roper himself would have courted serious disciplinary action. It is all a great puzzle.

The Navy players against whom Mr. Roper thus endeavored to inflame the Princeton players were all strangers to them and it is easy to understand that, football being a game and not a phase of war, the players might advance to the contest in a spirit of mutual competitive good will. If courage and spunk were the qualities which Mr. Roper hoped to arouse in the players he should have been prepared to fight his men individually because he gave them cause for a fairly active rage against himself without making out a plausible case for fighting against the Navy.

All Might Be Taken as Spat Within Family.

Although he might have enjoyed a personal fight, being a man of good figure, great vigor and turbulent disposition, there is a reason to doubt that such a challenge to the semimilitary authority of the coach over the

Grid Coaches Opposed to New Plan

Pilots Treat as Joke Move to Keep Them Off the Bench.

Captains Not Qualified to Judge Condition of Players.

NEW YORK, Oct. 30 (A.P.).—The New York Evening Post today quoted leading football coaches of the country as opposing suggestions that the captain of an eleven be given responsibility for the direction of his team during a game and that the coach take a seat in the stands.

The recent Carnegie report on college athletics remarked that "a college football or baseball player has opportunity to exhibit little more initiative than a chessman" and in other quarters football has been referred to as a "coach-ridden" sport.

Here is what the coaches have to say:

CHICK MEEHAN, NEW YORK UNIVERSITY—"Players want the coach to advise them. I suggest men advocating this situation in college positions allow student control and advice in their department. Give the boys the college and let them run it."

KNUTE ROCKNE, NOTRE DAME—"The plan for putting the coaches up in the stands is sponsored by certain types of educators who are jealous of the coaches and want to put them completely out of the picture. The plan is based on a major premise that all coaches are crooked and the only ones who are honest are the heads of education."

Zuppke Jokes About Move.

ROBERT ZUPPKE, ILLINOIS—"If the coaches were barred from the benches after a while the reformers would be the first to advocate their return. Why not give the college band back to the boys?"

GILMOUR DOBIE, CORNELL—"The movement which purports to give the game back to the boys is being promulgated very largely by those who know little about the intricacies of modern football."

DAN M'GUGIN, VANDERBILT—"The coach can instruct players on the bench while the game is going on, calling attention to things properly and improperly done."

The point that a coach is better qualified to judge the physical condition of the players and make needed substitutions than a comparatively inexperienced youth in the heat of play, was made by McGugin, Glenn Warner, Stanford; Mal Stevens, Yale, and Herbert McCracken, Lafayette.

Northwestern Ready For Illini Saturday

Chicago, Oct. 30 (A.P.).—The Wildcats of Northwestern finished their final hard practice of the week this afternoon, with a feeling that Illinois will bow to the Purple Saturday for the first time since 1912.

Coach Dick Hanley drove his squad through its toughest practice of the season, utilizing every minute of today's two-hour session for scrimmage. All the cripples returning to the field and every man will be available for the effort against the Illini. The Purple will shoot a lot of sophomores into the battle.

Things were not so bright at Illinois; the freshmen, using Northwestern plays, tore through the varsity for long gains, causing Coach Zuppke to make remarks about "blokes." Lanum was at full back in the place of Humbert and probably will start Saturday.

GRUBB FETES TEAM.

The Silver Spring Giants Baseball Team will be entertained at the home of Manager Grubb on Saturday night in the form of a little banquet. All players and friends of the team are invited to attend.

"Scalzi Influence" Guarantees Spirited Battle by Georgetown Against N. Y. U.

IF fighting spirit factors prominently in football games—and generally it does when two well-matched teams meet—Georgetown won't be at a disadvantage in the New York University battle at Yankee Stadium Saturday. Exhibit A in support of that assertion is Dr. John Scalzi, the magician of the Hilltop, better known as the quarter back of the team that is seeking its second victory in two years over the Gotham crew.

Johnny Scalzi himself probably doesn't realize it, but the fact is that Georgetown seems to play its best football when he is at the helm. Johnny is a modest youth who plays the game for all he is worth and it is simply that wherein his magical powers lie.

You might call it the Scalzi influence, this intangible thing that causes Lou Little's players to perk up the moment Scalzi takes command as the signal caller. When the stocky, square-jawed Stamford (Conn.) lad hops into the driver's seat, the Hilltop machine jumps suddenly into a faster speed, meanwhile retaining the smoothness of its operation.

Other Good Pilots At Hilltop.

There are other good quarter backs at Georgetown and some who excel Scalzi in some departments of play. All of them are as earnest as he, too, but they are not as fortunate in possessing that spiritual spark that sets off an explosion of the team's best football the instant it gains contact.

His teammates have the utmost confidence in Scalzi. He earned it by pulling off great plays as soon as he entered earlier games as a substitute. Georgetown's victory over West Virginia Wesleyan resulted from a late rally instigated by Scalzi's surprise punt which tossed the Methodists back upon their goal line for the first time of the game.

Like a boxer trying for a first-round knockout, Scalzi goes into battle at top speed. Against St. Louis University, Scalzi reeled off a 41-yard gain immediately upon substitution for the starting quarter back. Last Saturday he did practically the same thing in the Lebanon Valley game. He hadn't been in in the latter contest five minutes before G. U. scored two touchdowns.

Concedes Nothing as a Forward Passer.

Scalzi is no Albie Booth nor an Al Marsters in all-round ability, but certainly the effect of his presence in a game means as much to his teammates as does that of either of the other pair to their fellow players.

As a forward passer, however, it is doubtful if anybody in the East has anything on the Blue and Gray signal barker. He handles that oval as easily as if it were a nickel baseball. He whips long or short passes with equal facility and accuracy. He throws the kind made to order for receivers—a smooth spinner that takes a sort of graceful nose dive when in reach of the player catching it.

While no all-American as a ball-carrier or a kicker, Scalzi is not the worst back in the world by far. There really is no telling what is his limit in these respects. He is as likely to romp the length of the field or punt 50 yards as to get nominal distance In short, he is a dangerous threat, and because they are aware of it his teammates exhale confidence with every breath.

G. U. Will Fight With Scalzi Wielding Whip.

New York University may have a better team than Georgetown Saturday, but it won't be said that the Violets fought any harder A year ago Chick Meehan's outfit was acknowledged the better team but failed to win. Georgetown's superior spirit was a decisive factor in that memorable struggle.

With Johnny Scalzi wielding the whip, Georgetown may well be expected to repeat that type of performance two days hence.

Accompanied by hundreds of students and the school band, the Hilltop players and coaches depart at 4 p. m. today for New York. They will stop at the Hotel McAlpin. A signal drill with passing and kicking in scheduled tomorrow in Yankee Stadium.

Three Hilltop Teams To Compete at N. Y. U.

Georgetown's invasion of New York will be fought along three fronts. The freshmen eleven and the cross-country teams are going along with the varsity gridmen today for week-end competition with New York University teams.

The freshmen team will engage the Violet "Buds" tomorrow afternoon on Ohio Field, N. Y. U.'s home battleground. The cross-country athletes will hook up with Coach Emil Von Eling's charges Saturday morning in a dual. The race will start and finish in Van Cortlandt Park.

It will be the first competitive appearance of the season for the runners.

The following will start for G. U. in the yearling football game: Drunsfield and Hudson, ends; Sullivan and Voight, tackles; O'Connor and Banacowski, guards; Danner, center; Costello, quarter back; Alenti and Jakes, half backs, and Dee, full backs. The cross-country teams will be composed of J. Julicher, Milstead, Mara, Kelly, Downing, St. Lawrence, Hennessey, H. Julicher and Hazard.

While in New York the above-mentioned, together with Coaches O'Reilly, Dudack and Carroll, will stop at the Hotel Marseilles. The varsity eleven will be quartered at the McAlpin.

Mike Hall Also Ran In Newmarket Race

Newmarket, England, Oct. 30 (A.P.).—The second attempt of Mike Hall to gain honor on English turf failed today when the American-bred gelding finished among the also rans in the Cambridgeshire Stakes.

The historic mile-and-furlong jaunt was won by Lady Zia Mernher's Doublelife with Capt. J. D. Cohn's American-owned horse, Vatout, second. Jacques Wittouck's Palais Royal II, which won the fall classic last year, finished third in the field of 33.

Mike Hall, which ran thirteenth in his first English appearance in the Cesarewitch, was never a factor in today's race after the first mile.

Cardinals to Train At Bradenton, Fla.

St. Louis, Oct. 30 (A.P.).—Bradenton, Fla., has been selected as the 1930 training camp of the St. Louis Cardinals, Secretary Clarence Lloyd announced today. The Red Birds trained at Bradenton in 1923 and 1924. It was again chosen after negotiations with San Diego, Calif., fell through and after Avon Park officials failed to guarantee improvements in the playing field and hotel accommodations there.

Illness "Grossly Exaggerated," Rockne Says, Devising New Play

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Oct. 30 (A.P.)—Notre Dame's "Vital Viking" of the gridiron, Knute Rockne, halted in the midst of a tantalizing mystery thriller today, propped himself on a pillow, fired a long stogie and vigorously insisted reports that he is seriously ill are "grossly exaggerated."

"Say, do I look like I am dying? Do I look as sick as a lot of football teams?" he wanted to know. "Really, I feel great, even though the infection in my right leg is painful at times. But just because my physician has ordered me to take a complete rest for the next two weeks, there is no cause for alarm to me, and shouldn't be for any one else. I am sicker trying to get football off my mind than anything else. I'll be up an' at 'em in time for the Southern California game at Chicago November 16."

Dr. Robert Senennich agrees with Rockne, that his ailment is nothing to cause an undue amount of worry. He explained that the generalissimo of the Ramblers is the victim of what is known as thrombo phlebitis; the clogging of veins in his leg, evidently caused by a bruise suffered two or three weeks ago. Nervousness, the physician added, is a close ally of Rockne's ailment.

"So I have gone to bed," Rockne interposed, "but believe me, it's the toughest job I've ever tackled. I do my best to keep my thoughts from football by reading detective stories, and even singing, but every once in a while my mind wanders back to the football field.

"Yesterday I caught myself thinking out a new play. It ought to be good for a touchdown or so, and I can't get it out of my mind."

Like a true general, "Rock" is directing his football from his bedside. His assistants come in each day for a conference while two or three times a week he calls in his corps of quarter backs to give them his latest observations.

Army-Navy Heads Fail To Agree

a suggestion that the contract be mutually discontinued.

Conceding that West Point had more men in its classes who had attended other colleges than Annapolis and that the average age of the cadet was higher than that of the midshipman, he held that "numbers count," and the Naval Academy had nearly 700 more students than the Military Academy.

Gen. Smith's announcement follows:

"Admiral Robison and I conferred today on renewing athletic relations between the Military Academy and the Naval Academy. We met in Gen Pershing's office. The entire subject was taken up in detail.

"I was most anxious to come to an agreement whereby the contract broken by Annapolis in 1927 concerning football be replaced by the gentlemen's agreement, which West Point has with those colleges and universities with which it engages in athletics, so that the annual game between the two service schools could be resumed as soon as our present schedules permit.

"Public sentiment demands this game. The Army is in full accord with the public in this matter. West Point feels that the present situation is deplorable and immediate steps should be taken for renewing sports between the two academies.

"The Army is willing and most anxious that this be done. The 1,200 cadets at West Point want to play the 2,000 midshipmen at Annapolis eleven at a time on the gridiron. No school other than Annapolis has ever raised the question of eligibility.

"There can be no question of eligibility between the two service schools. Every student who is proficient in his studies should be eligible to represent his school in any branch of sport. This stand I presented to Admiral Robison as the principle of the Military Academy I do not believe in compromising a principle.

"No agreement was reached The Army is still desirous of renewing athletic relations and hopes that the Navy will in time agree to meet us on the gridiron man for man as do other colleges."

Annapolis, Md., Oct. 30 (A.P.).—Three proposals which might serve as basis for agreement on eligibility were presented by Rear Admiral S. S. Robison, superintendent of the United States Naval Academy, in his conference today with Maj. Gen. William H. Smith, Military Academy superintendent, on athletic relations, it was reported at the Naval Academy after the conference in Washington ended.

Admiral Robison entered the conference, it was announced, with the feeling that since differences over eligibility rules caused the disruption of athletic relations between the two schools, resumption of relations should be based on a compromise on the eligibility question.

Gen Smith refused to make any offers of such a compromise, and Admiral Robison presented his three proposals.

The first was that West Point should adhere to a four-year rule, limiting any athlete to four years of intercollegiate competition.

The second Navy proposal was that West Point should eventually adopt a three-year rule with provision that this should not become effective for four years, so that it would not affect any West Point athlete now in the Military Academy.

The third proposal was that West Point be guided by intercollegiate rules for two years and by any elibibility rules of its own the next two years, alternating between the intercollegiate rules and its own for the two-year periods.

Admiral Robison's proposals specified that in all events the Naval Academy would continue to adhere to the intercollegiate rule which limits players to three years of varsity competition.

JOHNSON'S FAMOUS BATTERY MATE GETS MANAGERIAL BERTH

GABBY STREET.

Noted Catcher Is Named Successor to Bill McKechnie.

Famed as First Player to Catch Ball Off Monument.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 30 (A.P.).—Gabby Street, coach and scout for the St. Louis Cardinals, was named manager of the team here late today by President Sam Breadon. He succeeds Bill McKechnie, who signed to manage the Braves. Street, for years, was Walter Johnson's catcher at Washington.

The new Cardinal manager has been in baseball since 1900, but is taking charge of his first major league team. However, he managed minor league squads for nine years and only once finished out of the first division.

Street was apprised of his selection at his home in Joplin, Mo., by Breadon via long-distance telephone and the former Washington catcher said he would report tomorrow to sign a one-year contract. The consideration was not named.

Broke in With Reds In 1904 Season.

He was born in Huntsville, Ala. September 30, 1883, and played his first professional ball with Hopkinsville in the Kitty League at the age of 16. He was purchased by the Cincinnati Reds in 1904, but in 1906 was sent to San Francisco and was sold to Washington in 1908, where he remained until the close of 1911, going to the Yankees the next season. He was in the Southern League until 1920, when he launched his managerial career. He came to the Cards at the start of the 1929 season, as second coach to Manager Billy Southworth.

When McKechnie was recalled by Breadon in midseason to take the Cards' reins, Street became first coach and managed the club at different times. He declared tonight the Cardinals would be in the thick of the pennant fight next year, adding, "I certainly am tickled that Mr. Breadon has given me this chance and I'll do everything to prove his selection a successful one."

Gained Fame Catching Ball Off Washington Monument.

Street joined the Nationals in 1908, the year following Walter Johnson's major league debut, and the two almost immediately formed a battery team which was the talk of the baseball world for three seasons, during which Street showed himself to be an almost perfect mechanical worker behind the plate. At the time he joined the Nationals he showed himself to be the only one of the Washington catchers able to hold Johnson when the speedball king cut loose with full speed.

It was while he was a member of the Nationals that he jumped into the limelight by catching a ball dropped from the Washington Monument, a feat only duplicated once since.

"When Street was at his peak," said Johnson last night, "he was the best man behind the bat I have ever worked with. He knew what it was all about, could catch anything, was a great man at blocking off runners at the plate, and had such an exceptional throwing arm that few baserunners were willing to take a chance trying to steal, and mighty few of them ever were successful."

Slowed Up During Last Season Here.

Street was a slow runner and not a good hitter, however, and when he started on the downward path he slowed up fast, being traded to the New York Yankees in the fall of 1911 for Infielder Jack Knight, who lasted no longer than did Street with the New York Club. During his last season as a National he was only an average performer.

Since leaving Washington, Street's career has been varied. He has traveled all over the United States and played in all classes of leagues, finally signing as coach of the St. Louis Cardinals at the beginning of the 1929 season, replacing Jack Onslow, former Nat coach.

Street is a player of the aggressive type, knows his baseball and bears the reputation of being "smart." Both Johnson and President Clark Griffith last night expressed confidence in his ability to make good in his new berth.

CANNONBACK IN NAVY'S LINE-UP

Veteran Back Ready to Face Penn Team on Saturday.

Special to The Washington Post.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 30.—Any doubt that existed as to whether Johnny Gannon, veteran Navy half back, would be in shape to get into the game against Pennsylvania on Saturday, was dissipated today when he took his place for a time during a stiff offensive and defensive scrimmage against the Scrubs. Gannon has experienced considerable trouble with Charley Horse in one leg, that developed during early season practice, and has been slow responding to treatment He has been unable to strut his stuff having appeared but a short period in one of the earlier games.

Today also saw the return to the line-up of Capt. Koepke, at guard. This is probably only temporary however, as "Moon" Chapple is listed among the casuals of the Princeton set-to, but will be in good trim by Saturday. Eddy and Swan alternated at the other guard. These lads are heavier and stronger than Koepke. Otherwise, the forward wall remained intact, with Bowstrom and Crinkley, at tackles; Moret and Byng, ends; and Hughes, center.

Castree, Spring and Bauer Other Backs.

In the back field besides Gannon were Jack Castree at the other half, Art Spring, quarter back, and Joe Bauer, full back. The latter substituted for Joe Clifton, another casual of the Tiger clash, who will also be in shape for the go against the Red and Blue. Kohlhas, quarter, also got a workout.

While Head Coach Bill Ingram directed the work of this outfit, Johnny Wilson, chief assistant coach, and Ensign Tom Hamilton, handled a second varsity eleven that worked out against another group of shock troops. Today's practice was on a miry turf and during a cold rain, as the precipitation was almost incessant since early morning.

NED O. DISQUALIFIED AFTER LAUREL STAKE VICTORY

Abel Claims Foul in Stretch as Winner Swerves.

Crossbones Is Second; Black Majesty Sets Pace But Falters.

Special to The Washington Post.

LAUREL RACE TRACK, Md., Oct. 30.—The $10,000 added Spaulding Lowe Jenkins Handicap had an unsatisfactory ending at Laurel this afternoon when Ned O., a well-played favorite, was disqualified after he had beaten the Seagram Stable's Sun Craig out a head. Right at the end in full view of the grand stand Ned O., who came from behind with a rush, swerved over to the inside in the last 50 yards to collide with Sun Craig. Abel, who rode the latter, was prompt in lodging a claim of foul, which was at promptly allowed and the change in the placing made Sun Craig first, Crossbones second and Brown Admiral third.

A field of ten went to the post and Ned O. was favorite. Naturally a slow breaker, Ned O. was last, but as they swung into the back stretch, Black Majesty was out in front setting a fast pace and Jim Dandy was second. Sun Craig was fourth and Abel was sitting still. Rounding the far turn Sun Craig moved up stoutly and caught and passed Black Majesty.

Ned O. Closes With Rush.

Ned O. was fifth, having gradually improved his position rounding the far turn. Swinging to the outside Ned O. closed with a rush when straightened out and just as they reached the sixteenth pole Quattlebaum struck him with his whip. In doing so he let go. The colt shied and swerved sharply across to the inside. It appeared as though Quattlebaum might have straightened him out just as he reached Sun Craig, but the stewards who were in a better position to see where of the opinion that the colt hit Sun Craig.

It was a tough race for Ned O. to lose as he was plainly best and when the interference occurred Sun Craig appeared to be a beaten horse. The net value of the stake to the winner was $12,500. The mile in 1:40 1-5 marked a good performance over the track which was slow.

Snappy Snub, Tired, Lasts To Win Opener.

Snappy Snub won the first division of the race that called for maiden 2-year-old fillies when the Sagamore entry beat Aziz out half a length after a long, hard drive which lasted from the top of the home stretch. Eilona was first to show and led Snappy Snub by a slight margin as they reached the half-mile pole. Snappy Snub then began to draw away and rounding the far turn opened up a lead of one length.

She still retained this margin as they straightened out for the final run, but at the end she tired and Bejshak was forced to go to a hard drive to stall off Aziz, who finished with determination. When the latter attempted to go through on the inside at the furlong pole the leader bore over a bit and interfered with her. But for this Aziz would have been a keener factor. Spantaft, after breaking last, took the overland route. She closed gamely at the end and was up in the closing stride to beat Colinport by the smallest of margin. Ambrose stopped riding the latter in the last sixteenth, or she would have been third.

Inzelone's Ride Costs Keep On Victory.

The ride that Inzelone put up on Keep On cost the Coe filly the race. Breaking rapidly, Keep On was rushed up to the speedy Black Carse and in the run down the back stretch raced the latter off her feet. Inzelone never gave Keep On an opportunity of taking a second breath with the result that the filly was all in and staggering when Valencinnes challenged in the stretch run. She had nothing in reserve and was beaten a neck by Valencinnes in a race she should have won in easy fashion. Black Carse stopped to a walk when she collapsed and was last and beaten off at the finish. Dorita was third, beaten five lengths for the place, and a head in front of Luscinia.

Prairie Girl proved best of the band of platers that went to the post in the third race. This was a dash of 1 mile and a furlong under claiming conditions, for which Blue Flag and Manager Evers, coupled in the betting as an entry, was the public choice.

Manager Evers flattered his backers by dashing to the front when the break came and making the pace until well inside the furlong pole. When he weakened Isotacy took command only to be passed in the final strides by Prairie Girl who came from behind in the stretch run after making a very wide turn. It was only in the last few yards that Prairie Girl got up but she won going away by half a length. Isostacy beat Laftar a length and a half for the place. Hughes made the mistake of keeping the latter down next to the inside rail where the footing was heavier than any other part of the track.

Equalization In Improved Form, Wins Fourth.

Equation came back with a good performance this afternoon after a disappointing effort the last time out. In today's race Carlisle had the mount and in the early stages he rated along in the middle of the bunch. Not until rounding the far turn did Equation move up and, entering the home stretch, he was second, four lengths off Raucona.

In the final furlong Equation closed with a rush and in a driving finish was up in time to beat Raucona out a length. Blue Darter was third, four lengths back. He just managed to last Fair Class out a head. Billy Baughn was never prominent and Croyden again pulled up lame after racing prominently for half a mile.

A stirring finish came with the running of the sixth race when Baron King came from behind in the stretch run to get up in the last 50 yards to win going away by a length and a half from Pennant Lass; Sweep Out, Strolling Player and My Sis racing in close company made the early pace. Baron King was eighth and apparently out of it Strolling Player had quit and dropped out of it. Pennant Lass and My Sis were on almost even terms with the leader and all were under a hard drive and fighting it out. At the end the leaders weakened and Baron King, coming from behind, finished with a great burst of speed on the extreme outside. Pennant Lass just lasted long enough to beat Water Lad out a head for the place.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—SNAPPY SNUB, $7.00, $5.00, $3.20; AZIZ, $5.40, $3.30; SPANTAFT, $2.90.

SNAPPY SNUB began well, raced EILONA into submission, drew clear when entering the home stretch, was placed to punishment when reaching the furlong pole and swerved to the inside when struck and was tiring at the end. AZIZ, a forward factor all the way, was forced to take up when the winner swerved, came to the outside and was gaining steadily nearing the finish. SPANTAFT, slow to begin, was on the outside all the way and just managed to outfinish COLINPORT. Latter, in contention early, hung in the last sixteenth. EILONA had early foot.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—VALENCIENNES, $20.40, $7.90, $4.30; KEEP ON, $4.30, $3.50; DORITA, $3.30.

VALENCIENNES, hurried into a forward position with good speed when sent up on the outside of the leaders, withstood a drive gamely and moved into the lead in the last fifty yards. KEEP ON, raced BLACK CARSE into defeat and held on with good energy. DORITA, outrun early, slipped through on the inside when the leaders swung wide into the home stretch and just lasted to stall off LUSCINIA. Latter was going gamely nearing the finish. MISS DESMOND went wide the entire trip. BLACK CARSE stopped utterly.

VAENCIENNES BEATS KEEP ON IN SECOND.

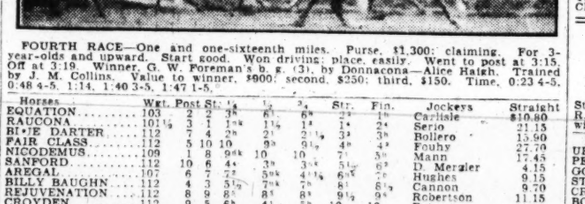
Two-dollar mutuels paid—PRAIRIE GIRL, $39.70, $16.30, $10.30; ISOSTASY, $6.60, $5.30; LAFTAR, $4.30.

PRAIRIE GIRL, bided into a good position, followed the leaders while racing on the inside to the far turn, came around her company thereafter, finished willingly and was up in the last sixteenth. ISOSTASY, in hear pursuit of MANAGER EVERS, displaced the latter when inside the final furlong, but his early efforts weakened him when the winner challenged. LAFTAR saved ground all the way and had no mishaps. MANAGER EVERS was hard ridden the entire trip and hung in the final furlong. BLANCO closed some ground when settled in his stride. The others were never factors.

PRAIRIE GIRL ROMPS HOME IN THIRD RACE.



FOURTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, easily. Went to post at 3:15. Off at 3:19. Winner, G. W. Foreman's b. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—EQUATION, $23.60, $12.50, $8.90; RAUCONA, $27.20, $13.40; BLUE DARTER, $7.30.

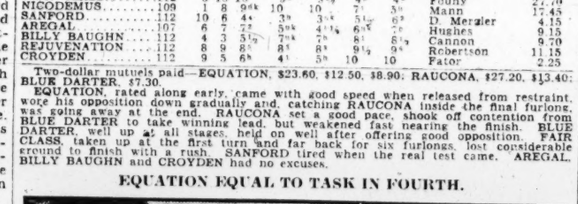
EQUATION, rated along early, came with good speed when released from restraint, wore his opposition down gradually and catching RAUCONA inside the final furlong, was going away at the end. RAUCONA set a good pace, shook off contention from BLUE DARTER to take winning lead, but weakened fast nearing the finish. BLUE DARTER, well up at all stages, held on well after offering good opposition. FAIR CLASS, taken up at the first turn and far back for six furlongs, lost considerable ground to finish with a rush. SANFORD tired when the real test came. AREGAL, BILLY BAUGHN and CROYDEN had no excuses.

EQUATION EQUAL TO TASK IN FOURTH.



FIFTH RACE—One mile. Purse, $10,000 added. The Spalding Lowe Jenkins Handicap. For 2-year-olds. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:53. Off at 3:55. Winner, Seagram Stable's b. c. Two-dollaf mutuels paid—SUN CRAIG, $16.50; $6.70, $5.50; CROSSBONES, $10.00, $7.00; BROWN ADMIRAL, $6.60.

NED O., outrun for the first six furlongs, went to his field with excellent speed when called on, was placed to punishment and, finishing with high speed, was up in the final twenty yards. He was disqualified for bumping into SUN CRAIG when he swerved with the lash of the whip. SUN CRAIG, placed forwardly, moved into a brief lead rounding the far turn and held on with good courage after being impeded. CROSSBONES, steadied along in close attendance of the leaders, closed willingly under a drive. BROWN ADMIRAL, taken up going to the first turn, was steered very wide all the way and showed a good test. BLACK MAJESTY set a good pace for six furlongs and weakened. SWEET SENTIMENT went well. KHARA was in trouble most of the way. HACKY H. and JIM DANDY quit.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—BARON KING, $9.00, $6.60, $4.00; PENNANT LASS, $9.10, $4.80; WATER LAD, $6.60.

BARON KING, away in the first flight, raced in early contention, swung to the outside when fully in his stride and, closing full of run, wore the leaders down in the final furlong and was home away at the end. PENNANT LASS, unable to remain in early contention, finished gamely under her own weight. WATER LAD was racing steadily at the finish. MUD gained racing room on the inside to reach a forward position and held on determinedly. MY SIS forced a fast early pace. She tired in the final drive. SWEEP OUT stopped. STROLLING PLAYER had early speed. RECREATION sulked.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—PELLIGRINO, $12.10, $4.30, out; VOLE, $3.90, out; INTREPID, out.

PELLEGRINO, under stiff reserve early, was steadied until the final half mile, wore INTREPID down gradually when put to a drive and, under severe urging, had enough left to withstand VOLE. Latter, under restraint for the first mile while racing on the outside, closed willingly but was not good enough. INTREPID assumed command after six furlongs, was rated in front but faltered in the closing test. ALITA ALLEN had no mishaps. MEANDER quit early.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—UPDIKE, $70.74, $15.48, $7.80; PEGGY LEE, $3.12, $2.62; GOVERNOR PRATT, $3.22.

UPDIKE, taken up at advantage at the start, was taken back and reserved behind PEGGY LEE until midway at the stretch and, taking to outside, disposed of leader and was drawing out at the end. PEGGY LEE, much used in racing into the lead, opened up a good gap approaching the turn and, although holding on stubbornly in the drive, was not good enough. GOVERNOR PRATT, prominent from start, but racing in close quarters on inside, held on courageously to outstay ST. CHARLES.

SECOND RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 2:26. Off at 2:27. Winner, Warm Stable's ch. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—BILLY CHAMP, $7.48, $4.66, $2.98; DARK ENTRY, $4.16, $3.50; VLADIMIR, $21.60.

BILLY CHAMP, forward under steadying restraint, disposed of leaders with a rush when ready and, drawing out decisively, won as rider pleased. DARK ENTRY was hustled to the front immediately after start, was taken up sharply when winner challenged and was poorly handled thereafter. VLADIMIR was forced back soon after start, made a game bid when clear through stretch, but could not threaten leaders. WORKLESS, outrun the first half mile, closed strongly on outside last three-sixteenths.

THIRD RACE—Five furlongs. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 2:50. Off at 2:54. Winner, W. Reed's b. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—RETORT, $16.46, $6.54, $6.48; VIRADO, $5.26, $5.36; FIRST MISSION, $16.30.

RETORT, far back in the turn, moved up strongly on inside and, continuing gamely wore leaders down final seventy yards. VIRADO, also far back first half mile, waved ground into stretch and, closing courageously, just failed to get up. FIRST MISSION slipped through on inside at the turn when HOT SHOT carried SISSY out, opened up a slight advantage, but could not withstand winner's rush.

FOURTH RACE—Mile and seventy yards. Purse, $1,300; claiming. The Pleasant Ridge. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:18. Off at 3:23. Winner, C. E. Two-dollar mutuels paid—HERRICK, $10.92, $4.06, $2.68; CHIP, $3.84, $2.46; FANNIE J., $2.98.

HERRICK began fast, raced into a comfortable lead under hustling tactics and, holding on gamely under punishment, lasted to hold CHIP safe. Latter, forward under stout restraint, moved up determinedly when straightened out in stretch and, continuing strongly, just failed to get up.

FIFTH RACE—One mile. Purse, $1,200; allowances. The Polidexter. For 2-year-olds. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:48. Off at 3:49. Winner, J. Hoffler's b. c. Two-dollar mutuels paid—PLAY BALL, $5.28, $2.98, $3.10; WOOD RIVER, $3.66, $2.66; BIG STUFF, $3.08.

PLAY BALL was sent into contention with a rush, followed LADY FINGERS to the half mile and, racing into a good lead while saving ground, had much speed to spare at the end. WOOD RIVER was forced back in first turn, bettered position with a loss of ground and, continuing strongly through stretch, closed an immense gap. BIG STUFF moved up slowly on outside, closed gamely through stretch, but could not menace leaders. LADY FINGERS was rushed to the front in first turn, sa'ed ground wherever possible, but faltered badly when put to a drive through stretch.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good for all but Red Blaze. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:17. Off at 4:20. Winner, J. VIRGINIA PREPARES FOR WET FIELD AT MARYLAND

Coaches Drill Cavaliers In Rain

No Line Changes Are Planned for Game at College Park.

Shifted Back Field Is Likely to Face Old Liners Saturday.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Oct. 30. Virginia's varsity practiced in the rain this afternoon as one stage of the preparation for the game against Maryland in College Park on Saturday.

For the Cavaller gridders there was no truth in the old saying "Mo' rain, mo' rest." Instead they put on their oldest uniforms and had a session, including a short scrimmage, of practice with a wet and slippery ball.

Thus far this season Virginia has had fine weather for all games. It rained a little before the South Carolina contest, but not enough to hurt. The coaches don't expect to be quite as fortunate in all of the four affairs remaining, and they were glad of an opportunity to have a workout in the wet.

Turner and Peyton At the Ends.

The varsity line-up today included Dick Turner and John Peyton on the ends, Dick Day and Larry Whalen as tackles, Bill DeButts and Floyd Lankford as guards and George Taylor in as center. Hunter Faulconer called signals and Albert Lewy, Gus Kaminer and Bill Thomas ran with him in the back field.

The Virginians will have two more drills at home before leaving for Washington early Saturday morning, instead of making the train Friday afternoon as was first planned. The final workout will be short on account of the game between the first year teams of Virginia and Washington and Lee.

In the line, Virginia will face Maryland with the same line-up that opposed V. M. I. here two weeks ago. Some shifts have been made in the back field, however. Maryland's showing against the Cadets was so much better than Virginia's that the Cavaliers fear a second upsetting in College Park.

Maryland Likely to Use Same Eleven Saturday

With the chances that Jack Norris, injured left end, may be able to play Saturday against Virginia in the game at College Park, University of Maryland may start the same eleven men in two contests in succession for the first time this season.

When Maryland started work for the campaign it had a veteran gridder for each position, but injuries continued to creep in until what was expected to be an all-senior combination now contains only six men who are playing their final year of football for the Old Liners and five sophomores.

Main casualties have been Charlie Dodson, veteran end who was changed into a clever half back, who is gone for the season; Bill Heintz, guard, hurt on October 5 against North Carolina, and who must be ready for the Yale game November 9, and the fleet little Augie Roberts, who has not been of much use on account of a bad leg. Others forced out because of injuries have been newcomers, with the benefit of the drilling, gain their jobs.

Maryland, despite the rain, had its second extended workout under floodlights this week. It was after 6:30 when the players left the field, giving the Old Liners nearly three-quarters of an hour longer to drill than previously had been the case, as the full squad is unable to get out until around 4:45.

Demands for tickets at College Park and at Spalding's indicate an overflow crowd on Byrd Stadium Saturday.

Marines and Coast Guard Form Grid "Melting Pot"

Cross Section of American Youth to Trot on Griffith Stadium Field Saturday in Annual President's Cup Game.

ACROSS section of the youth of America will trot on the field at Griffith Stadium, when the Marines and Coast Guard elevens battle for the President's Cup Saturday.

Both teams bear on their rosters players whose home States are as widely separated as Maine and Texas. Some of them hail from the level prairies of the Middle West; others claim Iowa or Michigan as their native States; still others come from States along the Eastern seaboard, while here and there on the two squads are players who write letters home to virtually every State of the Union.

A glimpse at the Marine Corps' list of players is typical of the roster of the Coast Guard's line-up. East and West may never meet literally, but they will come together after a fashion when the Bears and Leathernecks get together in the forthcoming game.

Most of Marines Ex-Stars Of High Schools.

Unlike most football players, who begin as freshmen in the expectation of finally winning their varsity letters, the Marine footballers, for the most part, gained their experience in the grid pastime in States far distant from Virginia.

Most of the Leatherneck squad learned the game while playing with high school elevens. A few first trotted on the gridiron when they played with Marine Corps post teams, and here and there is a man who left college before graduating to follow the fortunes of the soldiers of the sea.

These are the units who have been welded together by Coach Keady into his 1929 grid machine. For the last four years he has had the same experience season after season, but has achieved remarkable success. Up to the present season, while under Keady's regime, the Marines won 34, lost 7 and tied 2.

Few Veterans of Last Year On Hand Now.

Glancing down his line-up of players for 1929, the coach recognized a few veterans of last year. His backfield for the most part is about the same as that of 1928, except that Jimmy Levey and Alan Shapley, former stars, are gone.

Dave O'Neill, former player with the U. S. Naval Academy, a native of Alabama, is the Marine team captain, and will probably share the duty of calling signals with Dick (Bozo) Duncan, who hails from the Pine Tree State.

Other backfield luminaries are: Clyde Poppelman, who played for the Marines on the West Coast a year ago; Long, who gained most of his football experience with Abington (Pa.) High School, and Dashiell, a Texan, who played with Lon Morris Junior College at Jacksonville in his home State, and Truckenmiller, a husky from Iowa.

The back-field list also includes Carney, a former player on Marine post teams, who is a Virginian; Billingsley, who learned football at a Mississippi high school, and Fitzgerald, from Detroit, Mich., where he played with Cass Tech High School and later at the University of Michigan.

Beatty, Harrington Good On Ends of Line.

Among the wing men are Beatty and Harrington, both of whom relieved the regular ends, Phillips and Whitfield, last year. Beatty is a native of North Carolina, and played for a while with North Carolina State Harrington comes from the same State, but learned to play football with Newport News (Va.) High School.

Others who may see service at the starboard or port sides of the line are: Glick, a powerful lad from the State of Illinois, who won two gold medals for his athletic prowess at San Diego, Calif., this year. Shumway, a 200-pounder, who learned to play football at Stevens Point (Wis.) High School, has left the line for the back field.

Coach Keady has only one veteran left in his tackle department. He is Snively, a native of Oregon, who tips the Fairbanks at 203. Snively was one of the regulars last year and is a dependable line man.

Cummings, Big Tackle, Is Newcomer.

Cummings, a 6-footer from Oklahoma, joined the team this year as tackle, while Plain will see service in the same position. Plain hails from Cleveland, Ohio, and played the game with Ohio and Pennsylvania school teams before donning Marine Corps moleskins.

Two veteran guards are among the mainstays of the line. McDonald, a 185-pound husky, and native of Wisconsin, who once played with the freshmen team at the University of Iowa, will fill that position, while Porter, an American, who was born in the Philippines, is also a guard. The latter played for a while with Tech High at Atlanta, Ga. Jimmy Hughes, a Texan, who learned to play football with the Marines, completes the list in this department.

McWhinney, a center from Massachusetts, who played with Hyde Park High School, and Ayers, a full-blood Cherokee Indian from Oklahoma, are alternates for the pivot position. The latter played for a while with the freshmen team at Dartmouth. Jim Crowe, from the State of Illinois, is an all-round line man, and may take his place almost anywhere in the forward wall.

Liversedge and Bailey Aids To Coach Keady.

It is largely from among the abovenamed players that Coach Keady has mustered his shock troops for 1929. The New England grid mentor has had more than 25 years' experience as a player and coach, and his record with the Marines speaks for itself.

He has as his assistant H. B. Liversedge, a Californian, whose football experience dates back to fifteen years ago when he played with the University of California. Dick Duncan is serving in the dual capacity as signal caller and coach, while C. T. Bailey, the team manager, can also turn his hand at coaching. The latter played center for the University of Maryland several years ago, and subsequently has been active as player, manager and coach of Marines athletic teams.

Talbott Sportsmen Await Start of Duck Season

Easton, Md., Oct. 30.—Talbott sportsmen have been getting ready for the ducking season, which starts here on Friday. Blinds have been built all along the Choptank, Tred Avon, Miles River and on Broad, Harris, Leeds, Dividing and Bolingbrok Creeks.

Ducks are very plentiful in local waters, and the first day's sport is looked forward to with much enthusiasm.

A number of blinds have been erected for city sportsmen, the booking for these being heavy. There are more blinds ready now than ever before, both along the shores and out in the water. Some of them have been equipped for comfort and pleasure, with heat and other improvements.

Centre and Kentucky End Athletic Relations

Danville, Ky., Oct. 30 (A.P.).—Cancellation of all athletic contests between Centre College and the University of Kentucky was announced today by Charles J. Turck, president of Centre, who said the action was "by mutual consent."

ROUGH ROAD AHEAD FOR TARHEELS

4 Hard Games Follow Saturday's With Carolina State.

Special to The Washington Post.

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., Oct. 30.—The Tarheel Football Squad, having played just half of its ten-game schedule, now faces five more tough games with North Carolina and Southern Conference rivals.

Four of the five games figure in the Southern Conference race, in which the Tarheels have three victories out of four starts, and three of them bear on the final ranking for the State title, in which Carolina to date has a clean slate.

The first hurdle in the Tarheels' path is the Wolfpack, of North Carolina State, which is to invade Kenan Stadium here Saturday. Then comes South Carolina, Davidson, Virginia and Duke in succession.

Two of the five remaining games are carded for Kenan Memorial Stadium, one the annual Turkey Day classic with Virginia on November 28. South Carolina, Davidson and Duke will all be met away from home, on November 9, November 16 and December 7, respectively.

Success of Season Depends On Remaining Games.

The success of the season depends largely on these five games, and victories in all five would mean the State championship, a ranking in the first division of the Southern Conference, and maybe a conference title, since the Tarheels have dropped but one game and the titular chase is getting so generally mixed up. A whole lot hinges on what Tennessee will do from now on.

As midseason is passed, Carolina and North Carolina State both hold clean slates in Big Five tilts, both having won from Wake Forest. Duke has not begun her series with North Carolina opponents yet.

ALEXANDRIA SPORTS

Special to The Washington Post.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., Oct. 30.—The banner scholastic game of the season here, so far as local interest, will be played Friday afternoon at Baggett's Stadium between the football teams of the Alexandria High School and George ason High. The game will begin at 3:30 o'clock. Doc Dreifus, Tulane man and noted local athlete, has been agreed upon for umpire of the game.

Coach Reynolds, of Alexandria High, has secured the services of Mike Goldman, veteran line man at George Washington University, now playing with the St. Mary's Celtics, to assest in getting the Big Reds in shape for this game. Alexandria will rely on the aerial combination of Pete Williams to Jim Luckett, these two having figured largely in the attack of the Big Reds in all their games so far this year. Williams is a hard and accurate passer, and with Luckett to handle his passes, the combination has been one of the greatest ground gainers the team has had.

Prex Wilson, George Mason coach, is faced with the loss of Nixon, his star back field man, in this game. Nixon fractured a toe in the last game and will be on the side lines.

The Masonites, although outweighed, will make a strong bid for this game, and their wonderful fighting spirit, which has been in evidence in their former games, will prove a great help toward overcoming the handicap of superior weight. The students of the two schools will doubtless turn out in full force to support their teams.

The Seat Pleasant Firemen's Football Team will oppose the St. Mary's Celtics in next Sunday's game at Baggett's stadium, it was announced today by Director Charlie Corbett. The Seaman Gunners were scheduled for this date but on account of injuries to four of the players the game was canceled by the Gunners, who expect to come to Alexandria later in the season.

Players with the Seat Pleasant team, who are well known to Alexandria fans, are "Pepco" Barry, Jerry Augustine, his running mate; Johnny Miles and Charley Hanback and Bill Hensley.

The Virginia Athletic Club Football Team will engage in a strenuous campaign during November in an attempt to annex top honors in the northern Virginia football world. Manager Pat Gorman, of the Virginias, is listing a number of fast clubs for his warriors, the contests to be played on Shipyard Field here. The first of these will be the Bolling Field Aviators, who will come here next Sunday. The Virginias, it is understood, will engage the Quantico Marines, the Waverly A. C., and several other teams of note.

BAILEY WINS BERTH AT W. & L.

Work Against Tennessee Gives Rangy Tackle Job.

Special to The Washington Post.

LEXINGTON, Va., Oct. 30.—A third sophomore will crash the Washington and Lee line-up as a regular starter from now on, as a result of his showing against Tennessee in Roanoke last week, it is believed. Frank Bailey, rangy 190-pound tackle from Huntington, W. Va., and a graduate of Shenandoah Valley Academy, Winchester, is the lad in question, and, unless observers are badly crossed, he will face Virginia Tech at the kick-off this week in Lynchburg.

After playing a year on the freshman eleven, Bailey reported for varsity drills heavier than ever, but still working under the handicap of age and comparative inexperience. He has been understudy to the veteran Hostetter at one tackle post all season, and only the flip of a coin gave him his 60-minute chance against the Volunteers.

Capt. Bill Hawkins does all the kicking off for the Generals ordinarily, but he was unable to play in last week's battle due to a broken hand, and Seligman was shifted to his tackle and Mitchell, former full back, replaced Seligman at guard.

Toss of Coin Gives Bailey Chance.

Hostetter was slated to play his regular post on the other side of the line, but, when the toss of the coin resulted in Tennessee receiving the ball, Coach Eugene Oberst injected Bailey into the line-up as a starting tackle, with orders to kick-off, his 1928 yearling duty.

In on every play from the start, the blond sophomore fought an outstanding battle in the midst of a mediocre exhibition put up by the majority of his teammates. His bulk was somewhere in almost every play, regardless of what side of the line the run was on, and he pulled out and nabbed Hackman and Hydrick several times as they were circling ends. His speed in getting down under punts reminds fans of Capt. Hawkins, and the two should make a great combination going down with the ends.

Bailey's Toe Prominent In Vol Game.

When Faulkner was removed from the battle, Bailey got the assignment to punt, dropping back out of the line for this duty, and proving steady enough under fire to boot out some good distances, staving off Volunteer threats in the final quarter by his long kicks. With Bailey giving a repetition of his work Saturday, and Capt. Hawkins back at his post, the Gobblers will do well to try elsewhere than at the tackles in meeting the Generals.

Clemson and Kentucky Will Battle Saturday

Clemson College, Oct. 30.—Perched at the very top of the entire Nation's grid teams, Clemson's Tigers are putting in a hard week of practice for their battle with the University of Kentucky at Lexington Saturday. The Kentuckians, like Clemson, are undefeated this season and will likely give the Tigers their hardest test of the year thus far.

ROPER SAYS PLAYERS LOSE GRID CONTESTS

player would have been readily forgiven. It was humiliating enough to be accused as they were in the Daily Princetonian but the paper after all is a school publication and this scolding could have been accepted as a spat within the family.

But at Princeton, to be shamed before the sport writers from the New York papers, was something on the order of being bawled out in the presence of the servants. Inasmuch as no player socked him under these circumstances maybe he was right all along.

I realize, of course, that the kind of fight which Mr. Roper exhorted by this indirect appeal is a synthetic and limited rage. It springs from nothing, and the player is expected to keep it within certain bounds at all times, because if he lets himself go in a free, natural expression, kicking his opponents in the aseophagus, raking their features with his cleats and tweaking their feet from their legs with full abandon, his team is likely to be penalized, and if this happens he is held up to scorn and blame.

Rockne Blushed at Same Synthetic Rage.

Still, the composure of the Princeton players, their inability to grow hysterical at the word or so may be interpreted as a symptom of civilization and maturity. Mr. Knute Rockne, whose psychological experiments with his players are always governed by a sense of humor, once confessed that when the time came to go into his sermon between halves he was always afraid to meet the eyes of the seniors on the squad who had been listening to the same kind of oration every fall for three years and by now knew it to be no more legitimate than Billy Sunday's formulated devil baiting. After hearing the same thing several times an intelligent football player learns to yawn with his eyes.

I recall an appeal of this kind by Mr. C. C. Pyle, when he was operating a professional football team based on the Yankee Stadium. The game was going against Mr. Pyle's players, and in the 'tween time he pounded up and down the squad room, under the grandstand, waving his walking stick and shouting: "What the hell's the matter with you men? Now, next half, I want you to go in there and fight. Do you get that? Fight!"

His athletes were sprawled on the floor smoking cigarettes. Mr. Ralph Scott, late all-American, turned to one of the other players.

"In case I forget," said he, "remind me to fight for Dear Old Charlie."

Many Big Games This Week Listed by Dixie Gridders

Tulane Hopeful of Beating Weakened Georgia Team Tomorrow; Georgia Tech Entertains Notre Dame Saturday.

By EDDIE BRIETZ,
(Associated Press Sports Writer.)

TULANE'S hopes of going through the Dixie football season undefeated, mounted yesterday with reports from the Georgia training camp at Athens that the Bulldogs are in their poorest shape of the year for Friday's important battle at Columbus.

The Georgians have looked anything but good in their drills this week and Coach Harry Mehre doesn't know what will happen if they don't snap out of it and get down to business.

Meanwhile, from New Orleans comes the tidings that Coach Bernie Bierman has his big Green Wave in tip top fettle and ready to give Georgia a dose of the same medicine it treated the skidding Georgia Tech Team to last week.

Hectic preparations are under way at Clemson College where Coach Josh Cody is drilling his Bengals for their meeting with the Kentucky Wildcats at Lexington Saturday.

Full Clemson Strength in Kentucky Game.

Like Tulane, the Clemson team is entirely free of injuries and will be at full strength against the Kentuckians, who are taking Saturday's clash more seriously than any game they have played so far.

Kentucky is rated one of the most dangerous teams in the conference, but injuries are going to handicap Coach Harry Gammage in the Gleason tilt, and the South Carolinians are confidently expecting to sneak over a victory. So determined is Knute Rockne, head coach of Notre Dame, to get even for last year's defeat that he is sending 84 players to Atlanta for the game with Georgia Tech.

Rockne won't make the trip himself, but he is seeing to it that Tom Lieb, his first lieutenant, will not lack for reserve strength. The Tech regulars are in good trim, and Coach Bill Alexander will use everything he has in an effort to stop the Westerners.

Belief grows around Nashville that Col. Dan McGugin's Commodores, who have shown better in every game, are primed to stay in the running by licking Alabama, but to offset this is gossip from Tuscaloosa that Alabama will be stronger against the Commodores than at any time this season.

Florida Reaches Cambridge For Harvard Tilt.

The Florida team, fired with a new spirit as the result of a smashing victory over Georgia last week, reaches Cambridge today for a couple of workouts before meeting Harvard.

Other Southern teams prepping for engagements in the East this week are Duke, which plays Boston College; Oglethorpe, which takes on Villanova, and Hampden-Sidney, which faces Colgate.

Auburn, under a new coach, is going about its rehearsals for Tennessee with a brand-new spirit.

The rest of the conference slate does not offer much excitement. North Carolina and North Carolina State play at Chapel Hill, while Virginia meets Maryland at College Park Sewanee will be entertained by the University of Mississippi and Washington and Lee, and Virginia Poly at Blacksburg.

Mississippi, A & M. Louisiana State and Virginia Military play outsiders. The week's program gets under way today with South Carolina tangling with the Citadel at Orangeburg.

Easton Soccer Team Routs Oxford, 13 to 1

Special to The Washington Post.

Easton, Md., Oct. 30.—Easton High had little trouble in winning from Oxford here today in the county school soccer league score 13 to 1. Meintzer, for Easton, scored four goals from the field and one from penalty in the first half.

In the second period, Meintzer again scored a goal from field and so did Matthews. Haddaway kicked a penalty goal for Oxford's only count. Easton has only been scored on twice since the season started and has not been defeated.

Line-up and score follows:

Easton.	Position.	Oxford.
Bell	Goal	Croswell
Coleman	L. B.	Smith
Parris	R. B.	Abbott
E. Burkhardt	L. H.	Griffin
Hubbard	R. H.	Sparklin
G. Burkhardt	Center	Roth
Covey	O. R.	Stewart
Hill	I. R.	Balderson
Matthews	C. F.	Haddaway
Stafford	O. L.	Cox
Meintzer	I. L.	Myers

W. & M. Frosh Hosts To Emerson Eleven

Special to The Washington Post.

Williamsburg, Va., Oct. 30.—William and Mary's freshman football team will play host to Emerson Institute, of Washington, Friday. The Indian frosh have victories over Washington and Lee freshmen and the Newport News Apprentice School to their credit; but lost to V. P. I. freshmen at Blacksburg last Saturday 40-13. They will be attempting to get back into the winning column Friday at the expense of the team from the National Capital.

Coach "Cy" Young is not expecting an easy game, as Emerson is known to have a fast eleven. He has been working hard all week correcting the errors shown in the game at V. P. I. Walker, a former Devitt Prep player, who has been playing a regular guard position, will probably start Friday. Clark, a George Mason High School product, and Halligan, who played at Clifton Forge High, are expected to hold down the wing positions.

Two Games Next Week For West Va. Eleven

Special to The Washington Post.

Morgantown, W. Va., Oct. 30.—The West Virginia University Football Team is faced by two hard assignments in the space of five days next week when the undefeated Fordham and Detroit elevens are to be encountered on Tuesday at New York City and on Saturday at Morgantown.

Coach Rodgers sent his proteges through a light workout Monday afternoon on Mountaineer Field despite the fact that the squad had just completed a 1350-mile jaunt from Stillwater, Okla., that same morning. Tuesday and Wednesday found the Mountaineers scrimmaging and part of the time was devoted to perfecting a defense against the famed Cavanaugh aerial attack, which has been largely responsible for the fine record of the Fordham Team.

The West Virginia line-up was again juggled about and it is evident that the fight for the tackle positions, the right guard, full back, and right half back posts is still just as keen as ever.

ON VIRGINIA GRIDIRONS

(By the Associated Press.)

McCRAY, the Cadet kicker who on his best form can hold his own with the best in the South pulled a trick on the Old Liners Saturday by a plunge through the line instead of a boot after V. M. I.'s single touchdown. The successful plunge was the Virginia team's margin over the Marylanders.

Virginia's game with St. John's showed that the Cavaliers have two fine understudies in Fenton Gentry and John Wylly. Gentry, who comes from St. Petersburg, Fla., weighs 182 pounds, just 3 pounds under George Taylor, the veteran pivot man. But Wylly, whose home is in Savannah, Ga., is one of the lightest men on the squad. He scales only 155.

Despite North Carolina's victory by the overhead route, V. P. I. last Saturday gained 199 yards on passes. Both the Gobbler touchdowns were scored on a series of flips from Hooper to McEver, Pattie and Capt. Nutter in the first instance and Hooper to Rule and Rice in the second. In all, the Techmen tried 32 passes, completing 10. Five of the others were intercepted and seventeen grounded.

Virginia supporters are wondering just what Coach Byrd, of Maryland, thinks of the Cavaliers this week. The day before the Old Liners played in Richmond, Coach Byrd wrote in a Washington paper, "Last week V. M. I. gave Virginia a real walloping and actually seemed more superior to the Cavaliers than the score of three touchdowns to one indicated." Before the game the Maryland mentor said his charges would meet "the strongest eleven that has ever represented V. M. I." Last Saturday, in the Richmond Stadium, the Old Liners showed that they lacked little, if any, of the strength of the Cadets. What some folk in Charlottesville want to know is just how many touchdowns better than Virginia does Coach Byrd think his team will be next Saturday.

Say what you will about Coach Charlie Bernier's little Hampden-Sidney Team, it will tackle anything and everybody with a spirit that defies defeat. Although engaged in a contest to stand high in the Virginia Conference, the roaring Tigers go this week-end to Hamilton, N. Y., to meet Colgate, where a number of all-American players, including Coach Earl Abel, of Virginia, have been produced. A fortnight ago, the Jungleers tried their claws on a great Cornell eleven.

Leonard Hall Soccer Team Wins 4th in Row

Special to The Washington Post.

Leonardtown, Md., Oct. 20.—Leonard Hall's Soccer Team, unbeaten in the county so far, played River Spring's High School Soccer Ball Team today and won, 6-0. It was the fourth game it had played since opening its schedule and victories have been registered over Mechanicsville High, Stuart High in Washington, and River Springs twice, including today's game.

Leonard Hall boasts good team work, and, with some seasoned players like Reid King, who today made two field goals, and Vincent Foresta, who was captain of the Park View Grammar School, of Washington last year, show great promise. The Rev. Brother Theophane is coach.

V. P. I. COACH IS SEEKING PUNCH

More Driving Power Needed for Game With Generals.

Special to The Washington Post.

BLACKSBURG, W. Va., Oct. 30.—Storm signals today floated high over Miles Stadium at V. P. I. where the Gobbler eleven is paying for the second quarter debacle at North Carolina while training for Washington and Lee at Lynchburg Saturday.

Coach Andy Gustafson has dubbed the once famous pony express, "the back field without a drive." But the Poly coach does not mean to have the Poly backs deserve such a title long. The line men too, found what it means to buck the heaving, charging dummy time after time and then fight through 50 minutes of scrimmage with hardly a halt. That the Gobblers were masters of the Tarheels during the first quarter and then came back to outscore them in the final half is but added incentive to a rough and stormy week. Gustafson means to send out on the field against Washington and Lee a team which will stick to its guns the full 60 minutes and expects to find such a team in scrimmages.

No time was lost today, for Gustafson opened the drive with a hard, driving scrimmage and has promised an even longer one for Thursday. All players save Capt. Nutter, Hooper and Brown, are in first-class condition.

Warner System Has Added Power.

The Warner system, which after all is about as tricky and thrilling as anything the gridiron game can offer, has brought power to the Gobbler attack. Despite a light array of grid material ever since Gustafson took the reins, the Gobblers seldom fail to set off lots of fireworks and have failed to score in but 3 out of 32 contests.

The team this year is only a fair defensive team, but is showing the same old punch in the running game. Phil Spear and company, led by Capt. Broderick Nutter at left end, and V. P. I.'s cadet corps to cheer them on, should be at their best in Lynchburg. They will be fighting to uphold past tradition and make new history in a long-time classic of the South.

Adkins Lands Berth In Duke Front Line

Special to The Washington Post.

Durham, N. C., Oct. 30.—The Duke Blue Devils are working hard with the hope of winning their Southern games, starting with Louisiana State University in the new stadium a week from Saturday.

In the last week another Durham boy has come into his own. He is Emory Adkins, who starred at center against Villanova. Adkins and Nick Warren are regarded as fixtures in the important games to come.

The "arrival" of Adkins has relieved the coaches of some of their worry in trying to develop strong line replacements. Adkins, by his performance of Saturday, now ranks as a first-string man and is pretty certain to be a starter in the remaining games. But whether at center or another line position has not been determined.

But Adkins' great showing may cause the coaches to make a cut in the center squad and move Charley Rupp to tackle or guard.

At present Rupp, Adkins and Friedman are battling for the center job and only one man can play it at a time. The coaches are reluctant to have either Rupp or Adkins on the bench.

PRACTICE FOR JANNEYS.

Janney A. C., which plays Brentwook Hawks Sunday at Friendship Field, will practice tomorrow night starting at 7 o'clock on the gridiron at Nebraska and Wisconsin avenues.

"It's the right shoe for men of the younger set"

. . . the Style Experts declared as they chose Bostonians' Selected Style No. 3.

AND they certainly knew what they were talking about. Look at it. Hasn't it snap and ginger? And an irrepressible spirit of youth?

Just the shoe for the young fellow who's feeling his oats—and wanting his clothes to reflect his joy of living.

A husky sole and a broad-beamed toe to give it a swagger ruggedness. Glistening leather to give it sparkle. All in all, it's a wonderful shoe that is right in style, right in fit and more than right in its uncommonly modest price of $7.

If you like a sixty mile pace—and like style assurance that leaves no doubt—then by all means come see this smart shoe for yourself.

including $1,734,000 double indemnity for accidental deaths, was paid to the beneficiaries of 10,997 deceased policy holders. Included within these totals were also dividend payments amounting to over $49,000,000.

The death loss payments in this period included $2,505,902 paid or credited to the beneficiaries of 549 policy holders who died in the first year of insurance. In the same nine months the company had to decline 17,595 cases for more than $72,000,000 insurance on the lives of persons who were not insurable.

Requests Are Made.

Cooperating with the annual roll call of the American Red Cross, President Wilmer J. Waller, of the District of Columbia Bankers Association, has made the following request of member banks, announced in the latest interesting issue of the Bulletin, association publication, edited by Aubrey O. Dooley, Federal-American National Bank.

That each bank distribute, with its monthly statements for October, copies of the printed information leaflets or appeal for membership; that a woman worker be permitted to have a table in the bank lobby and enroll members or take subscriptions, and that, in case there is a shortage of volunteer Red Cross workers for this purpose, the bank designate some one to receive subscriptions for them.

The estimated total output of bituminous coal in the United States during the week ended October 26, computed by the National Coal Association from preliminary car loading reports, was 11,500,000 net tons.

Previous Weeks Higher.

Coal production for the weeks ended October 12 and October 19, as reported by the United States Bureau of Mines, was 11,574,000 net tons and 11,158,000 net tons, respectively.

Any man in any one of 26 States if he has a home and a reasonable record for character and industry, can borrow, without cosigners, the sum of $300 in time of crisis, thanks to the work of the Russel Sage Foundation, according to Leslie C. Harbison, president of Household Finance Corporation.

"In 26 States the loan shark is whipped," said Harbison, "and small sums can be borrowed at a legal rate of interest or less. Household Finance has such faith in the honesty and integrity of the workingman of America that it now has on loan more than $30,000,000 in sums up to $300."

NEWS OF LATEST HAPPENINGS IN MARYLAND AND VIRGINIA

ARLINGTON SEEKS PARK MEETING DATE

Byrd to Be Asked to Call Conference Latter Part of November.

TANKS PERMIT ALLOWED

ARLINGTON COUNTY,
BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Following the announcement made by Gov. Harry F. Byrd at the quarterly meeting of the Arlington County Chamber of Commerce last Saturday night at the Washington-Lee High School, that he would gladly call a conference in his office at Richmond with the members of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission, the Virginia Park and Planning Commission and the county board of supervisors to make a study of the needs of Arlington County in conforming with the plans for the development of the metropolitan area, of which the county is a part, the county board of supervisors at its meeting yesterday, at the request of Ashton C. Jones, instructed the clerk to write the governor and ask that the conference be set for the latter part of November, the governor to set the exact date to meet with his convenience.

The Arlington County Zoning Commission, having unanimously approved the application of the National Oil Co., of Richmond, for a permit to erect storage gasoline tanks on the property of the N. Auth Provision Co. on Columbia pike, the county supervisors took like action and the permit was granted. Col. Charles T. Jesse, counsel for the company, appeared before the board.

Approval was given to the recommendation of County Engineer C. L. Kinnier that the board approve the recommendation of the zoning commission on the application of J. C. Boss for a permit to erect a theater in Cherrydale.

The county clerk was instructed to write to officials of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. asking that the wire along Mount Vernon avenue between Frazier avenue and Columbia pike be placed underground.

The Commonwealth's attorney was instructed to draw an ordinance prohibiting the keeping of hogs or dog kennels in Arlington County. This action was in accordance with a request received from the Leeway Citizens Association.

Efforts on the part of Supervisor E. C. Turnburke to have the board reconsider its action regarding the cutting of the salary of William Miller in the county engineer's office, to the extent of $800 a year, failed.

A contract for the installation of an oil burning heating system in the Clarendon Health Center was awarded to William E. Wolff, of Clarendon. The accepted bid was $855.

The board will hold its next meeting Thursday, November 14.

The Arlington Rotary Club will hold its weekly luncheon meeting today at the Washington Golf and Country Club with Dr. R. N. Sutton presiding.

The Cherrydale Fire Department and the Ladies Auxiliary announce their annual Halloween carnival and dance for tonight in the auditorium of the Firemen's Hall. The proceeds go to the fund now being raised to clear the mortgage on the building.

Speaking at the Democratic rally held in the Old Columbia Pike schoolhouse last night, County Commissioner of Revenue Harry K. Green declared that Hugh Reid, Democratic candidate for reelection to the House of Delegates, was one of the outstanding members of the General Assembly of Virginia. He stated that Reid had nothing to do with the defeat of the enabling act. When Reid went to the General Assembly, the annexation proceedings on the part of Alexandria had been instituted and his hands were tied, the speaker said. Reid did do a splendid work, said Green, when, as chairman of the subcommittee, he defeated a bill designed to allow the city to annex a county without paying for improvements, such as schools and roads. Had the bill passed, Arlington County would have lost $500,000, which Alexandria City now must pay the county before next July, the speaker said.

Speaking of the so called machine, Green said: "It is the same political cry, used in every campaign where the candidates on the outside have nothing to offer, and wish to inflame the minds of the voters. If the present administration in Virginia can be called a machine, then it is grinding exceedingly fine for Arlington County. This year Arlington County will receive more than $300,000 from the State treasury for our roads and schools, and if it be a machine which is grinding out these handsome revenues for our roads, we had better let it keep on grinding."

Commissioner Green explained that the so-called short ballot was nothing more than an experiment to ascertain if the governor's cabinet can be selected with the same degree of success as the President's Cabinet. It only affects three officers, and Dr. Brown himself voted for the short ballot, which he now denounces before it has ever been put into effect, the speaker declared.

"The claim that the short ballot gives the governor power to appoint hundreds of officers is absurd and ridiculous," he continued. "In the 42,000 officers referred to as appointive, we find school teachers, notary publics, election officers and numerous others over which the governor has no jurisdiction. Everybody knows that school teachers are appointed by the county school boards, and if it is necessary to appoint 100,000 to properly educate the children of Virginia, I hope the appointments will be made. Notary publics must pay a fee of $5 to the State for the privilege of serving. Election officers must be appointed by our electoral boards, if we are to hold elections, and these officers work from sun to sun with less than the pay of a day laborer.

"The only issue in this campaign is the progress of Virginia. The question is do we want to experiment with inexperienced hands, tie up the wheels of progress, jeopardize our schools, and tamper with a State government that has proven a success from every angle." Commonwealth's Attorney William C. Gloth presided.

In a letter from Louis A. McMahon, Republican nominee to the House of Delegates from Arlington County, to the Arlington County Civic Federation in answer to a question as to his position on the recent resolution passed by the federation favoring legislation for the recall of members of the board of supervisors and other officials and the calling a special election to fill any vacancy, McMahon replied as follows:

"I can not at this time commit myself in favor of the enactment of a law providing for recall. An amendment to the State constitution would be necessary, which would require six years. A recall amendment submitted to the people all over the State would meet with defeat through the efforts of the elective officers in the 100 counties and 21 cities. I strongly doubt that two different sessions of the General Assembly would vote to submit the amendment to the people except in response to a State-wide demand for it. The history of the recall in Oklahoma, Washington and Wisconsin shows that it has been violently abused through the exercise of bitter partisanship. Adoption of the recall, thus making the tenure of office uncertain and subject to the whim and caprice of unscrupulous politicians, would deter worthwhile men from declaring themselves for office, thereby leaving the field to second rate men, accustomed to being 'fired on short notice.'"

Continuing, MacMahon declares he is 100 per cent for holding all elective officers to strict accountability for what they do or fail to do for the preservation and furtherance of the interest of the taxpayer. The best way to bring this about, he states, is to amend the code of Virginia so as to shorten the term of office from four to two years.

"If I am elected I will, with the cooperation of Senator Frank L. Ball, and on the basis of a petition signed by a suitable number of qualified voters in Arlington County, work for the enactment of such a law," he said.

According to Miss Gertrude Crocker, corresponding secretary of the Arlington County Civic Federation, who gave out the letter, a copy of the resolution has also been sent to Hugh Reid, the Democratic candidate for the House of Delegates, but thus far no reply has been received from him.

Dr. William Moseley Brown, coalition candidate for governor, speaks at the Republican mass meeting to be held tomorrow night in the Washington and Lee High School at 8 o'clock. Preceding the meeting there will be a parade over the entire county headed by a band of 40 pieces.

The arrangements provide for the parade to start from the town of Potomac at 7:30 o'clock, passing over Mount Vernon avenue to Columbia pike, thence to Arlington over Virginia avenue to Wilson boulevard at Clarendon.

At 6 o'clock in the evening the Woman's Brown-for-Governor Club announce a dinner at the Boulevard Bakery at Clarendon. From the dinner those attending will go to the high school in a body.

According to officials of the Arlington County Electoral Board, today will be the last opportunity that voters will have to apply to the registrars for ballots under the absentee voters law.

Suits for divorce were filed in the county clerk's office yesterday by Lelia Mae Lawler against Harold K. Lawler; Ouner L. Johnson against Cornelius Johnson; May Hills against John Hills, and by Frances H. Jarauske against Sidney Jarauske.

There will be a special meeting of the trustees of the Clarendon Fire Department tomorrow night at the Firemen's Hall at 8 o'clock.

The Arlington County Monarch Club holds its weekly luncheon meeting today in the Boulevard Bakery at 12 o'clock. Walter U. Varney will preside.

The Arlington Fire Department and Ladies' Auxiliary will hold their annual Halloween dance in the old Columbia pike schoolhouse tonight at 8 o'clock.

Virginia Chamber To Get Tax Report

Review of Situation Is Drawn by Committee for Discussion.

Special to The Washington Post.

Richmond, Va., Oct. 30.—A review of the present tax situation in Virginia is the subject of a report which the committee on taxation of the Virginia Chamber of Commerce will consider in Richmond on November 7. The report is the work of a subcommittee, of which Dr. Robert H. Tucker, chairman of the main committee, is also chairman.

At the same time the committee will consider publication of a tax manual of Virginia which has been prepared by the State chamber and which it is planned to publish. The manual has just been revised and sent to Dr. Tucker by J. Vaughan Gary, of Richmond, who is counsel of the committee.

Members of the tax committee who today were notified that a meeting is to be held to consider these reports, are John Steward Bryan, of Richmond, Richard Crane, of Westover; James R. Gillan, jr., of Lynchburg, and Thomas J. Hundley, of Newport News.

Wounded Man Brought Here for Treatment

Arthur Collins, colored, 43 years old, of Merrifield, Va., was in a serious condition at Freedmen's Hospital last night with blood poisoning in his left leg resulting from unattended gunshot wounds received Saturday at his home in Merrifield. He was brought here yesterday by Dr. Edward F. Morton of that town.

Lula Cook, colored, 44 years old, also of Merrifield, was arrested by Eighth Precinct Policeman D. A. Davis at the request of Fairfax County authorities, who returned the woman to Merrifield on charges of shooting Collins. The wounded man claimed he was shot accidentally.

SUED BY HIS WIFE, PASTOR QUITS JOB

Reformed Church Dissolves Relations at Request of Accused Man.

PRAISE GIVEN FOR WORK

Special to The Washington Post.

Frederick, Md., Oct. 30.—Pastoral relations of the Rev. Dr. P. E. Heimer, for 16 years pastor of the Thurmont Charge of the Reformed Church, embracing four congregations, were dissolved at the semiannual meeting of the Maryland Classis of the Reformed Church at an all-day session in Trinity Chapel, here.

Dr. Heimer resigned from the charge about two or three weeks ago following a suit filed in the circuit court by Mrs. Heimer for separate maintenance and alimony. Mrs. Heimer alleged cruelty which impaired her health. Dr. Heimer denied the charge and claimed that his wife's attitude toward the church handicapped his work as a minister of the gospel and that he has shown a generous and forgiving attitude in the face of evidences of infidelity and a hostile attitude toward him for many years.

Dr. Heimer Is Praised.

Dr. Heimer presented his resignation and asked that his pastoral duties be dissolved. It was referred to a committee composed of the Rev. John N. Garner, of Westminster; the Rev. Charles B. Robert, of Near Westminster, and Elder A. Leroy McCardell, of this city. A committee, composed of the Rev. E. Lewis Higbee, of Emmitsburg; the Rev. Guy P. Bready, of Taneytown, and Elder Charles Wastler, was appointed to fill the place of Dr. Heimer until his successor is elected.

Accepting the resignation and dissolving the pastorate the classis adopted a resolution setting forth in part, "Inasmuch as Dr. Heimer has served with marked faithfulness as a minister of the Reformed Church and has lived an exemplary Christian life, he has proved himself worthy of our confidence."

Dr. Joseph H. Apple, president, in an address pointed out the needs of Hood College. A resolution was adopted to cooperate in the campaign to increase the endowment fund next spring. Resolutions also were adopted to appropriate $4,000 for an additional room at the Hoffman Orphanage, near Littlestown, Pa.; and favoring the establishment of an old folks home in the territory embraced in the classis, Frederick, Washington and Carroll Counties.

Church Report Adopted.

Dr. Conrad Clever, of Hagerstown, deplored the lack of increase in membership of the church. He referred to changing conditions affecting the church and added that the reformed church "must wake up or it will die." He urged an awakening in the general work and activity of the church. Licentiate Leslie R. Savocoal, of Graceham, Md., was received into the classis and ministry.

The Rev. John S. Adam, pastor of the Middletown Church and president of the classis, who presided, presented to report of the church missionary and stewardship committee, which was adopted.

It provided for a change in the fiscal year of the church from May to January and urged greater obedience to the laws of the church, urged payment of apportionments in full, greater loyalty to the reformed church, teaching of a more thorough knowledge of the church, need of organized effort and the every member canvass to begin November 17; importance of spiritual retreats to be held at the time of the fall meeting of classis; desirability of consistorial conferences, and the teaching of Christian stewardship, as advocated by the General Synod in preparation for stewardship year.

Virginia Society Elects T. S. Settle as Leader

Thomas Slator Settle was elected president of the Virginia Society, to succeed Representative Joseph T. Dale, at a meeting last night in the Willard Hotel.

Other officers elected are Reprentative Patrick Henry Drewry, vice president; Fielding M. Lewis, second vice president; E. M. Blackwell, third vice president; Fred P. Myers, treasurer, and Frances Carter Linfoot, secretary. These officers, together with the following, were chosen as the executive committee: Henry Taylor Miller, J. Cloyd Byers, Miss Elsie Harman, Mrs. Lena Mary MacDonald and Miss Mary N. McCabe.

Fireman Sentenced For Starting Fires

Chestertown, Md., Oct. 30.—Charles Tibbett, 30-year-old member of the Millington Volunteer Fire Company, was sentenced today to serve three years in the Maryland House of Correction after having been found guilty by a jury in Kent County Circuit Court on a charge of setting fire to a building in that town several months ago.

Sentence was suspended on two other charges of incendiarism. When arrested Tibbett said he liked to see the fire engines in action and hear the fire bells ringing. He was recently found sane by State experts.

Lutherans Begin Synod Conference

Clergymen and Laymen Gather for Parley at Winchester.

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., Oct. 30.—Clergymen and laymen from many sections of the Valley of Virginia and nearby portions of West Virginia were in attendance today at the annual meeting of Winchester conference of the Lutheran Synod of Virginia in Holy Trinity Church, Stephans City, of which the Rev. Snyder Alleman is pastor.

The opening sermon was preached today by the Rev. P. F. Shealy, president of the conference. Communion services were conducted by the Rev. W. C. Huddle, conference secretary. Stewardship in the local church and synod was discussed by Harry L. Snyder and E. F. Keister, laymen, and the Rev. Walter V. Simon and the Rev. R. Homer Anderson, superintendent of the synod, followed by a general discussion. Problems of rural churches were presented by the Rev. George A. Stoudemayer.

The sermon tonight was by the Rev. C. K. Rhodes, with vesper services by the Rev. Walter V. Simon. "Evangelical Evangelism" and "The Catechism" are to be outstanding subjects of discussion at the concluding sessions tomorrow, speakers being the Revs. C. J. Rice, Snyder Alleman, Homer Anderson and J. P. Derrick, with morning sermon by the Rev. R. S. Poffanberger.

U. OF V. DORMITORY NAMED FOR TUCKER

WAS STUDENT FAVORITE

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., Oct. 30.—One of the eight new dormitories recently erected at the University of Virginia has been named in honor of Dr. George Tucker, one of the little original group of professors at the university and first chairman of the faculty.

When Dr. Tucker was called by the board of visitors to the chair of ethics in 1825 by recommendation of Jefferson and Madison, he was already an eminent and widely known citizen of Virginia. He came to America in 1795 at the age of 20, and after spending three years at William and Mary College, became a member of the Richmond bar, and was soon a close and intimate friend of such lawyers as John Marshall, William Wirt and John Wickham.

While a resident of Lynchburg he was elected to Congress, and a volume of essays during his second term in that body was directly responsible for his being called to the chair of ethics in the newly formed university. He was at once selected first chairman of the faculty, and in that capacity took a leading part in building up the university from a mere ideal to a growing and flourishing reality.

Solving many serious problems in the government of the students with commendable sympathy and moderation, Dr. Tucker was the most popular professor in college. He resigned from his post at the age of 70 but during the remaining years of his life never failed to interest himself in the welfare and betterement of the university.

As lawyer, representative, professor and literateur, Dr. Tucker exhibited talents and accomplishments of a high order, and in private life was much loved for his charm of manner and genial, winning traits.

Agreement Ends Chimpanzee Suit

Exhibitor of "Freckles" to Buy Him From Owner of Zeppelin "Susie."

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., Oct. 30.—"Freckles," trained chimpanzee, a subject of litigation for five weeks between John Lucadema, of Newark, N. J., its owner, and Charles Rowe, trainer, who leased the animal for exhibition purposes, was brought here yesterday from Fredericksburg by Sheriff C. A. Carner.

The case was set for trial yesterday in circuit court, but after opening statements by counsel, a tentative agreement was reached whereby Rowe is to purchase the chimpanzee from Lucadema. Late today Rowe was completing arrangements to buy the animal from the Jersey Pet Stock Co., of Newark, of which Lucadema is president.

The New Jersey man is also the owner of Susie, only female gorilla in the United States, and which became famous as a hardened veteran of two flights in the Graf Zeppelin Lucadema, who has been in the animal business for 20 years, is said to have paid $5,000 for Susie as well as $2,000 for her passage on the flight across the Atlantic.

PARKING SPACE HELD NEED AT MT. VERNON

Fairfax Committee Planning Joint Parley of Officials at Estate's Gate.

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
Phone Vienna 64.
Postoffice Box 245.

The committee of the Fairfax County Chamber of Commerce recently appointed to investigate the plans of the Federal Government concerning the entrance to the Mount Vernon estate, met Tuesday night in executive session in the chamber's office at Fairfax. George F. Harrison, of Herndon, was selected chairman.

The members of the committee, familiar with the Federal Government's plan to develop a large plaza and parking place at that end of the George Washington Memorial highway, have examined the plans of the proposed development in the office of the United States Bureau of Public Roads, and have said there should be at least ten acres set aside and developed for parking the machines of the thousands of tourists who visit Mt. Vernon every day. The committee feels that the plans for the comfort and convenience for the visitors are inadequate and that the park should be made large enough to take care of all their needs. Under the present conditions it is almost impossible to park a car within 500 yards of the entrance gate on an average day, it is claimed.

George Harrison and E. C. Gibbs were appointed a subcommittee to lay this matter before the Fairfax County board of supervisors at their meeting next week to invite the supervisors to attend a conference of Col. U. S. Grant and St. John Wilson, as representatives of the Federal Government, and the committee on the site of the proposed park. Gov. Harry F. Byrd as a member of the board of visitors of the Mount Vernon Association, H. G. Shirley, chairman of the State highway commission, and S. W. Bragg, chairman of the Virginia Park and Planning Commission, also will be invited to attend.

The girls of the Annandale 4-H Club held a kitchen shower yesterday morning. Each girl of the club brought a useful article utensil for the club's kitchen. This shower was a surprise party to Miss Sara F. Thomas, county home demonstration agent and 4-H Club leader. An entertainment was given by the girls, and refreshments were served.

At a meeting of the school board of Fairfax and the faculty of the Fairfax school, the resignation of Miss Mary B. Gwyn was accepted as teacher in the Fairfax school, ending a controversy.

The Vienna Parent-Teacher Association held its meeting yesterday afternoon in the Vienna school. Mrs. William Bennett was elected president for the ensuing year; Frank Fouche, vice president; Mrs. G. F. Winslow, secretary, and Mrs. H. U. Burke, treasurer. Delegates were selected to attend the Parent-Teacher conference of the Eighth Congressional District, to be held in the Morris School in Alexandria Saturday. Miss L. B. Ferguson, principal of the Vienna school, will represent the association at the State convention of the Parent-Teacher Association, to be held in Richmond November 27, 28 and 29. F. A. Wilcox was selected to make a poster to be placed in an exhibition at the convention.

Miss Ferguson called attention to the condition of wells at the school, saying that they are inadequate to supply the needs of the school. This matter will be taken up with the county school board Monday.

The Fairfax Chapter, Daughters of America, are presenting American flags and Bibles to the Burke, Herndon, Jefferson, Oakton, Rockhill and Vaile schools in this county. The flag committee is making arrangements for presentation ceremonies during the next month. The members of this committee are Mrs. May Lane, of Vienna, chairman; Mrs. Margaret Grubb, of McLean, and Miss Leola Fritter, of Ballston.

The chapter will give a Haloween party tonight in Robey Hall in Fairfax.

The Fairfax School and Community League at Fairfax Station is planning to improve the school grounds and to install regular playground equipment. The men are planning to install the playground equipment Saturday afternoon.

The McLean School has purchased a mimeograph machine, which will aid in the printing of the school paper as well as assisting in various phases of school work. On November 9 the school plans to give a dinner and dance to raise money to pay for the machine. It will be served in the school from 6 to 8 o'clock. Miss Ealine Follin is chairman.

The committees in charge of the social have been named as follows:

Decorations—Frances Booth, Jane Smoot, Leslie Lanham, Clayton Pierpont and Virginia Blue. Food—Jennie Tomko, Louisa Arnold, Louise Voight, Elizabeth Wren and Everett Revercomb. Tables—Mary Leigh, Bertha Hibbs, Helen Dawney, Emma Brian, Thomas Bern and Leo Miller. Dish and waitress—Louise Millard, Ruby Dunkum, Katherine Lackwood, Eileen Henderson, Mildred Logan, Emma David and Albert Fallin. Entertainment—Faculty, Helen Downey, Margaret Scrivener, George Coenwell and Glen Cox.

Miss Thomas, who conducts the 4-H and Home Demonstration Clubs, announces that the Virginia Public Service Co. has agreed to install twelve electric ranges in the schools of the county where cooking classes are being held. These schools are the ones at Annandale, Colvin Run, Fairfax, Lee Jackson, Lincolnia, McLean, Herndon, Oakton, Lorton and Vienna. Separate meters will be installed for the stoves so that the current used will not be added to the light bills, which are paid by the county school board. These stoves are donated by the electric company free of charge.

The company has arranged to have Mrs. Kate Fewell, the company's home economist, assist Miss Thomas in all the schools in the county where electric ranges have been installed. Two electrical prizes will be given to the 4-H Club members who have outstanding records.

The George A. Simons Co., of Washington, is binding all of the Fairfax court records. These records date back to 1742, and this is the first time they have been rebound since they were written.

It would cost you more than $1,500 to send a letter to each person who buys The Washington Post every day. To reach them with a large sized ad in this newspaper would cost you only a fraction of a cent per person.

Daily O'Currences

By JOHN DALY

LUELLA, like so many others, has been following the stock market's gyrations. With the family jewels in pawn she is figuring on a way to recoup.

"There ought to be some good bargains in the stock market today," she said, glancing over the form sheets.

"Yes," I told her, "and there will also be some fine prospects at Pimlico tomorrow, the big day—the opening session of the races."

Luella recalled certain unpleasant experiences she had at Laurel.

"You don't think I'd play the ponies, do you?" she asked, a look of reproach in her eyes.

"Why," she murmured, astonished at the question, "that's sheer gambling."

• • • •

"SHEER gambling. The races. Think of that. I had always heard it called the Sport of Kings."

"Oh, no," she said, setting me right; "the Sport of Kings is cards—Poker and bridge—really the sport of Kings, Queens, Jacks and Aces."

Luella has a strange slant on life.

"And the stock market," I mused, "That is an investment mart, eh?—a place where you go to get securities for future profits. Is that it?"

She smiled, a wan, sickly little smile.

"It is, and it isn't," she declared. "All depends on how you buy. If you buy high and sell low, you lose. If—"

Her message clicked:

"If you buy low and sell high you profit. Is that it?"

"Right-o" she affirmed, using the English inflection. "That's why this is a good time to find bargains in the market. Everything is low—"

"Evertything?"

"Everything but the rate of interest," she admitted, "and my opinion of the future. I have a very high regard for the future."

"That's something," I admitted; for, of a certainty, the future could never unfold anything like the nightmares of the past. As one who knows Luella's anguish of the past fortnight I am with her 100 per cent. The future must be sound and safe—even for democracy.

"So you think this is the time to play the market?" I asked, "figuring that the future is oak—as we say in the lumber business."

"If you are looking for a good place to put your money——"

"Yes, yes," I queried, all aglow, ready to hang on the words of this great financial genius, "What do you advise?"

• • • •

KNEE-DEEP in thought, she pondered. "There is an old maxim," she said, finally, "from the Chinese: 'Purchase always something people really need—the necessaries of life.' Take, for instance, silk stockings—"

Grateful beyond words, I kissed her hand. "You have given me an idea," I stammered, choked with emotion. I know where to put my money, or what there is of it."

"Where?" she asked, hoping perhaps she might locate the cache.

"In an old sock," I confided. "Then I'll hide it in the cellar."

"You can't go wrong on that," she agreed. "If you put it in the attic, it'll come down when you get it, and if you put it in the cellar it'll come up."

Thus, in a small compass, Luella, encased the law of speculation—and investment. What goes up must come down.

SASSCER FUNERAL TO BE HELD TODAY

Prince Georges Publisher Will Be Laid to Rest in Church Yard.

CHILL IS FATAL TO HIM

Funeral services for Frederick Sasscer, 73 years old, editor and publisher of the Marlboro Inquirer-Gazette and father of State Senator Lansdale G. Sasscer, will be held this morning at 11 o'clock at Trinity Episcopal Church, where he was senior warden. Burial will be in the church cemetery. The funeral will be attended by many members of the bar and county officials, as well as his host of friends.

Sasscer died Tuesday night at his home in Upper Marlboro. Although his health had been poor for some time, his death came unexpectedly. He visited Washington Monday, and on his return suffered a chill, which developed into pneumonia. He had been editor and publisher of the Marlboro Inquirer-Gazette for 50 years, and was once county superintendent of schools.

Sasscer was the son of the late Dr. Frederick Sasscer, who was clerk of the circuit court of Prince Georges County during the Civil War. He had been a lifelong resident of Upper Marlboro. He was senior warden of Trinity Church, where he had been a vestryman for more than 48 years.

Sasscer was well known in the county for his profound knowledge of the history of Prince Georges County and especially of the environs of Upper Marlboro. He could talk for hours on the subject of the old homes and historic spots near Upper Marlboro.

Surviving are three sons, State Senator Lansdale G. Sasscer, of Upper Marlboro; Frederick Harold Sasscer, a student in Baltimore, and James G. Sasscer, of Washington, and a daughter, Mrs. H. Rodgers Gore, of New York.

Ernest C. Mitchell, of Edmonston, yesterday was found guilty of assault and battery on his wife and held for action of the Prince Georges County grand jury on a charge of assault with intent to kill on Richard Sassnett, of Washington, by Judge J. Chew Sheriff in Hyattsville branch of Prince Georges County Police Court.

Mitchell was fined $25 on the assault and battery charge, which he appealed, and was held on bond of $1,000 for the grand jury charge. Bond was posted by Frank Mace, professional bondsman.

Mitchell is alleged to have stabbed Sassnett twice with a butcher knife at Mitchell's home, September 19, and to have beaten his wife when she attempted to interfere. He claimed that he had hidden in the cellar of his home and that he found Sassnett and Mrs. Mitchell in a compromising position.

The couple denied this and said that they were standing in the front room talking about a collection on a radio set, which Sassnett had called to collect when Mitchell entered with a butcher knife and assaulted Sassnett. Mitchell was arrested by Constable Andrew Gasch.

Fred Kopeck, of Berwyn, was fined $15 on charges of assault and battery and drunk and disorderly preferred by his wife. He was arrested by County Policeman Claude Reese. Luther Bookins, colored, of Washington, was fined $125 for manufacture and possession of intoxicants. He was arrested by Reese and Deputy Sheriff Ralph Brown while alleged to have been tending a ten-gallon still in a house near Cheverly Gardens.

A colored man who was picked up on the Baltimore pike by State police and turned over to Constable Andrew Gasch, yesterday appeared in Police Court and told Judge Sheriff that his name was Sam Johnson, of Seattle, Wash. He had been booked as John Doe because he was in such a befuddled condition that he could not give his name, police said. He was found on the side of the road and appeared to have been doped.

He told the court that he started out with a friend in an automobile from New York for Savannah and that he had two suitcases and $50 with him. He remembers nothing after leaving Baltimore, he said, and his property is missing. He was allowed to proceed and charges of being drunk on the public highway were dismissed.

Saturday morning will be devoted to a business session, followed by a luncheon at the Country Club and a drive to Sweet Briar College at Sweet Briar.

Funeral Rites Are Set For Automobile Victim

Special to The Washington Post.

Harrisonburg, Va., Oct. 30.—Funeral services for Mrs. Barbara Long, 71, who was killed yesterday when struck by an automobile on the main street of New Market, will be held at New Market tomorow afternoon. Mrs. Long was walking across the Valley pike in front of her home when knocked down.

James B. North, Loacum, Tex., driver of the machine, was exonerated by Dr. W. C. Ford, Shenandoah County coroner. He was en route to Washington at the time. Mrs. Long is survived by her husband, L. E. Long, veteran printer, and four children.

WOMEN ACCUSED OF THEFT OF AUTO

Held in Montgomery County Jail, Sisters Say Car Was Lent Them.

267 IN MOTOR GONE

Two young women, residents of Washington, yesterday were taken to the Rockville Jail by Montgomery County Policeman Joseph Nolte on a charge of larceny of an automobile. The women gave their names as Mrs. Marion Dorothy Williams, 24 years old, and Mrs. Frances Susie Petty, 21 years old, both of Fifth street near L northeast.

The women are sisters, they told State's Attorney Robert B. Peter, jr., when questioned at Rockville. They admitetd taking the automobile, police say, but denied any knowledge of $267 which had been reported missing with the car.

The complaint against the women was made by William Grant, of Wheaton, proprietor of a roadside stand on Georgia avenue near Silver Spring. Grant swore out warrants before Justice of the Peace Ward W. Caddington, of Silver Spring. He told police that he had been closing his store October 7, and had placed the money and his revolver in his automobile, when the two women stopped and made a small purchase. When they left they took the automobile with them, he said.

The women told a different story to State's Attorney Peter. They said that they had been "partying" with Grant at the store, and that he asked them to take the car home for him, as he was not in condition to drive. Mrs. Williams claimed that she took the car and drove to Wheaton and then returned to Washington, where she picked up her sister. The women said they then drove to Philadelphia and to New York on a three-week trip, returning to Washington about a week ago.

They had been living with their mother at the Fifth street address, they said, until they were arrested yesterday by police of the Thirteenth Precinct in Washington on a small traffic charge. The tags on the car had been changed, according to police. The women were lodged in the Rockville Jail in default of $250 bond each.

Archibald Lusby, 55 years old, of near Glenmont, was arrested last night on a charge of assault and battery on his wife, Mrs. Bessie I. Lusby, by Montgomery County Policeman Leroy Snyder, of the Silver Spring Substation. He was held without bond for action of the Police Court at Rockville November 7.

Snyder went to the Lusby home in response to a phone call. He found Lusby with a pistol and the wife hysterical, he reported. She told police that she feared for her life and that Lusby, a Spanish-American War veteran, had threatened her several times. Lusby said he was carrying the pistol because he had been robbed several times.

A moving picture program will be given at the East Silver Spring Elementary School tomorrow night at 7:30 o'clock under the auspices of the Parent-Teacher Association. The proceeds will be used to purchase equipment for the playground.

The Bethesda Community House, 201 Elm avenue, will be opened within a few days. A social service worker is to be employed who will be at the house several hours a day when it will be open for the children of the community. A library containing about 300 books and magazines is being prepared.

It is planned to have classes in stenography, dressmaking, basketry, home economics, first aid for mothers, cooking and art if enough interested persons can be found. Piano lessons will be provided for boys and gir
